Ammo Supply At War Front Termed Good

Byrd Voices Fear For U. S. Security

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Investigating senators heard from the new Army secretary today that ammunition supplies in Korea now are "in good shape," but sharp words were leveled at former Pentagon civilian chiefs and Army brass.

Referring to evidence of past shortages, Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said that if military leaders "conduct everything as they have this ammunition shortage, the country can have no confidence of security."

Have Been Shortages

Robert T. Stevens, secretary since last February, told the Senate subcommittee investigating the ammunition situation that while "it is clear in my mind there have been serious shortages" at the front lines in the past he now thinks:

1. The situation "is currently in good shape."

2. The stockpile of reserve ammunition which was almost exhausted before new production started is beginning to improve.

3. Three new plants now under construction to produce large caliber, 155 millimeter shells, will come into production six months ahead of schedule.

Stevens made no effort to challenge previous testimony by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former Eighth Army commander now retired, that shortages existed during the 22 months he was in command. But Stevens did say that by the time Van Fleet left Korea early this year the ammunition stocks at the battlefront were adequate.

Lovett, Pace Criticized

Although committee members praised Stevens' efforts since he took office, some of them were incisively critical of what had gone on before.

Byrd liked neither the way former Defense Secretary Robert Lovett and former Army Secretary Frank Pace were reported to have handled the ammunition situation nor the performance of uniformed Army officials.

Byrd said neither Lovett nor Pace had requried subordinates to keep them informed of the situation which developed into serious shortages during the first two years of the war, asserting they "were at fault in not asking that all matters of serious consequences be submitted directly to them."

Korea Fighting Simmers Down

SEOUL, Saturday, April 11 (AP)—The Korean War sputtered fitfully aloft and aground Friday while United Nations and Red liaison officers at Panmunjom ironed out problems for an exchange of sick and wounded.

Skirting the Panmunjom area on their way north, U. S. Sabre jet pilots tangled with MIG15 jets over Sinuiju and reported damaging two. U. S. Thunderjets destroyed seven buildings and set four fires in a supply buildup area 10 miles northwest of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Ground fighting simmered down after South Korean troops counterattacked early Friday and drove Chinese Reds off an outpost hill called Texas on the Central Front. The hill has been the scene of continuous fighting for a week.

The South Koreans estimated they killed 80 of about 250 Reds who attacked the outpost Thursday night and drove to the top.

Just outside the Panmunjom neutral area Friday, a Communist woman broadcaster harangued U. S. Marines over a loudspeaker and concluded by shouting:

"The war is over. To hell with Eisenhower."

Yugoslav Soccermen Refuse To Return

VIENNA, Austria, April 10. (AP)—Five members of a Yugoslav soccer team who came to Austria to play Easter holiday games refused to go home and have been given political asylum in the British zone, officials said tonight.

The five said they had been "continually spied upon and discriminated against" because they refused to join the Communist party in Communist, anti-Kremlin Yugoslavia.

Hall Takes GOP Reins

Issues Plea For Unity In Party Ranks

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The Republican National Committee elected Leonard W. Hall of New York as chairman today and then heard a plea from President Eisenhower to close ranks for the congressional election battle in 1954.

Eisenhower told the GOP high command there is no longer any room in the party for "Eisenhower Republicans or any other kind of Republicans." This brought a cheer.

His administration is working as a team, the President said, and although "there has been a whale of a lot in the papers" about differences among Republicans, these reports are just about as exaggerated as the report of Mark Twain's death was.

A former member of Congress from New York, Hall immediately announced his resignation as a surrogate judge of Nassau County, a post paying $25,000 a year. He said he was coming to Washington with his wife "and spend all the time that is necessary on this job."

He said he wouldn't take any pay but would rely on an income from a law practice at Mineola, N. Y. Roberts, his predecessor, had been paid at the rate of $32,500 annually.

Hall indicated to reporters there might be something of a staff shakeup at Republican headquarters. At a closed-door meeting of the national committee later, a resolution was pushed through asking all paid staff members to turn in resignations to be made effective at the new chairman's pleasure. The National Executive Committee also voted to put resignations on Hall's desk.

All Hands Round

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall and President Eisenhower appear to be executing a square dance figure in the White House Rose Garden yesterday as the President congratulates the new Republican National Committee chief while members of the National Committee smile and cheer. The President had been standing on the low stone at right to speak to the crowd, stepping down as Hall stepped up for the handshake.

Bohlen Is Due To Take Over Post Today

MOSCOW, April 10 (AP)—Charles E. Bohlen is due in Moscow tomorrow to take up his job as United States ambassador at a time when there appears to be a chance of halting the war in Korea and easing world tension.

The 48-year-old Bohlen will fill the top spot at the embassy that has been vacant nearly seven months. His predecessor George F. Kennan left here Sept. 18, for a short visit to the West. He never returned because the Russians declared him unacceptable on account of statements he made to reporters in Berlin on limitations to the movements of Western diplomats here.

During the important time of Stalin's death and the initial moves of the regime of Premier Georgi Malenkov the United States Embassy has been led by Charge d'Affaires Jacob Beam.

The Russian-speaking Bohlen is the eighth U. S. ambassador here since the United States and the Soviet Union resumed diplomatic relations in 1933 and the second State Department career man to fill the post. The three ambassadors before Kennan were military men.

Diplomats here are speculating over whether he may be bringing a personal message for Premier Malenkov from President Eisenhower.

FORT MEADE, Md., April 10 (AP)—Second Army headquarters today announced the layoff of 162 civilian workers here to meet the new May 31 personnel ceiling.

Hearing Today On Transfer Of Negro Mental Patients

TOWSON, Md., April 10 (AP)—Circuit Judge J. Howard Murray ruled for a full court hearing today in the controversy over proposed transfer of 285 Negro mental patients from Crownsville State Hospital to Rosewood State Training School.

No date was set for the trial, but Judge Murray asked attorneys for the opposing sides to agree on one as soon as possible.

The State's Department of Mental Hygiene had planned to transfer the patients on Jan. 19.

Rosewood is a special institution for the care of mental defectives—children, the specialists call them because of their low intelligence although many are well along in years and there are some with white hair. The institution near Reisterstown has always been limited to white patients.

Crownsville, on the other hand, has been used to take care of both "children" and patients who are mentally ill—insane.

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of mental hygiene, planned the transfer so all the mental defectives could be cared for in one institution. A legislative committee had suggested it as a means of increasing efficiency, reducing the expense, and eliminating a duplication of special staffs at two institutions.

The transfer was headed off, however, when the Rosewood Parents Association obtained an injunction in Baltimore County Circuit Court.

Gunmen Get $83,000 In Ga. Bank Holdup

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 10 (AP)—Three patient, hard-talking gunmen methodically turned a bank into an employes' prison for two hours today and then fled with $83,770 in cash obtained after they had outwaited a timelock on the main vault.

The three men—two masked and one unmasked—made their first, key capture at 6:45 a.m., when Bennie Love, a Negro porter, arrived to open the Southside Branch of the Citizens' and Southern National Bank.

He was forced at pistol point to admit the thieves and then as other employes came in, one by one, they were held up, marched to the rear of the bank and forced to sit on the floor in a rear hall, under guard by one or more of the gun-wielding marauders—and frequently warned that any outcry or even an effort to get up or look up would bring swift death by bullets.

As each man or woman came in, he was questioned as to whether he had the combination to the main vault.

Finally, the right man arrived—Thomas Glendinning, the chief clerk—and they forced him to agree to open the vault. Then they had to wait a while longer until the timeclock released the massive locking mechanism which protects the vault at night and will not yield to the combination.

After Glendinning opened the main vault, the pistols were brought forcefully into play again to compel Hulbert Fischer, head teller, to open the smaller money vault within the big one.

The thieves then rolled out three "money buses"—the metal cash carriers on wheels—taking them to the rear of the bank where they removed the currency, stuffing it into cloth bags.

Still swinging their pistols menacingly, they backed out a rear door only about 10 minutes before opening time and fled in a black car which had been parked nearby.

June Draft Calls For 266 Doctors

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The Defense Department today called for the drafting of 266 doctors and 145 dentists in June.

At the same time, the department lowered its previously announced doctor quota for May from 400 to 200.

All of the medical officers inducted in June will be assigned to the Army. The Army will also get 100 of the dentists, the remaining 45 going to the Air Force.

The May quota for dentists was unchanged. As previously announced, selective service was asked to provide 195 dentists for next month, 150 for the Army and 45 for the Air Force.

The June quotas and the revised call for next month raise to 5,212 the number of doctors drafted and to 2,666 the total number of dentists obtained or requested from selective service since July, 1951.

Md. Soldier Is Killed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, April 10 (AP)—The Army announced today that a Maryland soldier died last week in the European command.

He was identified as Sgt. Ray Mullican, who died of injuries suffered in a traffic accident at Talange, France. His wife was identified as Truth Neomi Mullican, RFD 7, Westminster, Md.

Fifth Atomic Test Scheduled Today

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 10 (INS)—Atomic Energy Commission officials announced tonight that the fifth atomic detonation will be set off at the Yucca Flat proving ground near Las Vegas before 5 a. m. (PST) tomorrow.

The terse announcement said that no troops, animals or automobiles will be used in the latest of the series of ten scheduled blasts.

Tomorrow's blast will be the second this week, possibly marking a speedup in the experiments.

UN Expected To Ditch Red 'Peace' Offer

Gross Tells West To Retain Strength

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 10 (AP) — American Delegate Ernest A. Gross called on the free world today to maintain its strength and unity. He described Moscow's recent gestures as "political weather-making, unpredictable in its nature."

Gross urged the 60-nation Political Committee to give a swift "no" to the demands of Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky that the Assembly accept the old-type Stalin plan for peace, only slightly revised, as a way out of the world's tensions. The plan is embodied in a Polish resolution.

Siding with Gross, Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, said the proposal is "perfectly dead—not only dead but rotten."

The committee adjourned until Monday but there is no chance the Polish resolution will be accepted. It may get only the Soviet bloc's five votes. It was endorsed and embroidered by Vishinsky yesterday.

The time will come when the Soviet government realizes the necessity for modifying its traditional "obstructive policies," Gross said.

The Polish resolution calls for an immediate cessation of hostilities in Korea. It urges both sides to resume talks on the prisoner of war issue and do everything possible to settle that problem. This is the only change from last year when the Poles and the Russians demanded the repatriation of every prisoner. The change takes into account the revised Communist Chinese stand on exchange of sick and wounded prisoners and repatriation of others, with those unwilling to go home to be handed to a neutral state pending a final settlement.

Gross said the adoption of any resolution on Korea now would not facilitate the talks at Panmunjom. He added the Assembly in times past had rejected the Communist bloc proposals for a one-third cut in armed forces of the Big Five and for prohibition of atomic weapons.

Social Security Head Retires

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Social Security Commissioner Arthur J. Altmeyer retired today, expressing hope Congress will carry out President Eisenhower's recommendation to extend social security insurance to additional millions.

Altmeyer had a hand in the drafting of the original social security legislation and has headed the program since 1937. He will be 62 on May 8.

In an interview today he spoke out for action this year to extend old age and survivors insurance to such people as farm operators and irregularly employed farm and domestic workers.

Altmeyer became a federal official in 1933 and prior to that for 11 years was secretary of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. He plans to return to Madison, Wis., to live.

Officials said William L. Mitchell, deputy commissioner, will become acting commissioner pending appointment by President Eisenhower of a successor to Altmeyer.

Mrs. Hobby Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby was unanimously approved by the Senate today to be the first secretary of health, education and welfare.

The attractive, dark-haired former newspaper publisher from Houston, Tex., will be sworn in tomorrow in President Eisenhower's office.

She will be the first woman Cabinet member since Frances Perkins was named secretary of labor by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Hobby, 48, will head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under Eisenhower's first government reorganization plan, the new department replaces the Federal Security Administration effective tomorrow. Mrs. Hobby, a Democrat who supported Eisenhower for president, has been federal security administrator.

Red Berlin Paper Decides U. S. Is Really A Nation

BERLIN, April 10 (AP)—A Communist-edited East Berlin newspaper today rejected as "unscientific" the opinion that the United States is "nothing but a hotel for bankrupt emigrants from Europe" and declared it is a real nation.

The Berliner Zeitung am Abend made the statement in concluding a discussion among readers on the question of whether the U. S. is to be considered a nation or not, which was touched off by the "unscientific" assertion of one S. Rieger.

It quoted from the writings of Stalin to prove its point. Said Stalin:

"The English and Americans once populated one and the same territory, England, and formed one nation. Then part of the English migrated from England to a new territory, to America, and formed here, on the new territory, in the course of time a new, the North American nation."

Therefore, said the Zeitung, "the answer can only be that the USA is in fact a nation."

Writer Refuses To Say Whether He Was Commie

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — A writer who has held a succession of federal jobs refused today to answer questions about Communists and their organizations, telling the Senate internal security subcommittee: "I refuse to be a finger man."

The witness was Henry H. Collins Jr. of Bronxville, N. Y., first to be called in what Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), subcommittee chairman, has described as a study of how Reds spun "a web of intrigue" inside government departments.

Subcommittee Counsel Robert Morris said the senators have evidence that Collins, a U. S. Army captain in World War II, once belonged to the Communist party.

While asserting he is not a Communist now, Collins declined to tell the senators whether he belonged to a Communist cell in the 1930s and whether he knew anyone on a long list of persons whose names were read to him. Morris said the subcommittee believed some of the persons were Communists but that no conclusions should be drawn from their mention at this time.

Collins did testify that when he applied for an Army commission in World War II he listed Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va), Oscar Chapman and Oscar Cox as references.

It was not brought out whether the Oscar Chapman mentioned was the former secretary of the interior in the Truman administration. Chapman could not be reached for comment immediately. Oscar S. Cox, who was general counsel for the Foreign Economic Administration in World War II, said he knew Collins slightly, but that if he was listed as a reference it was without his consent.

Probe Into Injury Of War Vet Sought

SNOW HILL, Md., April 10 (AP)—State's Attorney John L. Sanford Jr. has asked for a special session of the Worcester County grand jury to check into the black-jacking of a crippled war veteran by the town's police chief last Saturday night.

Sanford informed Judge E. MacMaster Duer it was "alleged Chief of Police Arthur Brittingham unmercifully and unnecessarily" assaulted 28-year-old John O. Blades.

Blades was charged with drunken driving, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Chief Brittingham told newsmen Blades grabbed him by the ear "and I had to crown him to break him away."

Action Paves Way For Early Resumption Of Truce Talks

Names Of Freed Prisoners Will Be Announced

MUNSAN, April 10 (AP) — The names of Americans and other Allied sick and wounded prisoners released by the Communists will be flashed to the world by major press associations soon after they cross the line at Panmunjom.

The U. N. Command announced today it is making an exception in its normal casualty reporting system and will let news agencies report the names of prisoners to their families before the Pentagon does it.

Normally casualties cannot be identified until the next of kin is notified by military authorities.

The Allied prisoners will be exchanged at Panmunjom and will be transported by ambulance and possibly by helicopters immediately to Freedom Village, a tent village outside Munsan.

At Freedom Village the prisoners will receive initial medical care and have their identification and records checked. It is here that the list of names will be compiled and telephoned to Tokyo, where the list will be released to news association and radio networks.

Russia To Help Get Civilians Released

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The State Department said today Russia has promised to help obtain the release of 13 Americans seized by North Korean Communists at the outbreak of the Korean War nearly three years ago.

The department said the Russian Foreign Office notified the American Embassy in Moscow last week end it would act in response to an appeal from U. S. Minister Jacob Beam.

"The Soviets have agreed to use their good offices," Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said, "to intercede with the North Koreans to see if these people can be released."

North Korean authorities claim they hold only seven of the Americans and do not know the whereabouts of the remaining six.

Most of the missing Americans are Roman Catholic (Maryknoll) and Methodist missionaries.

As part of its current peace offensive, Russia has helped arrange release of similar groups of British and French civilians held in North Korea or Communist China.

Wife Of Jet Ace Got Divorce Day He Was Shot Down

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 10 (AP)—The wife of Capt. Harold Fischer, United States double air ace, divorced him the same day he was shot down and reported captured by Communists.

Mrs. Dorothy Fischer charged mental cruelty with no specific mention, against the 27-year-old jet fighter pilot. District Judge Frank McNamee granted the divorce Tuesday, it was learned today.

Captain Fischer, one of the two hottest aces in Korea, was reported missing that same day. The Peiping radio claimed he parachuted from his plane and was captured.

Mrs. Fischer's attorney, William Sundean, said she left Las Vegas the day the divorce was granted. She now lives in San Antonio, Tex.

Boy, 4, Is Drowned

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Four-year-old Walter C. Krug, Jr., fell from a pipeline trestle and drowned in the Westport section of the harbor today.

The boy was playing with an older brother on the trestle when he slipped and fell in.

French Red Boss Secluded After Return From Russia

PARIS, April 10 (AP)—The mastermind of the French Communist party, Maurice Thorez, returned to France today after 29 months on sick leave in the Soviet Union but remained in sealed isolation.

When his tightly guarded railway car reached St. Quentin, 88 miles northeast of Paris, he was whisked away in an armor-plated sedan to an unknown destination.

His back door entrance disappointed thousands of Communists who have long awaited his return to take full control of the shrinking party and its switched policy of "national front" alliances. The 52-year-old former coal miner has been undergoing treatment in Moscow for a paralytic stroke.

In France, Thorez is viewed as a "moderate" Communist who favors a nationalistic popular front approach to social change. His return may well give the West an insight into Moscow's real intentions.

Trade To Include 120 Americans Who Are Ill, Wounded

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, April 11 (AP)—The Allies and Communists today signed an agreement for exchanging disabled Korean War captives beginning April 21.

The agreement was signed by Rear Adm. John C. Daniel and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho at 12:08 p.m. (10:08 p.m. EST, Friday).

The Communists will turn over only 600 Captives, including 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 Canadians, Greeks, Turks and Dutch and 450 South Koreans.

The U. N. Command will return 700 ailing Chinese and 5,100 North Koreans.

The signing of the disabled prisoner exchange pact could be the turning point in the long, drawn out truce talks at Panmunjom which are now in their 23rd month.

Reds Would Reopen Talks

Only yesterday the Communists signified their desire to reopen the full scale conversations which bogged down Last Oct. 8 over the issue of the repatriation of all prisoners of war held by the Allies and the Communists.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Commander, withheld comment on the latest Red bid for resumption of the truce talks, which was mainly a restatement of a proposal by Premier Chou En-lai on March 30.

Clark told the Reds March 31 that if the sick and wounded terms could be concluded he was prepared for his liaison officers to discuss reopening the truce talks as the second order of business.

New POW Proposal

Yesterday at Panmunjom the Reds handed over a letter they classified as "very important" from their chief truce negotiator, Gen. Nam Il, to the senior U. N. truce delegate, Gen. William K. Harrison.

It reiterated Chou's offer made to tackle the prisoner issue thus:

1. Send home immediately all prisoners insisting on it.

2. Hand over the rest to a "neutral state so as to assure a just solution to the question of their repatriation."

But Nam Il's letter backed up Chou's assertion that the 50,000 Reds listed by the Allies as unwilling to go home merely have been "subjected to intimidation and oppression" and would be freed from apprehension when confronted with "explanations."

Text Of Alleged Dulles Releases Not Obtainable

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — A State Department spokesman carefully sidestepped inquiries today as to whether Secretary of State Dulles was the source of a variety of news stories this week on Far Eastern policy problems of the Eisenhower administration.

Two Columbia Broadcasting System commentators, Eric Sevareid and Bill Costello, said last night the stories originated in a background session Dulles held with a number of reporters.

At a session with reporters today press officer Michael J. McDermott was asked whether it would be possible to get a text "of what Dulles said" at the meeting he was reported to have held, according to the questioner, Monday or Tuesday night with a group of reporters.

"If there was such a meeting," McDermott said, "I shall be glad to see what I can do. I've seen these stories but I have no first hand personal knowledge of the matter. I would venture to guess that it would not be possible to provide a text as in any meeting of that kind no verbatim records are kept."

Background meetings between government officials and newsmen seeking information on their ideas are fairly common in Washington. So are speculative or informed news accounts of policy thinking or decisions. What created extraordinary interest in the present situation was a White House denial of news stories which said:

1. The administration has decided to settle for the permanent partition of Korea at a narrow waist of that peninsula.

2. The administration was considering a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa, the island stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government.

After Glendinning opened the main vault, the pistols were brought forcefully into play again to compel Hulbert Fischer, head teller, to open the smaller money vault within the big one.

The thieves then rolled out three "money buses"—the metal cash carriers on wheels—taking them to the rear of the bank where they removed the currency, stuffing it into cloth bags.

Still swinging their pistols menacingly, they backed out a rear door only about 10 minutes before opening time and fled in a black car which had been parked nearby.

June Draft Calls For 266 Doctors

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The Defense Department today called for the drafting of 266 doctors and 145 dentists in June.

At the same time, the department lowered its previously announced doctor quota for May from 400 to 200.

All of the medical officers inducted in June will be assigned to the Army. The Army will also get 100 of the dentists, the remaining 45 going to the Air Force.

The May quota for dentists was unchanged. As previously announced, selective service was asked to provide 195 dentists for next month, 150 for the Army and 45 for the Air Force.

The June quotas and the revised call for next month raise to 5,212 the number of doctors drafted and to 2,666 the total number of dentists obtained or requested from selective service since July, 1951.

Md. Soldier Is Killed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, April 10 (AP)—The Army announced today that a Maryland soldier died last week in the European command.

He was identified as Sgt. Ray Mullican, who died of injuries suffered in a traffic accident at Talange, France. His wife was identified as Truth Neomi Mullican, RFD 7, Westminster, Md.

Hearing Today On Transfer Of Negro Mental Patients

TOWSON, Md., April 10 (AP)—Circuit Judge J. Howard Murray ruled for a full court hearing today in the controversy over proposed transfer of 285 Negro mental patients from Crownsville State Hospital to Rosewood State Training School.

No date was set for the trial, but Judge Murray asked attorneys for the opposing sides to agree on one as soon as possible.

The State's Department of Mental Hygiene had planned to transfer the patients on Jan. 19.

Rosewood is a special institution for the care of mental defectives—children, the specialists call them because of their low intelligence although many are well along in years and there are some with white hair. The institution near Reisterstown has always been limited to white patients.

Crownsville, on the other hand, has been used to take care of both "children" and patients who are mentally ill—insane.

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of mental hygiene, planned the transfer so all the mental defectives could be cared for in one institution. A legislative committee had suggested it as a means of increasing efficiency, reducing the expense, and eliminating a duplication of special staffs at two institutions.

The transfer was headed off, however, when the Rosewood Parents Association obtained an injunction in Baltimore County Circuit Court.

UN Expected To Ditch Red 'Peace' Offer

Gross Tells West To Retain Strength

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 10 (AP) — American Delegate Ernest A. Gross called on the free world today to maintain its strength and unity. He described Moscow's recent gestures as "political weather-making, unpredictable in its nature."

Gross urged the 60-nation Political Committee to give a swift "no" to the demands of Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky that the Assembly accept the old-type Stalin plan for peace, only slightly revised, as a way out of the world's tensions. The plan is embodied in a Polish resolution.

Siding with Gross, Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, said the proposal is "perfectly dead—not only dead but rotten."

The committee adjourned until Monday but there is no chance the Polish resolution will be accepted. It may get only the Soviet bloc's five votes. It was endorsed and embroidered by Vishinsky yesterday.

The time will come when the Soviet government realizes the necessity for modifying its traditional "obstructive policies," Gross said.

The Polish resolution calls for an immediate cessation of hostilities in Korea. It urges both sides to resume talks on the prisoner of war issue and do everything possible to settle that problem. This is the only change from last year when the Poles and the Russians demanded the repatriation of every prisoner. The change takes into account the revised Communist Chinese stand on exchange of sick and wounded prisoners and repatriation of others, with those unwilling to go home to be handed to a neutral state pending a final settlement.

Gross said the adoption of any resolution on Korea now would not facilitate the talks at Panmunjom. He added the Assembly in times past had rejected the Communist bloc proposals for a one-third cut in armed forces of the Big Five and for prohibition of atomic weapons.

Social Security Head Retires

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Social Security Commissioner Arthur J. Altmeyer retired today, expressing hope Congress will carry out President Eisenhower's recommendation to extend social security insurance to additional millions.

Altmeyer had a hand in the drafting of the original social security legislation and has headed the program since 1937. He will be 62 on May 8.

In an interview today he spoke out for action this year to extend old age and survivors insurance to such people as farm operators and irregularly employed farm and domestic workers.

Altmeyer became a federal official in 1933 and prior to that for 11 years was secretary of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. He plans to return to Madison, Wis., to live.

Officials said William L. Mitchell, deputy commissioner, will become acting commissioner pending appointment by President Eisenhower of a successor to Altmeyer.

Mrs. Hobby Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby was unanimously approved by the Senate today to be the first secretary of health, education and welfare.

The attractive, dark-haired former newspaper publisher from Houston, Tex., will be sworn in tomorrow in President Eisenhower's office.

She will be the first woman Cabinet member since Frances Perkins was named secretary of labor by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Hobby, 48, will head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under Eisenhower's first government reorganization plan, the new department replaces the Federal Security Administration effective tomorrow. Mrs. Hobby, a Democrat who supported Eisenhower for president, has been federal security administrator.

Fifth Atomic Test Scheduled Today

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 10 (INS)—Atomic Energy Commission officials announced tonight that the fifth atomic detonation will be set off at the Yucca Flat proving ground near Las Vegas before 5 a. m. (PST) tomorrow.

The terse announcement said that no troops, animals or automobiles will be used in the latest of the series of ten scheduled blasts.

Tomorrow's blast will be the second this week, possibly marking a speedup in the experiments.

Red Berlin Paper Decides U. S. Is Really A Nation

BERLIN, April 10 (AP)—A Communist-edited East Berlin newspaper today rejected as "unscientific" the opinion that the United States is "nothing but a hotel for bankrupt emigrants from Europe" and declared it is a real nation.

The Berliner Zeitung am Abend made the statement in concluding a discussion among readers on the question of whether the U. S. is to be considered a nation or not, which was touched off by the "unscientific" assertion of one S. Rieger.

It quoted from the writings of Stalin to prove its point. Said Stalin:

"The English and Americans once populated one and the same territory, England, and formed one nation. Then part of the English migrated from England to a new territory, to America, and formed here, on the new territory, in the course of time a new, the North American nation."

Therefore, said the Zeitung, "the answer can only be that the USA is in fact a nation."

Writer Refuses To Say Whether He Was Commie

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — A writer who has held a succession of federal jobs refused today to answer questions about Communists and their organizations, telling the Senate internal security subcommittee: "I refuse to be a finger man."

The witness was Henry H. Collins Jr. of Bronxville, N. Y., first to be called in what Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), subcommittee chairman, has described as a study of how Reds spun "a web of intrigue" inside government departments.

Subcommittee Counsel Robert Morris said the senators have evidence that Collins, a U. S. Army captain in World War II, once belonged to the Communist party.

While asserting he is not a Communist now, Collins declined to tell the senators whether he belonged to a Communist cell in the 1930s and whether he knew anyone on a long list of persons whose names were read to him. Morris said the subcommittee believed some of the persons were Communists but that no conclusions should be drawn from their mention at this time.

Collins did testify that when he applied for an Army commission in World War II he listed Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va), Oscar Chapman and Oscar Cox as references.

It was not brought out whether the Oscar Chapman mentioned was the former secretary of the interior in the Truman administration. Chapman could not be reached for comment immediately. Oscar S. Cox, who was general counsel for the Foreign Economic Administration in World War II, said he knew Collins slightly, but that if he was listed as a reference it was without his consent.

Probe Into Injury Of War Vet Sought

SNOW HILL, Md., April 10 (AP)—State's Attorney John L. Sanford Jr. has asked for a special session of the Worcester County grand jury to check into the black-jacking of a crippled war veteran by the town's police chief last Saturday night.

Sanford informed Judge E. MacMaster Duer it was "alleged Chief of Police Arthur Brittingham unmercifully and unnecessarily" assaulted 28-year-old John O.Blades.

Blades was charged with drunken driving, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Chief Brittingham told newsmen Blades grabbed him by the ear "and I had to crown him to break him away."

Action Paves Way For Early Resumption Of Truce Talks

Names Of Freed Prisoners Will Be Announced

MUNSAN, April 10 (AP) — The names of Americans and other Allied sick and wounded prisoners released by the Communists will be flashed to the world by major press associations soon after they cross the line at Panmunjom.

The U. N. Command announced today it is making an exception in its normal casualty reporting system and will let news agencies report the names of prisoners to their families before the Pentagon does it.

Normally casualties cannot be identified until the next of kin is notified by military authorities.

The Allied prisoners will be exchanged at Panmunjom and will be transported by ambulance and possibly by helicopters immediately to Freedom Village, a tent village outside Munsan.

At Freedom Village the prisoners will receive initial medical care and have their identification and records checked. It is here that the list of names will be compiled and telephoned to Tokyo, where the list will be released to news association and radio networks.

Russia To Help Get Civilians Released

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The State Department said today Russia has promised to help obtain the release of 13 Americans seized by North Korean Communists at the outbreak of the Korean War nearly three years ago.

The department said the Russian Foreign Office notified the American Embassy in Moscow last week end it would act in response to an appeal from U. S. Minister Jacob Beam.

"The Soviets have agreed to use their good offices," Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said, "to intercede with the North Koreans to see if these people can be released."

North Korean authorities claim they hold only seven of the Americans and do not know the whereabouts of the remaining six.

Most of the missing Americans are Roman Catholic (Maryknoll) and Methodist missionaries.

As part of its current peace offensive, Russia has helped arrange release of similar groups of British and French civilians held in North Korea or Communist China.

Trade To Include 120 Americans Who Are Ill, Wounded

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, April 11 (AP)—The Allies and Communists today signed an agreement for exchanging disabled Korean War captives beginning April 21.

The agreement was signed by Rear Adm. John C. Daniel and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho at 12:08 p.m. (10:08 p.m. EST, Friday).

The Communists will turn over only 600 Captives, including 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 Canadians, Greeks, Turks and Dutch and 450 South Koreans.

The U. N. Command will return 700 ailing Chinese and 5,100 North Koreans.

The signing of the disabled prisoner exchange pact could be the turning point in the long, drawn out truce talks at Panmunjom which are now in their 23rd month.

Reds Would Reopen Talks

Only yesterday the Communists signified their desire to reopen the full scale conversations which bogged down Last Oct. 8 over the issue of the repatriation of all prisoners of war held by the Allies and the Communists.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Commander, withheld comment on the latest Red bid for resumption of the truce talks, which was mainly a restatement of a proposal by Premier Chou En-lai on March 30.

Clark told the Reds March 31 that if the sick and wounded terms could be concluded he was prepared for his liaison officers to discuss reopening the truce talks as the second order of business.

New POW Proposal

Yesterday at Panmunjom the Reds handed over a letter they classified as "very important" from their chief truce negotiator, Gen. Nam Il, to the senior U. N. truce delegate, Gen. William K. Harrison.

It reiterated Chou's offer made to tackle the prisoner issue thus:

1. Send home immediately all prisoners insisting on it.

2. Hand over the rest to a "neutral state so as to assure a just solution to the question of their repatriation."

But Nam Il's letter backed up Chou's assertion that the 50,000 Reds listed by the Allies as unwilling to go home merely have been "subjected to intimidation and oppression" and would be freed from apprehension when confronted with "explanations."

Wife Of Jet Ace Got Divorce Day He Was Shot Down

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 10 (AP)—The wife of Capt. Harold Fischer, United States double air ace, divorced him the same day he was shot down and reported captured by Communists.

Mrs. Dorothy Fischer charged mental cruelty with no specific mention, against the 27-year-old jet fighter pilot. District Judge Frank McNamee granted the divorce Tuesday, it was learned today.

Captain Fischer, one of the two hottest aces in Korea, was reported missing that same day. The Peiping radio claimed he parachuted from his plane and was captured.

Mrs. Fischer's attorney, William Sundean, said she left Las Vegas the day the divorce was granted. She now lives in San Antonio, Tex.

Boy, 4, Is Drowned

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Four-year-old Walter C. Krug, Jr., fell from a pipeline trestle and drowned in the Westport section of the harbor today.

The boy was playing with an older brother on the trestle when he slipped and fell in.

French Red Boss Secluded After Return From Russia

PARIS, April 10 (AP)—The mastermind of the French Communist party, Maurice Thorez, returned to France today after 29 months on sick leave in the Soviet Union but remained in sealed isolation.

When his tightly guarded railway car reached St. Quentin, 88 miles northeast of Paris, he was whisked away in an armor-plated sedan to an unknown destination.

His back door entrance disappointed thousands of Communists who have long awaited his return to take full control of the shrinking party and its switched policy of "national front" alliances. The 52-year-old former coal miner has been undergoing treatment in Moscow for a paralytic stroke.

In France, Thorez is viewed as a "moderate" Communist who favors a nationalistic popular front approach to social change. His return may well give the West an insight into Moscow's real intentions.

Text Of Alleged Dulles Releases Not Obtainable

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — A State Department spokesman carefully sidestepped inquiries today as to whether Secretary of State Dulles was the source of a variety of news stories this week on Far Eastern policy problems of the Eisenhower administration.

Two Columbia Broadcasting System commentators, Eric Sevareid and Bill Costello, said last night the stories originated in a background session Dulles held with a number of reporters.

At a session with reporters today press officer Michael J. McDermott was asked whether it would be possible to get a text "of what Dulles said" at the meeting he was reported to have held, according to the questioner, Monday or Tuesday night with a group of reporters.

"If there was such a meeting," McDermott said, "I shall be glad to see what I can do. I've seen these stories but I have no first hand personal knowledge of the matter. I would venture to guess that it would not be possible to provide a text as in any meeting of that kind no verbatim records are kept."

Background meetings between government officials and newsmen seeking information on their ideas are fairly common in Washington. So are speculative or informed news accounts of policy thinking or decisions. What created extraordinary interest in the present situation was a White House denial of news stories which said:

1. The administration has decided to settle for the permanent partition of Korea at a narrow waist of that peninsula.

2. The administration was considering a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa, the island stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government.

Peron Aide Is Purged From Party After Duarte Suicide

PURGE — Col. Domingo Mercante, former governor of Buenos Aires province and once heir-apparent to Argentine President Juan D. Peron, was purged from the Peronista party yesterday as a rumor monger.

BUENOS AIRES, April 10 (AP)—Col. Domingo Mercante, former governor of Buenos Ajres province and once heir apparent to President Juan D. Peron was purged by the Peronista party today on rumor mongering.

The party machine clamped down on Mercante and seven former members of Congress after top Peronista labor leaders bluntly warned the President that wild rumors against his administration were knifing him in the back and workers were growing restless in the whirl of inflationary prices.

The purge followed by a day the suicide of Juan Duarte, Peron's brother-in-law, who left a letter saying he was being hounded by defamers.

In the present economic and political crisis, once again Argentina's politically organized General Confederation of Labor, claiming six million members, has stepped into the open as a dominant power.

To stop run away inflation Peron has promised new ceiling prices which he said would be enforced with guns if necessary.

CGT leaders met with Peron last week and presented him with an ultimatum that he must preserve the workers' larder at all costs and must move quickly to get rid of grafters and profiteers in high government posts.

On Wednesday Peron, in a tough radio speech, denounced traitors and bribetakers among his advisers.

He also ordered a hold-the-line price code, pointing to 50 per cent increases in the past few weeks. He predicted no force could overthrow him.

German Reds Call Adenauer "Frog"

BERLIN, April 10 (AP)—East Germany's ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party today called Chancellor Konrad Adenauer "an inflated frog" and said his speech before the National Press Club at Washington was a "climax of stupidity and mental confusion."

The official party newspaper, Neues Deutschland, said Adenauer, "Wall Street's most reliable Quisling in Europe," had gone to the United States for purposes of "provocation and aggression." It said the climax of his visit to Washington was "that he was allowed to speak before American newspapermen on "the principles of his policy."

Walter Seeks Top State Legion Post

CAMBRIDGE, Md., April 10 (AP)—American Legion Post 91 today started the ball rolling in the campaign to make one of its leaders, Postmaster J. Edward Walter, state Legion commander.

The new state commander will be elected at the annual convention of the Maryland department in September.

Search For TR's 'Big Stick' Ends; Admirer Has It

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—The late President Theodore Roosevelt's "big stick," object of a search, has been found here.

Admirers presented the knotted club to him years ago in recognition of his famous words, "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

Spry, 82-year-old Joseph Kertz, for many years a Long Island railroad conductor, returned from his winter home in Clearwater, Florida, yesterday and said he had it.

He said Roosevelt, who rode the Long Island, gave it to him shortly after the President's White House term expired in 1909.

Kertz said the stick was made from an uprooted tree, polished and inscribed, by Dr. S. D. Merriam of Rutland, Vermont. It was presented to Roosevelt by residents of a Long Island community which changed its name from Greenwich Point to Roosevelt in his honor.

Canary birds were named for the Canary islands.

Ford To Furlough 45,000 Due To Strike

DETROIT, April 10 (AP) — The Ford Motor Company said today it expects to lay off 45,000 men in factories across the country by Monday because of the small parts strike at its Monroe, Mich., plant.

Management said the layoffs were forced by the shutting off of supplies by a nine-day-old walkout at the Monroe Parts and Equipment Plant where Local 173 of the CIO United Auto Workers has been on strike at Monroe since April 2 in a speed-up grievance.

Ford said all its Ford Division assembly operations will be closed across the country on Monday except for the plants at Richmond and Long Beach, Calif.

Studio Fires Lanza

HOLLYWOOD, April 10 (AP) — MGM Studio today fired Mario Lanza after a year of bickering with the eccentric tenor.

"Lanza has been shown every consideration over the months' 'The Student Prince' has been scheduled and rescheduled," said Dore Schary, studio head in announcing the singer's dismissal. "His latest demands are unacceptable."

Arctic Visibility Problems Puzzle Experimenters

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — How can you make a man invisible, or nearly so, against a background of arctic snows which are so glaringly white that a white-clad or white painted object shows up as a shadow?

And how can you make a man visible in an arctic "white-out"—a pall of frozen fog which limits sight to a few feet?

In search of the answers, experimenters at the University of California have rigged up an instrument which can detect a human being 100 feet away by the amount of heat his body gives off.

The instrument is an offshoot of the wartime "snooperscopes" and "sniperscopes" which made tiny amounts of infra-red or heat radiation visible. The Germans used them to detect their enemies working under cover of darkness. Toward the end of World War II the United States also developed such an instrument.

The gadget produced here was made for a research team including Prof. R. V. Dunkle, J. T. Gier, A. J. Test, and J. T. Bevans. They are working on a phase of the arctic survival problem assigned by the Snow, Ice and Permafrost Research Establishment of the Army Corps of Engineers.

For camouflage or invisibility they look for materials that will radiate at a minimum in cold weather. For arctic "white-outs" they want something that will radiate enough to make a person visible in the frozen fog.

Ike And Latin America

The new administration's attitude toward Latin America is expected to be illuminated by President Eisenhower in a talk at the Pan American Union Building in Washington on Sunday. Concern over the growth of super-nationalism and communism in states south of the border was expressed on January 27 by Mr. Dulles in his first foreign policy speech as secretary of State.

"There are strong Communist movements in South America and Fascist influences in some quarters which are working away, largely underground so far, and they're trying to destroy the traditional friendship between the people of the American republics," Dulles said. "The past administration has been so preoccupied with some of these problems of Europe and Asia and Africa . . . that I fear it may have somewhat neglected South America and taken it for granted that we could forget about South America for a time and then go back again and find everything the same as it was before."

Latin Americans in general demonstrated in World War II the "traditional friendship" referred to by Dulles. Immediately after Pearl Harbor, nine Latin American governments declared war on the Axis powers—Costa Rica, Cuba, and Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama. In 1942 and 1943 Mexico, Brazil, Bolivia, Colombia followed suit. By the end of the war all except Argentina had come in on the side of the Allies. Brazil sent an expeditionary force to Italy, and a Mexican air squadron fought in the Pacific.

Latin America could take over a large share of Western Hemisphere defense if given adequate military and economic aid now, Lt. Gen. Bolte, deputy Army chief of staff and Inter-American Defense Board chairman, told a Senate group in August 1951. During World War II, he testified, 100,000 U. S. troops had been tied up in Latin America.

The Monroe Doctrine was broadened from a unilateral guarantee to a multilateral agreement by the Act of Chapultepec, promulgated in March 1945. The Chapultepec stand was incorporated in the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance of September 1947:

"Every act of aggression by a state against the territorial integrity or the inviolability of the territory or against the sovereignty or political independence of an American state shall be considered an act of aggression against the other American states."

That guarantee was written into the charter of the Organization of American States, adopted at Bogota in 1948.

Communists have stepped up activity in Latin America since World War II, most notably perhaps under the leftist government of Guatemala. Peron of Argentina has been trying to form nationalist Latin American blocs, most successfully with the new government of Chile.

In 1951 Congress voted all but $3 million of the $62 million requested by the Truman administration for military and economic aid for Latin America. For 1952 the administration asked $84 million, got $78 million. Meantime, in 1952, arms agreements were being negotiated with Ecuador, Peru, Cuba, Brazil, Chile, Colombia.

Colombia and Cuba have ground troops fighting under the UN command in Korea; Costa Rica, El Salvador, Panama have offered troops. Colombia also has sent naval forces, and Panama, sea transports. Costa Rica has furnished sea and air bases; Panama has offered training bases. Bolivia has offered a group of army officers and Nicaragua unspecified personnel, while other states have furnished medical supplies and strategic materials.

Don't Breathe It

There should be no shortage of volunteers who help New York police perform an experiment. What is wanted requires no special skill, doesn't call for hard work; many people don't consider it unpleasant. The job: get drunk. Police are now engaged in testing an $845 machine, said to be already in use by about 50 American cities, designed to test the amount of alcohol in a subject's blood.

If you take the test, you are asked to breathe into the machine. A reading of .05 per cent means you have only a mild glow; but .15 per cent means that you aren't fit to drive, other things being equal. The New York legislature has just passed a bill ordering the suspension of the driver's license of anybody who refuses to submit to the test if police ask him to.

Philosophers, poets, and wags have argued over what constitutes drunkeness. If a machine can answer the question, more power to it. If it can help protect the public against the very real and serious menace of drunken driving, all the better. But it is hoped that science won't stop short there.

Automobiles already have such safety factors as four-wheel hydraulic brakes, all-steel bodies, and safety glass. Why not a built-in drunkometer—a device that keeps continual tabs on the blood concentration of alcohol in the driver, and automatically switches off the ignition as soon as it reaches the danger point?

That shouldn't be difficult to invent. Ask any reader of science fiction.

"Reasonable" Russia

The cold war of the last seven years was by its very nature unstable. It had to result in a hot war, in a cold war victory for one side, or in at least a partial truce. Marxist doctrine considers a postwar period ideal for the spread of Communist power—and postwar periods do not last forever.

In words and in at least the promise of deeds, Soviet policy has become almost day by day, more conciliatory since Stalin's death. There has been a sharp reduction in abuse of the United States, too. It may be that Communist policy for the future is not yet settled, but trial balloons are going up to test American reaction.

There are clues suggesting that what Malenkov wants now is a period of consolidation, during which Russia can appease her own people, avoid new foreign adventures, and wait for another period of opportunity. A temporary period of "coexistence" might let the "inner contradictions" of capitalism operate to the advantage of communism; and it might give communism time to overcome its own inner contradictions.

Peace, the Kremlin firmly believes, might bring on an American depression. It might cause non-Communist unity to break up in a struggle for advantage. There is no alternative to a course of making the most of any peace prospects Russia holds out. But Americans must never forget that Russia is constantly poised to strike from within or from without.

How To Keep Well

Nature's Best: Breastfeeding

The pendulum on infant feeding has swung back toward breast milk; artificial feeding is no longer considered the smart thing. Even tho many of the calculated formulas are excellent and easy to prepare, our young mothers are convinced that nature's way is best.

There are advantages and disadvantages in both methods but when one is compared with the other, the odds favor breastfeeding. This type of milk is ideal. It usually satisfies the nutritional needs of the little tike, the composition of its food elements is made to order for the infant's stomach. The artificial mixture comes close but to do so various substances are added. As a result, the formula is not always perfect and when the child rebels changes are necessary. But that is not all. Mother's milk is always fresh, clean, and of the right temperature. It is economical, easily accessible, and available in the right amount. Moreover, it contains antibodies that protect the youngster from certain diseases and some studies show that it helps reduce the incidence of gastrointestinal disturbances.

Breast milk also has many psychological advantages. For the mother, there is real happiness to be derived from the process; it leads to a sense of accomplishment. Emotional stability and security are offered the baby by this procedure. One of the main arguments against breastfeeding is that the activities of the mother are restricted. This is not necessarily true because most breastfed babies can be given a bottle for one feeding; for example, on Saturday night, when the parents are going out for the evening.

Many mothers stop nursing while still in the hospital because they believe their milk supply is inadequate and they are afraid the tike will lose too much weight. This reasoning is faulty because all babies lose weight in the first week and it is not unusual for the milk production to develop slowly. Patience is needed because the child will not starve to death even tho the milk does not appear in the first four days. Furthermore, the more the mother worries, the less milk there is likely to be.

Another pitfall is sore nipples. This condition has a tendency to occur when the mother fails to prepare the breasts for nursing prior to delivery or allows the baby to nurse too long in the first few days after birth. The process should be started slowly, three to four minutes at most. Unless this is done the nipples are bound to become sore.

SLEEPLESS

L. A. Z. writes: How long can a person go without sleep?

REPLY

There is little accurate information on this subject. According to Gould and Pyle, the length of time is approximately the same as one is able to survive without food. Other writers say that dogs die after 14 days of sleeplessness. Most of the extreme examples of sleepless spells lasting weeks and months are not true becaue careful watch usually reveals that catnaps are taken periodically.

HEART MANIFESTATION

J. L. writes: I've consulted a doctor about spells of racing pulse and skipping beats. He tells me my heart is in good shape. Have you any suggestions, as these symptoms scare me.

REPLY

I'll agree that the condition is scary but when the heart is normal, there is no need to be overly concerned. In this respect you are fortunate and if everything possible is done to quiet the old ticker the attacks are likely to lessen in frequency.

WORRIED MOTHER

Mrs. D. C. writes: I have a lovely 18-month-old baby, very good and smart, but she will not eat when I feed her. She will eat when my husband feeds her or when she is alone. She is attached to me and does not want me out of her sight and I show her a lot of love and affections. Please advise me where I have made a mistake.

REPLY

When you have more children you will appreciate their normal behavior problems and individual peculiarities. So long as the child is healthy and happy, let her alone. Feeding problems are common at this age and the less attention paid to them the better.

BLADDER EXAM

T. G. writes: What is a cystoscopic examination?

REPLY

In this examination the bladder is studied with a long tube containing a light at one end and a magnifying lens at the other (the cystoscope). With this instrument every nook and cranny in the organ can be studied in detail to determine the presence of stone, tumor, or inflammation of the wall.

NERVOUS RASH

J. T. writes: How long does it take to cure neurodermatitis?

REPLY

As soon as the cause for the tension is discovered and eliminated, the rash disappears promptly. In others, it lingers for months or years or has a tendency to come and go with each emotional upheaval.

Secretary Dulles Turns Deaf Ear To Russian Expert Kennan; McCarthy Worries Over Losing Headlines; Congressmen Invented Excuses For Easter Junkets

WASHINGTON—During the current intense interest in the Russian peace maneuvers, Secretary of State Dulles has almost completely ignored the advice of his best Russian expert, ex-Ambassador George Kennan.

Kennan has spent a lifetime studying Russia, and his predictions on Soviet developments have been amazingly accurate. He predicted the Chinese Communists would intervene in Korea if General MacArthur sent troops up to the Yalu River, and he predicted the Russians would develop the atomic bomb far more quickly than the experts ever expected.

Finally Kennan predicted that a Russian peace offensive was sure to follow Stalin's death.

Despite this record, the new Secretary of State is giving Kennan the deep-freeze treatment, and Kennan will soon return to his teaching job at Princeton.

Dulles got sore at Kennan when he cautioned against active psychological warfare encouraging satellite peoples to revolt. This was one of Eisenhower's and Dulles' chief campaign themes.

But Kennan disagreed, argued that it was foolish, if not disastrous, to encourage revolution before the United States was ready to help the satellites — in other words, ready for war. If the satellites were crushed, he argued, it would mean they could not rise again for 50 years.

Dulles got especially sore when Kennan made a speech against psychological warfare, released to the press prior to a speech by Dulles for psychological warfare. Because the speech had been sent to the press in advance, Kennan felt he had to go through with it despite Dulles' contrary views. After that it was decided that he was not to be ambassador to Egypt—or anyplace else.

"High-Class" Probe

Despite all the pledges to cut out duplication and waste, the Senate is carrying on two duplicate investigations of the government's Overseas Information Program—one by Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, the other by Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Since Hickenlooper was first in the field, he came out with the first report—which disturbed McCarthy no end. When his chief counsel, Roy Cohn read excerpts from the Hickenlooper report to McCarthy over the phone, McCarthy anxiously asked whether this would take the publicity edge off their own investigation.

"Don't worry, chief," assured Cohn, "Hickenlooper is running a high-class investigation."

Easter Junkets

Congressmen aren't supposed to travel at the taxpayers' expense unless they swear it's "official business." So when Congress recessed for Easter, the majority admitted they were going home on vacation and paid their own expenses. However, five Congressmen had the gall to claim "official business" in their home districts, and a few others took off on free, round-the-world Easter tours.

Of course, the Air Force doesn't question a Congressman's word. So when Indiana's Republican Rep. William Bray swore he had "official business" in Terre Haute and Bloomington, Ind., the Air Force dutifully wheeled out a special plane and flew him home for Easter. The cost to the taxpayers was an estimated $1,500, not counting the salaries of the crew and the wear on the plane.

Congressman William Mailliard, California Republican, claimed he had to "inspect veterans hospitals" in the San Francisco area, which happens to be his home town, while Congressman Robert Condon, California Democrat, swore he had to look into the "disposal of surplus property" in Sacramento, which is the nearest surplus property to his Walnut Creek, Calif., home. The Air Force promptly arranged free passage for the two Californians via Military Air Transport Service.

Two Louisiana Democrats, Representatives Ed Hebert and Overton Brooks, also asked for free transportation to do work in Louisiana for the House Armed Services Committee. However, they were more considerate of the taxpayers' money and turned down a special plane. Instead they waited until they could hitch a ride on an Air Force plane, already going in their direction. Actually this cost the taxpayer no extra money. Hebert finally caught a ride directly to his home in New Orleans, but the closest Brooks could get was Little Rock, Ark. Then he thumbed another air ride to Memphis, Tenn., and finally caught an Air Force plane going to his home in Shreveport.

Most legitimate Easter junket was arranged by Congressmen Dan Reed, New York Republican, and Harold Cooley, North Carolina Democrat, who caught a ride back to Europe with Gen. Al Gruenther in order to attend the Interparliamentary Union Conference at Monaco, France.

However, members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee decided to spend the Easter recess touring the world. They split up into two groups, headed by Congressmen Walter Judd of Minnesota and Lawrence Smith of Wisconsin, and took off for both Europe and the Far East to study "the military aspects of the mutual security program."

Judd was accompanied by Republican Chester Merrow of New Hampshire, and Democrats A. S. J. Carnahan of Missouri and Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin. Smith's group included Winston Prouty of Vermont, Albert Morano of Connecticut, and Marguerite Church of Illinois, all Republicans, with Democrat Burr Harrison of Virginia.

Washington Pipeline

The Air Force will soon be building jet planes faster than the oil industry can produce the fuel to operate them. The military demand for jet fuel next year is expected to be double present needs. Yet the oil companies still haven't started expanding their facilities or revising production schedules—which must be done to avoid a jet fuel shortage in 1954. . . . The nation's whiskey dealers are threatening to boycott any brand that won't give them an increased mark-up. This may mean higher prices. . . . In spite of the amazing progress on nuclear reactors, government planners don't expect atomic energy to replace coal as the principal source of power in this country for another 20 years. . . . The mortgage debt on private homes hit an all-time peak this year—over $58,000,000,000. Yet Senator Capehart of Indiana is planning to boost interest rates. . . . The nation's chiefs of police are clamoring for more traffic cops to patrol the highways. Only one motorist is getting ticketed for every 118 miles of patrolled highway, and police chiefs want to cut this down to one arrest or warning for every 40 miles. . . . Secretary of Agriculture Benson proposes using more surplus food for the school lunch program. It's now feeding 10,000,000 kids every noon hour. . . . The Army has developed a new, scientific shoe-sizing system which should give GI's more comfortable shoes and curtail blisters. The new shoes will come in eight sizes, measured to fit almost any feet. . . . Secretary of Commerce Weeks has just about decided to scrap the government's whole merchant shipbuilding program to keep his budget down.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Is It A Crime?

Some time ago, I wrote that it is not a crime in this country to be a Communist and that I could not understand why so many of them took refuge in the Fifth Amendment on the ground that to testify would incriminate them.

So I was overwhelmed by letters pro and con; some from distinguished lawyers who explained the intricacies of the problem; some from laymen who insist that to be a Communist is criminal per se.

A crime cannot be defined by private opinion; it is defined by an act of legislation. Privately we may hold that for a woman to dye her hair is a crime, but as no legislative body has so stipulated, it is not a crime. Under the federal government, a crime may be treason, a felony or a misdemeanor.

Some letter-writers make the point that a Communist is ipso facto a traitor, but what they overlook is that it is the courts alone who can decide this with respect to the individual concerned. The accepted definition of treason is:

". . . Treason against the United States has been defined by the United States Constitution as levying war against the United States or adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort . . ."

To be declared a traitor, a man must be indicted by a grand jury, tried by due process in a court of law, convicted and sentenced. Less than this process is impossible under the American way of life.

The Communist situation has become complicated by the fact that there is no law making membership in the Communist party a crime. But the Smith Act, tested in the case of "The Eleven" in New York before Judge Harold Medina, and upheld by the United States Supreme Court, did establish that Eugene Dennis and his comrades did conspire to organize the Communist party as a group to teach and advocate the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence.

Here then is a conflict of ideas, namely, that while it is not a crime to be a member of the Communist party, it is a crime to organize to teach and advocate the overthrow of the American government by force and violence. A lawyer writes me that were a Communist client to seek his advice, he would therefore be forced to advise his client to take refuge in the Fifth Amendment.

Another point that is made by a lawyer deserves quotation:

". . . Under the present decisions of the Supreme Court, if a person once answers that he is not a member of the Communist party, it would probably be held that he had waived all his right to refuse to answer any other questions whatsoever about Communism . . ."

However, if a person has not performed an act against the United States, why should he not be willing to answer questions concerning communism, the answers being designed to aid the United State? For example, suppose I happened to witness a murder, but no one saw me witness it, should I not notify the police, lest I be questioned about myself and why I was there?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A first-class mystery revolving around an off-the-record conference with several newspapermen by a person in the confidence of the Eisenhower Administration has stirred up a series of denials and counterdenials as to what the future policy of the United States is going to be toward a divided Korea and the status of Formosa.

First of all, it may be said that, whatever the explorations or discussions inside the administration, no conclusions have been reached. The White House denial of a New York Times story used that very language as follows:

"The administration has never reached any conclusio. that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or feasible or consistent with the decisions of the United Nations."

Dispatches from Washington to the New York Times and other newspapers, which came from a responsible source who gave the information but would not allow himself to be quoted or identified—indicated that in a future negotiation the United States might be willing to let the boundary between North and South Korea be fixed at about eighty miles North of the 38th parallel so as to take in a balanced area of economic resources.

But such a division means on its face that the United States would be deserting the objective of the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, which called for an independent and unified Korea.

Change Of Policy

Why, therefore, was the idea brought forward in the discussion with the press? This is not readily explained except on one possible basis—that the man who did the talking didn't make himself clear and was merely explaining possible ways that a negotiation might be approached when the time comes for such a parley.

But even this does not disclose why it was considered necessary to explore the subject with the press at all—unless the man who did it never thought it would appear in print and was just talking out loud, so to speak, as he unfolded his thoughts confidentially to the correspondents.

What is important is not what this news source was speculating about but what the policy toward Korea finally will be. The word from the White House is that no "conclusion" has been reached. This in itself will be disquieting news. It could mean that the group inside the administration which wants to cut military spending, reduce taxes and end the war by any means possible has been making headway and that the subject matter of such discussions is very much in the minds of administration officials, so that persons informed as to what is going on naturally talk about all possibilities with no indication as to how the discussion finally will turn out.

Fantastic Proposal

Another important item mentioned as part of the same information conveyed to the press relates to a UN trusteeship for Formosa. This was mentioned as a compromise solution. But it is a fantastic suggestion. For it would mean that Chiang's troops would some day have to be driven out of Formosa by the UN, and this is hardly something the United States could embark upon. Also, Red China, if in supreme control of the mainland of China, isn't going to consent to an independent status for Formosa, since this territory was promised to China itself by the Cairo declaration to which the United States was a signatory.

If the two reported moves were really the American policy, it would amount to a far Eastern Munich. Mere publication of such a possiblity is bound to be harmful at this stage of the Russian peace adventure, when it isn't wise to tip our hand no matter what we have in mind. It seems incredible that John Foster Dulles would care to remain as Secretary of State if his views on the Far East were reversed to the extent that the newspaper reports would indicate they might be if the "conclusion" is to adopt policies that mean appeasement of the Communists.

Political Convulsion

It is impossible, for instance, to measure exactly how many square miles of territory would remain in the hands of the North Korean Communists as a "buffer" or "puppet" state for the Communists. But it would be a big slice of Korean territory. Does anyone think South Korea could be pacified by such a move? For it would mean that aggressors would be rewarded by being ceded a large piece of territory and, if the Red Chinese were seated in the UN, it would all add up to a very remarkable victory for the Communists and a defeat for the American viewpoint.

Certainly, if anything like that happens, it will be difficult to keep a draft law on the statute books. For to send American boys abroad to be killed in such shenanigans of diplomatic trickery and appeasement would produce a major political convulsion, and somebody would have to begin writing letters of abject apology to the relatives of the 130,000 American boys who have become casualties in Korea. If to divide up Korea and give a big gift of land to the Communists is what happens after "resisting aggression" in Korea, then such slogans become doubletalk.

It is gratifying to learn that the White House has not approved any such policy of appeasement as was reported to be under "consideration" or under "discussion," whatever the correct word for it really was.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The newly announced additional treatment for leukemia (cancer of the blood), a chemical named 6-mercaptopurine, has caused great excitement in circles dedicated to the riddance of the scourge from man.

The new chemical, unlike several more or less recently developed cancer treatments, was in no way accidentally arrived at. It is a product of years of thoughtful research in the infinitesimal realm of human cells and the "building blocks" of which they are composed. Incredibly, 6-mercaptopurine is believed to damage cancer cells by somehow obstructing their manufacture of nucleic acids —vital to their reproduction and spread.

The new treatment, it must be repeated, is a treatment, not a cure. It was produced by Drs. George H. Hitchings and Gertrude B. Elion of the Wellcome Research Laboratories, and first tested by the Sloan-Kettering Institute's division of experimental chemotherapy. It created a stir by killing off most of the cells in the standard test cancer (sarcoma 180), an easily transferable and highly destructive cancer upon which most new treatments are tested.

The results were stunning. It completely cured about one third of the mice afflicted with sarcoma 180 and used in the experiment. This was the first time in the institute's remarkable history that sarcoma 180 had yielded to a chemical treatment.

Once past this imposing barrier, 6-mercaptopurine was used on humans hospitalized in Memorial Center. And Wednesday the Chicago meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research heard the encouraging results:

Fourteen of the 45 children with acute leukemia thus treated showed temporary disappearance of the disease for one to six months. Eleven additional children were substantially improved although the disease could still be detected by laboratory methods. Of 18 adults with acute leukemia, 3 obtained complete although temporary regression of the disease.

Patients "gained weight, felt well and returned to normal activity." It apparently has no effect on cancers other than those of the blood. What it has proved it can do, however, is prolong life in leukemia sufferers who have run the gamut of the other temporary treatments: antifolics, hormones, cortisone, ACTH, etc. It will help adult sufferers from leukemia, whereas antifolics, the most effective agents against acute leukemia in general clinical use, are ineffective in this age group. The new treatment, still scarce, comes in pill form and is easily tolerated by both children and adults.

Not even its most enthusiastic champion would hail 6-mercaptopurine as more than a single step along the way to the end of cancer. But the fact that it is a step—positive and sure—is a source of pride. Half a step is more than the average cancer scientist or doctor can expect in his lifetime. This is a full one.

You may have partially paid for this advance toward the great goal. You did indeed if you ever contributed to the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, the American Cancer Society, or paid taxes that enabled the U. S. Public Health Service to function. The Mary A. and Albert Lasker Foundation and the Charles F. Kettering Foundation also shouldered great shares of the financial cost.

And all this public and private effort bore fruit. Continued and greater support can only mean a hastening of the day when we can substitute the stirring word "cure" for the guarded "useful treatment," "interesting new agent," and other tantalizing ways of avoiding the ultimate word.

Ike And Latin America

The new administration's attitude toward Latin America is expected to be illuminated by President Eisenhower in a talk at the Pan American Union Building in Washington on Sunday. Concern over the growth of super-nationalism and communism in states south of the border was expressed on January 27 by Mr. Dulles in his first foreign policy speech as secretary of State.

"There are strong Communist movements in South America and Fascist influences in some quarters which are working away, largely underground so far, and they're trying to destroy the traditional friendship between the people of the American republics," Dulles said. "The past administration has been so preoccupied with some of these problems of Europe and Asia and Africa . . . that I fear it may have somewhat neglected South America and taken it for granted that we could forget about South America for a time and then go back again and find everything the same as it was before."

Latin Americans in general demonstrated in World War II the "traditional friendship" referred to by Dulles. Immediately after Pearl Harbor, nine Latin American governments declared war on the Axis powers—Costa Rica, Cuba, and Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama. In 1942 and 1943 Mexico, Brazil, Bolivia, Colombia followed suit. By the end of the war all except Argentina had come in on the side of the Allies. Brazil sent an expeditionary force to Italy, and a Mexican air squadron fought in the Pacific.

Latin America could take over a large share of Western Hemisphere defense if given adequate military and economic aid now, Lt. Gen. Bolte, deputy Army chief of staff and Inter-American Defense Board chairman, told a Senate group in August 1951. During World War II, he testified, 100,000 U. S. troops had been tied up in Latin America.

The Monroe Doctrine was broadened from a unilateral guarantee to a multilateral agreement by the Act of Chapultepec, promulgated in March 1945. The Chapultepec stand was incorporated in the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance of September 1947:

"Every act of aggression by a state against the territorial integrity or the inviolability of the territory or against the sovereignty or political independence of an American state shall be considered an act of aggression against the other American states."

That guarantee was written into the charter of the Organization of American States, adopted at Bogota in 1948.

Communists have stepped up activity in Latin America since World War II, most notably perhaps under the leftist government of Guatemala. Peron of Argentina has been trying to form nationalist Latin American blocs, most successfully with the new government of Chile.

In 1951 Congress voted all but $3 million of the $62 million requested by the Truman administration for military and economic aid for Latin America. For 1952 the administration asked $84 million, got $78 million. Meantime, in 1952, arms agreements were being negotiated with Ecuador, Peru, Cuba, Brazil, Chile, Colombia.

Colombia and Cuba have ground troops fighting under the UN command in Korea; Costa Rica, El Salvador, Panama have offered troops. Colombia also has sent naval forces, and Panama, sea transports. Costa Rica has furnished sea and air bases; Panama has offered training bases. Bolivia has offered a group of army officers and Nicaragua unspecified personnel, while other states have furnished medical supplies and strategic materials.

Don't Breathe It

There should be no shortage of volunteers who help New York police perform an experiment. What is wanted requires no special skill, doesn't call for hard work; many people don't consider it unpleasant. The job: get drunk. Police are now engaged in testing an $845 machine, said to be already in use by about 50 American cities, designed to test the amount of alcohol in a subject's blood.

If you take the test, you are asked to breathe into the machine. A reading of .05 per cent means you have only a mild glow; but .15 per cent means that you aren't fit to drive, other things being equal. The New York legislature has just passed a bill ordering the suspension of the driver's license of anybody who refuses to submit to the test if police ask him to.

Philosophers, poets, and wags have argued over what constitutes drunkeness. If a machine can answer the question, more power to it. If it can help protect the public against the very real and serious menace of drunken driving, all the better. But it is hoped that science won't stop short there.

Automobiles already have such safety factors as four-wheel hydraulic brakes, all-steel bodies, and safety glass. Why not a built-in drunkometer—a device that keeps continual tabs on the blood concentration of alcohol in the driver, and automatically switches off the ignition as soon as it reaches the danger point?

That shouldn't be difficult to invent. Ask any reader of science fiction.

"Reasonable" Russia

The cold war of the last seven years was by its very nature unstable. It had to result in a hot war, in a cold war victory for one side, or in at least a partial truce. Marxist doctrine considers a postwar period ideal for the spread of Communist power—and postwar periods do not last forever.

In words and in at least the promise of deeds, Soviet policy has become almost day by day, more conciliatory since Stalin's death. There has been a sharp reduction in abuse of the United States, too. It may be that Communist policy for the future is not yet settled, but trial balloons are going up to test American reaction.

There are clues suggesting that what Malenkov wants now is a period of consolidation, during which Russia can appease her own people, avoid new foreign adventures, and wait for another period of opportunity. A temporary period of "coexistence" might let the "inner contradictions" of capitalism operate to the advantage of communism; and it might give communism time to overcome its own inner contradictions.

Peace, the Kremlin firmly believes, might bring on an American depression. It might cause non-Communist unity to break up in a struggle for advantage. There is no alternative to a course of making the most of any peace prospects Russia holds out. But Americans must never forget that Russia is constantly poised to strike from within or from without.

How To Keep Well

Nature's Best: Breastfeeding

The pendulum on infant feeding has swung back toward breast milk; artificial feeding is no longer considered the smart thing. Even tho many of the calculated formulas are excellent and easy to prepare, our young mothers are convinced that nature's way is best.

There are advantages and disadvantages in both methods but when one is compared with the other, the odds favor breastfeeding. This type of milk is ideal. It usually satisfies the nutritional needs of the little tike, the composition of its food elements is made to order for the infant's stomach. The artificial mixture comes close but to do so various substances are added. As a result, the formula is not always perfect and when the child rebels changes are necessary. But that is not all. Mother's milk is always fresh, clean, and of the right temperature. It is economical, easily accessible, and available in the right amount. Moreover, it contains antibodies that protect the youngster from certain diseases and some studies show that it helps reduce the incidence of gastrointestinal disturbances.

Breast milk also has many psychological advantages. For the mother, there is real happiness to be derived from the process; it leads to a sense of accomplishment. Emotional stability and security are offered the baby by this procedure. One of the main arguments against breastfeeding is that the activities of the mother are restricted. This is not necessarily true because most breast-fed babies can be given a bottle for one feeding; for example, on Saturday night, when the parents are going out for the evening.

Many mothers stop nursing while still in the hospital because they believe their milk supply is inadequate and they are afraid the tike will lose too much weight. This reasoning is faulty because all babies lose weight in the first week and it is not unusual for the milk production to develop slowly. Patience is needed because the child will not starve to death even tho the milk does not appear in the first four days. Furthermore, the more the mother worries, the less milk there is likely to be.

Another pitfall is sore nipples. This condition has a tendency to occur when the mother fails to prepare the breasts for nursing prior to delivery or allows the baby to nurse too long in the first few days after birth. The process should be started slowly, three to four minutes at most. Unless this is done the nipples are bound to become sore.

SLEEPLESS

L. A. Z. writes: How long can a person go without sleep?

REPLY

There is little accurate information on this subject. According to Gould and Pyle, the length of time is approximately the same as one is able to survive without food. Other writers say that dogs die after 14 days of sleeplessness. Most of the extreme examples of sleepless spells lasting weeks and months are not true becaue careful watch usually reveals that catnaps are taken periodically.

HEART MANIFESTATION

J. L. writes: I've consulted a doctor about spells of racing pulse and skipping beats. He tells me my heart is in good shape. Have you any suggestions, as these symptoms scare me.

REPLY

I'll agree that the condition is scary but when the heart is normal, there is no need to be overly concerned. In this respect you are fortunate and if everything possible is done to quiet the old ticker the attacks are likely to lessen in frequency.

WORRIED MOTHER

Mrs. D. C. writes: I have a lovely 18-month-old baby, very good and smart, but she will not eat when I feed her. She will eat when my husband feeds her or when she is alone. She is attached to me and does not want me out of her sight and I show her a lot of love and affections. Please advise me where I have made a mistake.

REPLY

When you have more children you will appreciate their normal behavior problems and individual peculiarities. So long as the child is healthy and happy, let her alone. Feeding problems are common at this age and the less attention paid to them the better.

BLADDER EXAM

T. G. writes: What is a cystoscopic examination?

REPLY

In this examination the bladder is studied with a long tube containing a light at one end and a magnifying lens at the other (the cystoscope). With this instrument every nook and cranny in the organ can be studied in detail to determine the presence of stone, tumor, or inflammation of the wall.

NERVOUS RASH

J. T. writes: How long does it take to cure neurodermatitis?

REPLY

As soon as the cause for the tension is discovered and eliminated, the rash disappears promptly. In others, it lingers for months or years or has a tendency to come and go with each emotional upheaval.

Secretary Dulles Turns Deaf Ear To Russian Expert Kennan; McCarthy Worries Over Losing Headlines; Congressmen Invented Excuses For Easter Junkets

WASHINGTON—During the current intense interest in the Russian peace maneuvers, Secretary of State Dulles has almost completely ignored the advice of his best Russian expert, ex-Ambassador George Kennan.

Kennan has spent a lifetime studying Russia, and his predictions on Soviet developments have been amazingly accurate. He predicted the Chinese Communists would intervene in Korea if General MacArthur sent troops up to the Yalu River, and he predicted the Russians would develop the atomic bomb far more quickly than the experts ever expected.

Finally Kennan predicted that a Russian peace offensive was sure to follow Stalin's death.

Despite this record, the new Secretary of State is giving Kennan the deep-freeze treatment, and Kennan will soon return to his teaching job at Princeton.

Dulles got sore at Kennan when he cautioned against active psychological warfare encouraging satellite peoples to revolt. This was one of Eisenhower's and Dulles' chief campaign themes.

But Kennan disagreed, argued that it was foolish, if not disastrous, to encourage revolution before the United States was ready to help the satellites — in other words, ready for war. If the satellites were crushed, he argued, it would mean they could not rise again for 50 years.

Dulles got especially sore when Kennan made a speech against psychological warfare, released to the press prior to a speech by Dulles for psychological warfare. Because the speech had been sent to the press in advance, Kennan felt he had to go through with it despite Dulles' contrary views. After that it was decided that he was not to be ambassador to Egypt—or anyplace else.

"High-Class" Probe

Despite all the pledges to cut out duplication and waste, the Senate is carrying on two duplicate investigations of the government's Overseas Information Program—one by Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, the other by Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Since Hickenlooper was first in the field, he came out with the first report—which disturbed McCarthy no end. When his chief counsel, Roy Cohn read excerpts from the Hickenlooper report to McCarthy over the phone, McCarthy anxiously asked whether this would take the publicity edge off their own investigation.

"Don't worry, chief," assured Cohn, "Hickenlooper is running a high-class investigation."

Easter Junkets

Congressmen aren't supposed to travel at the taxpayers' expense unless they swear it's "official business." So when Congress recessed for Easter, the majority admitted they were going home on vacation and paid their own expenses. However, five Congressmen had the gall to claim "official business" in their home districts, and a few others took off on free, round-the-world Easter tours.

Of course, the Air Force doesn't question a Congressman's word. So when Indiana's Republican Rep. William Bray swore he had "official business" in Terre Haute and Bloomington, Ind., the Air Force dutifully wheeled out a special plane and flew him home for Easter. The cost to the taxpayers was an estimated $1,500, not counting the salaries of the crew and the wear on the plane.

Congressman William Mailliard, California Republican, claimed he had to "inspect veterans hospitals" in the San Francisco area, which happens to be his home town, while Congressman Robert Condon, California Democrat, swore he had to look into the "disposal of surplus property" in Sacramento, which is the nearest surplus property to his Walnut Creek, Calif., home. The Air Force promptly arranged free passage for the two Californians via Military Air Transport Service.

Two Louisiana Democrats, Representatives Ed Hebert and Overton Brooks, also asked for free transportation to do work in Louisiana for the House Armed Services Committee. However, they were more considerate of the taxpayers' money and turned down a special plane. Instead they waited until they could hitch a ride on an Air Force plane, already going in their direction. Actually this cost the taxpayer no extra money. Hebert finally caught a ride directly to his home in New Orleans, but the closest Brooks could get was Little Rock, Ark. Then he thumbed another air ride to Memphis, Tenn., and finally caught an Air Force plane going to his home in Shreveport.

Most legitimate Easter junket was arranged by Congressmen Dan Reed, New York Republican, and Harold Cooley, North Carolina Democrat, who caught a ride back to Europe with Gen. Al Gruenther in order to attend the Interparliamentary Union Conference at Monaco, France.

However, members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee decided to spend the Easter recess touring the world. They split up into two groups, headed by Congressmen Walter Judd of Minnesota and Lawrence Smith of Wisconsin, and took off for both Europe and the Far East to study "the military aspects of the mutual security program."

Judd was accompanied by Republican Chester Merrow of New Hampshire, and Democrats A. S. J. Carnahan of Missouri and Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin. Smith's group included Winston Prouty of Vermont, Albert Morano of Connecticut, and Marguerite Church of Illinois, all Republicans, with Democrat Burr Harrison of Virginia.

Washington Pipeline

The Air Force will soon be building jet planes faster than the oil industry can produce the fuel to operate them. The military demand for jet fuel next year is expected to be double present needs. Yet the oil companies still haven't started expanding their facilities or revising production schedules—which must be done to avoid a jet fuel shortage in 1954. . . . The nation's whiskey dealers are threatening to boycott any brand that won't give them an increased mark-up. This may mean higher prices. . . . In spite of the amazing progress on nuclear reactors, government planners don't expect atomic energy to replace coal as the principal source of power in this country for another 20 years. . . . The mortgage debt on private homes hit an all-time peak this year—over $58,000,000,000. Yet Senator Capehart of Indiana is planning to boost interest rates. . . . The nation's chiefs of police are clamoring for more traffic cops to patrol the highways. Only one motorist is getting ticketed for every 118 miles of patrolled highway, and police chiefs want to cut this down to one arrest or warning for every 40 miles. . . . Secretary of Agriculture Benson proposes using more surplus food for the school lunch program. It's now feeding 10,000,000 kids every noon hour. . . . The Army has developed a new, scientific shoe-sizing system which should give GI's more comfortable shoes and curtail blisters. The new shoes will come in eight sizes, measured to fit almost any feet. . . . Secretary of Commerce Weeks has just about decided to scrap the government's whole merchant shipbuilding program to keep his budget down.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Is It A Crime?

Some time ago, I wrote that it is not a crime in this country to be a Communist and that I could not understand why so many of them took refuge in the Fifth Amendment on the ground that to testify would incriminate them.

So I was overwhelmed by letters pro and con; some from distinguished lawyers who explained the intricacies of the problem; some from laymen who insist that to be a Communist is criminal per se.

A crime cannot be defined by private opinion; it is defined by an act of legislation. Privately we may hold that for a woman to dye her hair is a crime, but as no legislative body has so stipulated, it is not a crime. Under the federal government, a crime may be treason, a felony or a misdemeanor.

Some letter-writers make the point that a Communist is ipso facto a traitor, but what they overlook is that it is the courts alone who can decide this with respect to the individual concerned. The accepted definition of treason is:

". . . Treason against the United States has been defined by the United States Constitution as levying war against the United States or adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort . . ."

To be declared a traitor, a man must be indicted by a grand jury, tried by due process in a court of law, convicted and sentenced. Less than this process is impossible under the American way of life.

The Communist situation has become complicated by the fact that there is no law making membership in the Communist party a crime. But the Smith Act, tested in the case of "The Eleven" in New York before Judge Harold Medina, and upheld by the United States Supreme Court, did establish that Eugene Dennis and his comrades did conspire to organize the Communist party as a group to teach and advocate the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence.

Here then is a conflict of ideas, namely, that while it is not a crime to be a member of the Communist party, it is a crime to organize to teach and advocate the overthrow of the American government by force and violence. A lawyer writes me that were a Communist client to seek his advice, he would therefore be forced to advise his client to take refuge in the Fifth Amendment.

Another point that is made by a lawyer deserves quotation:

"The answer to a question need not be in itself incriminating in order for the privilege against self-incrimination to become operative. If the answer to a question might furnish a clue to the commission of a crime, or form a link in a chain of circumstances which might tend to incriminate, a person is entitled to raise the privilege. Now, while membership in the Communist party in itself is not a crime, admission of membership therein might give a clue or a link to the government to identify the individual as a knowing member of a conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government, punishable under the Smith Act of 1940. Thus, so long as the Smith Act is on the books, an individual can refuse to answer the question on the grounds of self-incrimination . . ."

Nevertheless, if a man is guiltless, as most Americans are, of any act, in all their lives, against the United States, I cannot understand why he should fear self-incrimination. If he fears that something that he might say could by implication of construction get him into trouble, then he must know that he did something wrong or that he associated with people who did something wrong.

I am also told:

". . . Under the present decisions of the Supreme Court, if a person once answers that he is not a member of the Communist party, it would probably be held that he had waived all his right to refuse to answer any other questions whatsoever about Communism . . ."

However, if a person has not performed an act against the United States, why should he not be willing to answer questions concerning communism, the answers being designed to aid the United State? For example, suppose I happened to witness a murder, but no one saw me witness it, should I not notify the police, lest I be questioned about myself and why I was there?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A first-class mystery revolving around an off-the-record conference with several newspapermen by a person in the confidence of the Eisenhower Administration has stirred up a series of denials and counterdenials as to what the future policy of the United States is going to be toward a divided Korea and the status of Formosa.

First of all, it may be said that, whatever the explorations or discussions inside the administration, no conclusions have been reached. The White House denial of a New York Times story used that very language as follows:

"The administration has never reached any conclusio. that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or feasible or consistent with the decisions of the United Nations."

Dispatches from Washington to the New York Times and other newspapers, which came from a responsible source who gave the information but would not allow himself to be quoted or identified—indicated that in a future negotiation the United States might be willing to let the boundary between North and South Korea be fixed at about eighty miles North of the 38th parallel so as to take in a balanced area of economic resources.

But such a division means on its face that the United States would be deserting the objective of the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, which called for an independent and unified Korea.

Change Of Policy

Why, therefore, was the idea brought forward in the discussion with the press? This is not readily explained except on one possible basis—that the man who did the talking didn't make himself clear and was merely explaining possible ways that a negotiation might be approached when the time comes for such a parley.

But even this does not disclose why it was considered necessary to explore the subject with the press at all—unless the man who did it never thought it would appear in print and was just talking out loud, so to speak, as he unfolded his thoughts confidentially to the correspondents.

What is important is not what this news source was speculating about but what the policy toward Korea finally will be. The word from the White House is that no "conclusion" has been reached. This in itself will be disquieting news. It could mean that the group inside the administration which wants to cut military spending, reduce taxes and end the war by any means possible has been making headway and that the subject matter of such discussions is very much in the minds of administration officials, so that persons informed as to what is going on naturally talk about all possibilities with no indication as to how the discussion finally will turn out.

Fantastic Proposal

Another important item mentioned as part of the same information conveyed to the press relates to a UN trusteeship for Formosa. This was mentioned as a compromise solution. But it is a fantastic suggestion. For it would mean that Chiang's troops would some day have to be driven out of Formosa by the UN, and this is hardly something the United States could embark upon. Also, Red China, if in supreme control of the mainland of China, isn't going to consent to an independent status for Formosa, since this territory was promised to China itself by the Cairo declaration to which the United States was a signatory.

If the two reported moves were really the American policy, it would amount to a far Eastern Munich. Mere publication of such a possiblity is bound to be harmful at this stage of the Russian peace adventure, when it isn't wise to tip our hand no matter what we have in mind. It seems incredible that John Foster Dulles would care to remain as Secretary of State if his views on the Far East were reversed to the extent that the newspaper reports would indicate they might be if the "conclusion" is to adopt policies that mean appeasement of the Communists.

Political Convulsion

It is impossible, for instance, to measure exactly how many square miles of territory would remain in the hands of the North Korean Communists as a "buffer" or "puppet" state for the Communists. But it would be a big slice of Korean territory. Does anyone think South Korea could be pacified by such a move? For it would mean that aggressors would be rewarded by being ceded a large piece of territory and, if the Red Chinese were seated in the UN, it would all add up to a very remarkable victory for the Communists and a defeat for the American viewpoint.

Certainly, if anything like that happens, it will be difficult to keep a draft law on the statute books. For to send American boys abroad to be killed in such shenanigans of diplomatic trickery and appeasement would produce a major political convulsion, and somebody would have to begin writing letters of abject apology to the relatives of the 130,000 American boys who have become casualties in Korea. If to divide up Korea and give a big gift of land to the Communists is what happens after "resisting aggression" in Korea, then such slogans become doubletalk.

It is gratifying to learn that the White House has not approved any such policy of appeasement as was reported to be under "consideration" or under "discussion," whatever the correct word for it really was.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The newly announced additional treatment for leukemia (cancer of the blood), a chemical named 6-mercaptopurine, has caused great excitement in circles dedicated to the riddance of the scourge from man.

The new chemical, unlike several more or less recently developed cancer treatments, was in no way accidentally arrived at. Fourteen of the 45 children with acute leukemia thus treated showed temporary disappearance of the disease for one to six months. Eleven additional children were substantially improved although the disease could still be detected by laboratory methods. Of 18 adults with acute leukemia, 3 obtained complete although temporary regression of the disease.

Patients "gained weight, felt well and returned to normal activity." It apparently has no effect on cancers other than those of the blood. What it has proved it can do, however, is prolong life in leukemia sufferers who have run the gamut of the other temporary treatments: antifolics, hormones, cortisone, ACTH, etc. It will help adult sufferers from leukemia, whereas antifolics, the most effective agents against acute leukemia in general clinical use, are ineffective in this age group. The new treatment, still scarce, comes in pill form and is easily tolerated by both children and adults.

Not even its most enthusiastic champion would hail 6-mercaptopurine as more than a single step along the way to the end of cancer. But the fact that it is a step—positive and sure—is a source of pride. Half a step is more than the average cancer scientist or doctor can expect in his lifetime. This is a full one.

You may have partially paid for this advance toward the great goal. You did indeed if you ever contributed to the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, the American Cancer Society, or paid taxes that enabled the U. S. Public Health Service to function. The Mary A. and Albert Lasker Foundation and the Charles F. Kettering Foundation also shouldered great shares of the financial cost.

And all this public and private effort bore fruit. Continued and greater support can only mean a hastening of the day when we can substitute the stirring word "cure" for the guarded "useful treatment," "interesting new agent," and other tantalizing ways of avoiding the ultimate word.

McKeldin Not Alarmed By Rent Control Loss

ANNAPOLIS, April 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin declared today he saw no cause for alarm if a clerical bobble in the last hours of the Legislature blocks rent controls anywhere in Maryland.

"We have no proof that the landlords are planning a skyrocketing of prices," he said.

The governor announced he has no thought of calling a special session of the General Assembly to patch up the error which apparently invalidated a local-option controls act.

Dr. Carl Everstine, acting director of legislative reference, explored the journals yesterday and concluded the Senate passed a bill exempting Baltimore County from the option and the House approved it with the county still in.

That would throw out the act, because any legislation must pass each house in identical form.

Aside from Baltimore County, the measure extended the option to impose controls locally only to Baltimore City, Hagerstown and Allegany County. Their legislators wanted the two-year extension of control authority which is now due to expire this June.

Federal ceilings are supposed to go off the end of this month, although there has been talk in Washington of continuing them until October.

Desirable as controls might be for the three areas left intact in both versions of the disputed bill, McKeldin said, "I cannot see that any emergency has been created."

The Legislature meets again next February, he added. And a special session could be called "if rents should rise rapidly to a point of hardship for tenants in the affected area during an interim without controls."

B&O Conducts Survey Of Crossing Mishaps

A survey of grade crossing accidents by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reveals several interesting points about the "average" motorist involved in the mishaps.

He is usually a male driver operating a 7-year-old car and generally is alone.

Very often he lives within 20 miles of the intersection where the accident occurs and in one of five cases he actually drives the car into the side of the train after the locomotive already has started through the crossing — the car hits the train instead of the train striking the car.

Various forms of reckless or negligent driving accounted for 89 per cent of all grade crossing accidents, the survey indicated.

Site Is Suggested For CD Center

County CD authorities told the city officials the building could be located here if space for the center is donated.

The park was suggested because of the availability of water and parking space and the park's central location.

Women's Clubs Head Scornful Of Legislature

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Mrs. C. Edward Sparrow Jr., legislative chairman of the Baltimore District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, has reported to her organization the 1953 General Assembly was plagued by "log-rolling, political deals and boss rule."

"For strictly political reasons," she said, "the legislators went to Annapolis intending to do nothing and carried out that purpose.

"Nothing of major importance was passed except the budget, the teachers' pay bill and the roads program.

"Of all the suggested reforms to correct wrongs observed at the last election, only one was passed."

Mrs. Sparrow made her report at the district organization's 32nd annual meeting yesterday.

"Hundreds of bills were deliberately tied up in committee," she went on. "When one was passed by mistake, the senators spent an anxious week tracing it to bring it back to committee."

Mrs. Sparrow said she thought there are two reasons "so many good bills failed to pass."

"First," she said, "the legislators do not represent all the people, have no desire to do so, and will do all in their power to prevent equal representation.

"Second, we the people are at fault for allowing them to conduct a session of our State Legislature on such a low plane. There is too much of an attitude of 'let George do it.'"

Reds Claim Star Witness Perjured Self

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, star witness at last year's trial of six second-level Communists here, today was accused by their defense counsel of wilfully perjuring herself in testimony given here and at a New York trial.

Harold Buchman, attorney for the six, told Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut Mrs. Markward, a Chesterbrook, Va. housewife, deliberately misled the jury by saying she was unpaid while posing as a Red agent except for expenses.

Buchman said, however, it was brought out in a New York trial that she received more than $24,000 pay and expenses during the period from 1943 to 1950 that she worked as an undercover agent for the FBI.

Buchman brought out his argument in trying to win a new trial for the six convicted Communists. Judge Chesnut did not announce his decision immediately.

U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn responded that the amount received by Mrs. Markward must be interpreted as largely expenses. He referred to her as a top example of "patriotism, courage and self-sacrifice."

Buchman also questioned the credibility of the testimony by Ralph Long, another government witness.

Buchman argued that Flynn also praised Long as a worthy citizen, while at the New York trial he was shown to have a past record for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Flynn returned that Long's record did not contradict his testimony concerning facts.

Everyone Wants To Advise Congress, Or So It Seems

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lucky, lucky congressmen! Everyone, everywhere seems ready and eager to advise them.

In each mail is a splendid supply of amateur advice from constituents telling the congressman how he should conduct himself, his office, the U. S. and the world. In some instances there's even a pithy comment on where he should go.

Hovering in the background, alertly watching every move, are the professional advice-givers, the lobbyists, who are paid to tell Congress what to do.

The Congressional Record has the latest quarterly listing of the lobbyists, and, as usual, it's surprising how many people are in the business of giving Congress advice.

Profitable business, too, for some of them. Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz) has figured that 40 of the top pros are paid $50,000 or more a year for their attempts to influence Congress.

But many lobbyists appear to operate more modestly.

Like the organization, Housewives United, with headquarters here. It spent $157.23 during the last three months saying its say on "legislation of an Economic Significance to Family Life."

Robert G. Jeter of Dresden, Tenn., spent $649.77 on a more specialized field. Jeter told Congress his only lobbying interest is the tax problem of the ball and sagger clay industry.

The Journeymen Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists, and Proprietors International Union of America reports it's keen on anything affecting labor, the National Defense Act, veterans' education or laws governing barbers in the District of Columbia. Despite these varied interests, it said it didn't spend a nickel plumping for same.

The Committee for the Promotion of Tramp Shipping Under the American Flag in Foreign Commerce spent $15,243.73, but it didn't say how it spent it.

Walter F. Woodul of Houston, Tex., was more specific. He represents the Angelina & Neches River Railroad, Keltys, Tex., et al. He said he spent $14.40 for tickets to a University of Texas football game. He didn't say whether this had any influence, or, for that matter, who won.

Oliver Francis White of Stambaugh, Mich., says he's against legalized "thought and nerve impulse transmitters." By way of clarification, he added that these are also "telecremators and teleportage devices."

For simplicity no one has equaled the preacher who registered under the lobbying act a couple of years ago. Asked to say for whom he was working, the preacher had a ready answer.

"God," he wrote.

'Mechanical Nose' Proves Chlorophyll Really Works

CHICAGO — (INS) — A scientist unveiled a remarkable "mechanical nose" this week and said the device proves "beyond reasonable doubt" that chlorophyll really has the power to deordorize.

A second researcher declared a new electrical skin testing instrument gives "objective evidence" that the controversial green drug speeds up the healing of scratches, wounds and burns—and also shows that iodine, mecurochrome and other household remedies actually retard healing.

Both doctors lashed out angrily at chlorophyll's critics — including British scientists who poked fun at "gullible Americans" and said their jibes were based on unrealistic experiments.

The chlorophyll controversy flared up at the Chicago Convention of the Federation of Societies for Experimental Biology with the presentation of reports by Dr. Lee Langley of the University of Alabama and Dr. T. C. Barnes of Philadelphia.

Langley told the scientific meeting his complex "mechanical nose" measures the concentration of evil-smelling gases, pumps them through a solution of deodorant, and then measures or "smells" the resulting concentration.

In tests with Hydrogen Sulphide —which smells like rotten eggs— he said chlorophyll removed half of the odor in five minutes by converting the gas into water and sulphur.

The same chemical change, he explained, probably is involved in chlorophyll's action inside the body or even on nature's most powerful smell—the source of the skunk's odor.

In a related paper, Dr. Barnes reported his discovery that scratches, deep cuts or even burns produce tiny but measurable electric currents on the surrounding skin.

He said the currents, which run as high as one-tenth of a volt, decrease steadily to zero as wounds heal, making possible "the first truly scientific measurements of the healing process."

The drug specialist said he used his current-measuring device to test the effect of iodine, mercurochrome, penicillin, chlorophyll, sulfa drugs and other compounds on wounds in both animals and humans. He reported:

"The results show that chlorophyll effectively speeds up the healing process. Some other plant extracts also helped but not as rapidly.

"Iodine and mercurochrome both retarded healing. The sulfa drugs were worst of all and even penicillin had a mild retarding effect."

Dr. Barnes, who is associated with Hahneman Medical College, added that skin deep wounds produce a positive electrical current while muscle injuries give negative readings.

Further research on this finding may lead to a simple test to determine the extent of injury in badly hurt or burned accident victims.

Nine Volcanos Erupt

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, April 10 (AP)—Nine volcanos in Guatemala spouted smoke and ashes today. The activity was accompanied by rumbling noises and earth tremors.

There were no reports of death or injury and damage apparently was limited to the soil of those plantations covered by volcanic dust. The volcanos in activity were Fuego, Santa Maria, Atitlan, Santiaguito, Yacana, Tajumulco, San Pedro, Yepocapa and Acatenango.

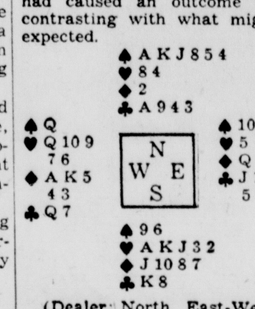
NOT IMPOSSIBLE AT ALL

"WHY, that's impossible except through a revoke or two" is a type of remark seldom made by veteran duplicate players when they note on the score slip that a result is recorded which is difficult to believe. Usually investigation shows that only a very slight difference in the method of play had caused an outcome widely contrasting with what might be expected.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♠

West refrained from overcalling at both tables of a team match, and North kept his club suit unnamed in each instance. Consequently the opening lead was a club each time, the J. But the results were entirely different.

At the second table, North won the lead with the club K, led to the A and ruffed the 4 with the spade 6, the Q over-ruffing and the diamond K being taken by West. The diamond A was ruffed by the spade 4, the club 9 by the spade 9 and the diamond 8 by the spade 5. The spade A, K and J were followed by the heart 4 to the A, the heart K was ruffed by the spade 10 and North took the game trick with his spade 8.

When North heard then that his rival in the same position at the other table had been set two tricks, he couldn't believe it.

"Did he revoke?" was asked.

He certainly did not. After getting the first trick with the club K, instead of proceeding to ruff some clubs, he tried to set up the hearts, intending to take two tops and ruff a third. East, however, trumped the second one, led to the diamond K and North ruffed the heart 9 return with the spade J. The club A was taken, the 4 ruffed by the spade 6 and overruffed by the Q, and the heart 10, ruffed by the spade 8, was overruffed by the 10. East led the spade 3 to the 9, preventing a ruff of the club 9, which later had to lose a trick to East's 10, putting North down two.

Your Weekend Question

In what circumstances does an honor-trick or quick-trick table underrate singleton kings or queens whereas a method like the 4-3-2-1 count assigns them the value they actually develop during the play?

Peach, Apple Tree Blooms Ahead Of Schedule In Area

The development of peach and apple trees in this section is ten days ahead of normal development, an official of Consolidated Orchards reported yesterday.

Throughout Allegany County, western Washington County and Hampshire County buds have been forming rapidly during the mild spring weather that is following a mild winter.

Henry Miller Jr., general manager and vice president, said peach trees on low ground are in full bloom, while those orchards on high ground are in the pink bud stage.

Miller said the early blossoming makes the frost danger period ten days longer. In this section the period of frost danger ranges up to May 10, he pointed out.

Fruit growers are wary of this year's early development as the long range weather forecast from the Department of Commerce calls for the temperature in April to be subnormal.

The forecast covering the regions east of the Alleghenies also predicts lighter rainfall than usual, Miller said.

However, he pointed out that so far in April there has been more than average precipitation in this section.

While orchardists are concerned by this state of their fruit, Miller recalled that often good crops have resulted from earlier blooming periods than the one this year.

As for protection in the event of frost, Miller observed that smudge pots do not work very well in this terrain, but are more adaptable to flat country.

Cancer Helps Detect Polio 'Bugs' In New 3-Day Test

CHICAGO (AP)—Polio virus can be grown on cancer cells to give an early test for polio, perhaps in time to prevent paralysis, scientists reported today.

Done in test tubes, it's another important step against polio. Dramatically it finds cancer, the destroyer, helping combat polio, the crippler.

In 24 to 72 hours, the tests can show whether a person is harboring polio virus in his body, before it has started invading nerves. This knowledge might give time to use gamma globulin or a vaccine to protect the nerves, or to warn a person to take it easy to avoid serious nerve damage.

The tests also might be used to learn which people already have antibodies against one or all three types of polio virus. This could pinpoint those who needed a shot of gamma globulin or a vaccine for protection.

The discovery is that a strain of cancer cells, kept growing in test tubes, will permit rapid growth of polio virus.

To the test tube is added a sample of bowel excretions of the human. If any polio virus was present in his intestines, it grows in the test tubes.

This progress was announced by Doctors Jerome T. Syverton and William F. Scherer, both of the University of Minnesota, to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Dr. George O. Gey, of Johns Hopkins University, worked with them in this March of Dimes research.

The cancer cells used in the tests were obtained from a human cancer of the cervix at Johns Hopkins in 1951.

The drug specialist said he used his current-measuring device to test the effect of iodine, mercurochrome, penicillin, chlorophyll, sulfa drugs and other compounds on wounds in both animals and humans. He reported:

"The results show that chlorophyll effectively speeds up the healing process. Some other plant extracts also helped but not as rapidly.

"Iodine and mercurochrome both retarded healing. The sulfa drugs were worst of all and even penicillin had a mild retarding effect."

Dr. Barnes, who is associated with Hahneman Medical College, added that skin deep wounds produce a positive electrical current while muscle injuries give negative readings.

Further research on this finding may lead to a simple test to determine the extent of injury in badly hurt or burned accident victims.

Nine Volcanos Erupt

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, April 10 (AP)—Nine volcanos in Guatemala spouted smoke and ashes today. The activity was accompanied by rumbling noises and earth tremors.

There were no reports of death or injury and damage apparently was limited to the soil of those plantations covered by volcanic dust. The volcanos in activity were Fuego, Santa Maria, Atitlan, Santiaguito, Yacana, Tajumulco, San Pedro, Yepocapa and Acatenango.

NOT IMPOSSIBLE AT ALL

"WHY, that's impossible except through a revoke or two" is a type of remark seldom made by veteran duplicate players when they note on the score slip that a result is recorded which is difficult to believe. Usually investigation shows that only a very slight difference in the method of play had caused an outcome widely contrasting with what might be expected.

West refrained from overcalling at both tables of a team match, and North kept his club suit unnamed in each instance. Consequently the opening lead was a club each time, the J. But the results were entirely different.

At the second table, North won the lead with the club K, led to the A and ruffed the 4 with the spade 6, the Q over-ruffing and the diamond K being taken by West. The diamond A was ruffed by the spade 4, the club 9 by the spade 9 and the diamond 8 by the spade 5. The spade A, K and J were followed by the heart 4 to the A, the heart K was ruffed by the spade 10 and North took the game trick with his spade 8.

When North heard then that his rival in the same position at the other table had been set two tricks, he couldn't believe it.

"Did he revoke?" was asked.

He certainly did not. After getting the first trick with the club K, instead of proceeding to ruff some clubs, he tried to set up the hearts, intending to take two tops and ruff a third. East, however, trumped the second one, led to the diamond K and North ruffed the heart 9 return with the spade J. The club A was taken, the 4 ruffed by the spade 6 and overruffed by the Q, and the heart 10, ruffed by the spade 8, was overruffed by the 10. East led the spade 3 to the 9, preventing a ruff of the club 9, which later had to lose a trick to East's 10, putting North down two.

Your Weekend Question

In what circumstances does an honor-trick or quick-trick table underrate singleton kings or queens whereas a method like the 4-3-2-1 count assigns them the value they actually develop during the play?

Peach, Apple Tree Blooms Ahead Of Schedule In Area

The development of peach and apple trees in this section is ten days ahead of normal development, an official of Consolidated Orchards reported yesterday.

Throughout Allegany County, western Washington County and Hampshire County buds have been forming rapidly during the mild spring weather that is following a mild winter.

Henry Miller Jr., general manager and vice president, said peach trees on low ground are in full bloom, while those orchards on high ground are in the pink bud stage.

Apples are in the early pre-pink stage and during this period orchardists concentrate on spraying.

Miller said the early blossoming makes the frost danger period ten days longer. In this section the period of frost danger ranges up to May 10, he pointed out.

Fruit growers are wary of this year's early development as the long range weather forecast from the Department of Commerce calls for the temperature in April to be subnormal.

The forecast covering the regions east of the Alleghenies also predicts lighter rainfall than usual, Miller said.

However, he pointed out that so far in April there has been more than average precipitation in this section.

While orchardists are concerned by this state of their fruit, Miller recalled that often good crops have resulted from earlier blooming periods than the one this year.

As for protection in the event of frost, Miller observed that smudge pots do not work very well in this terrain, but are more adaptable to flat country.

Cancer Helps Detect Polio 'Bugs' In New 3-Day Test

CHICAGO (AP)—Polio virus can be grown on cancer cells to give an early test for polio, perhaps in time to prevent paralysis, scientists reported today.

Done in test tubes, it's another important step against polio. Dramatically it finds cancer, the destroyer, helping combat polio, the crippler.

In 24 to 72 hours, the tests can show whether a person is harboring polio virus in his body, before it has started invading nerves. This knowledge might give time to use gamma globulin or a vaccine to protect the nerves, or to warn a person to take it easy to avoid serious nerve damage.

The tests also might be used to learn which people already have antibodies against one or all three types of polio virus. This could pinpoint those who needed a shot of gamma globulin or a vaccine for protection.

The discovery is that a strain of cancer cells, kept growing in test tubes, will permit rapid growth of polio virus.

To the test tube is added a sample of bowel excretions of the human. If any polio virus was present in his intestines, it grows in the test tubes.

This progress was announced by Doctors Jerome T. Syverton and William F. Scherer, both of the University of Minnesota, to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Dr. George O. Gey, of Johns Hopkins University, worked with them in this March of Dimes research.

The cancer cells used in the tests were obtained from a human cancer of the cervix at Johns Hopkins in 1951.

Interesting thing about a rope—it rarely becomes tangled when it's serving some useful purpose. It stretches firm and taut . . . reaching . . . holding.

But lay the rope aside . . . waiting without a purpose . . . and it becomes so tangled you can't even find the ends.

Life is like that! For some folks it seems an impossible tangle of conflicts, worries and disappointments. They haven't discovered how to devote their strand of years to a vital, constant purpose.

But for others life stretches firm and taut from birth to Eternity. The tangles disappear as men reach across time to hold certain the truths by which God would have us live.

Life without tangles . . . life with purpose . . . discover it in Church next Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

But lay the rope aside . . . waiting without a purpose . . . and it becomes so tangled you can't even find the ends.

Life is like that! For some folks it seems an impossible tangle of conflicts, worries and disappointments. They haven't discovered how to devote their strand of years to a vital, constant purpose.

But for others life stretches firm and taut from birth to Eternity. The tangles disappear as men reach across time to hold certain the truths by which God would have us live.

Life without tangles . . . life with purpose . . . discover it in Church next Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

World Feared First Worthwhile Lamp Would Destroy Eyesight

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—This year marks the 170th anniversary of one of man's most revolutionary inventions—the lamp. Most historians now recognize the invention of the lamp, which inaugurated the age of light and ended the long and dark candlelit nights of our ancestors, as the birth of the Industrial Age.

Yet, aside from an historical account of lighting in America written by C. Malcolm Watkins of the Smithsonian Institution, it seems that this "earth shaking" event which signaled the conquering of darkness on earth, will pass almost unnoticed.

In the long and shadowy candlelit world of 1783, appeared an obscure Swiss chemist, Ami Argand, with the first lamp constructed on scientific principles producing a brilliant light the equivalent of nine candlepower.

Argand was the first to make practical use of the lamp chimney, the daily cleaning of which used to be one of the regular chores of country children almost up to the present generation.

Originally it burned whale oil and the demand for it was so great the whaling industry expanded about 1800. Opening of the petroleum fields in Pennsylvania in 1859 released an abundant supply of cheap and superior fuel for lamps.

Absurd as it seems today, the invention of the lamp was followed by worldwide fear over the disastrous effects this most revolutionary invention would have on the future of man.

There were long and learned discussions over whether man's inventive genius had not at last produced a monster which could destroy his eyesight through the brilliance of the light he had produced.

An encyclopedia published some years after the invention of the Argand lamp urged people to use a small screen between their eyes and such powerful illumination. The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia warned of the "unpleasant, and, in many ways painful, effects of such illumination."

Women, particularly, were warned not to destroy their beauty by looking at these "glaring rays of the sun, which showed up the lines of her face and made her appear much older than she was."

One early journal reported that "ladies, under protest against the glare and uncomfortableness of such bright lights, spread around parasols in evening soiree. A pink parasol judiciously held between a lady's face and this powerful illumination throws a tender, rosea te hue over the complexion."

While well-to-do Americans, among them George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, had installed Argand lamps before 1800, it was some decades before the nation gave up its fear of this powerful illumination and adopted the new invention. Among the treasured possession of Mount Vernon are two of the earliest of these lamps introduced in America. Until well along in the Nineteenth Century, however, in the rural sections candles held the foremost place.

Traveling at night in the candlelit era must indeed have been a dismal experience. Travelers were expected to supply their own candles on railroad trains and at wayside inns, long after the introduction of the Argand lamp.

On the Western railroad constructed in 1839 between Worcester and Springfield, Mass., a notable feature was that the new passenger car was equipped with a glass-enclosed frame beside each seat, where passengers placed their own candles. It was found, however, that often the passengers' candles did not fit these frames.

Local Driver In Auto Crash

A local man who stopped for a red light at the Huyetts Crossroads just west of Hagerstown Thursday had his 1939 sedan demolished when it was struck from the rear by another car.

John Lewis Loar, 32, of 604 North Mechanic Street, was identified as the driver of the stopped car by Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle of Washington County.

The operator of the second car, traveling west as was Loar, was Donald F. Burnett, 26, of Hancock, Isanogle said.

Isanogle charged Burnett with reckless driving and Loar for operating a motor vehicle without a license. A hearing is set April 18 before Magistrate Paul Ottington in Hagerstown.

Isanogle reported the impact of the crash knocked Loar's machine across the intersection where it came to a stop on the opposite side of the road.

Loar was not injured, the deputy said, but Burnett was taken to Washington County Hospital where he was treated for a lacerated chin that required 12 stitches.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

W. Carl White, sales manager; William V. Keegan, Allegany County sales representative, and Mrs. Keegan; Wilbur Sills, Frostburg distributor and former director, and Mrs. Sills; and C. Arthur Brotemarkle, plant engineer, and Mrs. Brotemarkle.

WASHINGTON—This year marks the 170th anniversary of one of man's most revolutionary inventions—the lamp. Most historians now recognize the invention of the lamp, which inaugurated the age of light and ended the long and dark candlelit nights of our ancestors, as the birth of the Industrial Age.

Yet, aside from an historical account of lighting in America written by C. Malcolm Watkins of the Smithsonian Institution, it seems that this "earth shaking" event which signaled the conquering of darkness on earth, will pass almost unnoticed.

In the long and shadowy candlelit world of 1783, appeared an obscure Swiss chemist, Ami Argand, with the first lamp constructed on scientific principles producing a brilliant light the equivalent of nine candlepower.

Argand was the first to make practical use of the lamp chimney, the daily cleaning of which used to be one of the regular chores of country children almost up to the present generation.

Originally it burned whale oil and the demand for it was so great the whaling industry expanded about 1800. Opening of the petroleum fields in Pennsylvania in 1859 released an abundant supply of cheap and superior fuel for lamps.

Absurd as it seems today, the invention of the lamp was followed by worldwide fear over the disastrous effects this most revolutionary invention would have on the future of man.

There were long and learned discussions over whether man's inventive genius had not at last produced a monster which could destroy his eyesight through the brilliance of the light he had produced.

An encyclopedia published some years after the invention of the Argand lamp urged people to use a small screen between their eyes and such powerful illumination. The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia warned of the "unpleasant, and, in many ways painful, effects of such illumination."

Women, particularly, were warned not to destroy their beauty by looking at these "glaring rays of the sun, which showed up the lines of her face and made her appear much older than she was."

One early journal reported that "ladies, under protest against the glare and uncomfortableness of such bright lights, spread around parasols in evening soiree. A pink parasol judiciously held between a lady's face and this powerful illumination throws a tender, roseate hue over the complexion."

While well-to-do Americans, among them George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, had installed Argand lamps before 1800, it was some decades before the nation gave up its fear of this powerful illumination and adopted the new invention. Among the treasured possession of Mount Vernon are two of the earliest of these lamps introduced in America. Until well along in the Nineteenth Century, however, in the rural sections candles held the foremost place.

Before the invention of the Argand lamp the manufacture of candles was one of the important industries of the country.

Traveling at night in the candlelit era must indeed have been a dismal experience. Travelers were expected to supply their own candles on railroad trains and at wayside inns, long after the introduction of the Argand lamp.

On the Western railroad constructed in 1839 between Worcester and Springfield, Mass., a notable feature was that the new passenger car was equipped with a glass-enclosed frame beside each seat, where passengers placed their own candles. It was found, however, that often the passengers' candles did not fit these frames.

Local Driver In Auto Crash

A local man who stopped for a red light at the Huyetts Crossroads just west of Hagerstown Thursday had his 1939 sedan demolished when it was struck from the rear by another car.

John Lewis Loar, 32, of 604 North Mechanic Street, was identified as the driver of the stopped car by Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle of Washington County.

The operator of the second car, traveling west as was Loar, was Donald F. Burnett, 26, of Hancock, Isanogle said.

Isanogle charged Burnett with reckless driving and Loar for operating a motor vehicle without a license. A hearing is set April 18 before Magistrate Paul Ottington in Hagerstown.

Isanogle reported the impact of the crash knocked Loar's machine across the intersection where it came to a stop on the opposite side of the road.

Loar was not injured, the deputy said, but Burnett was taken to Washington County Hospital where he was treated for a lacerated chin that required 12 stitches.

W. Carl White, sales manager; William V. Keegan, Allegany County sales representative, and Mrs. Keegan; Wilbur Sills, Frostburg distributor and former director, and Mrs. Sills; and C. Arthur Brotemarkle, plant engineer, and Mrs. Brotemarkle.

Britain Boasts Last Great Array Of Crown Jewels

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Correspondent

Jewelers the world over are getting set for the dazzling display of the British state jewels during the coronation of Queen Elizabeth on June 2 in Westminster Abbey.

They are alerting their clients many of whom still follow the age-old fabulous hobby of collecting world-famous gems, for what is described as "a regular 'World Series' of precious stones," or as one of the leading jewel experts here describes it, "a rare revelation of gems which is to the jeweler what a total eclipse of the sun is for an astronomer!"

They rate the British crown jewels as by far the most spectacular display of riches in the world today, and one of the few remaining collections in actual use.

Diamond fanciers experience few thrills like that of seeing Queen Elizabeth II wave the royal scepter containing the world's largest diamond, the Star of Africa, cut from the famed Cullinan diamond and weighing 516½ carats. Flawless, it was presented originally to Edward VII.

The imperial state crown, which Elizabeth will don for greater comfort after teetering the ponderous seven-pound St. Edward's Crown, official coronation crown, on her head for only a few minutes, is the acknowledged flowering of the jeweler's art of assembling great masses of gems.

Created in 1838 for Elizabeth's great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, it probably is the height of comfort which can be put into hardware for headdress, but the jewelers pulled no punches in including valuable gems.

The stellar piece is the Black Prince's ruby, large as a hen's egg. Only slightly less prominent are the sapphire from the crown of Charles II, known as the Stuart sapphire; the second largest portion of the Star of Africa diamond, weighing 309 carats; Queen Elizabeth I's eardrops and the sapphire from the coronation ring of Edward the Confessor.

Altogether, exclusive of the larger stones, there are in this crown four rubies, 11 emeralds, 16 sapphires, 277 pearls and 2,783 diamonds.

No precise valuation has been placed upon either St. Edward's Crown or the Imperial State Crown, but the former is estimated by gem authorities at many millions of dollars and the latter may be even more valuable as a collection of stones.

Both are priceless, of course, as symbols of the British empire, as also are the twin Orbs, which are large gold balls made originally for William and Mary, and the various jewel encrusted maces and swords which will figure in the ceremony.

Most of these objects will be carried in the processionals by honored subjects of the realm. Lord Portal will bear the Scepter and Lord Alexander the Golden Orb.

The British crown jewels mainly date back to the Puritans in the Seventeenth Century, because Cromwell's men apparently disposed of almost everything except the gold Anointing Spoon; the Ampulla, the golden eagle which pours the anointing oil through its beak, and Queen Elizabeth I's salt cellar. Even King Arthur's Crown, then 700 years old, was scrapped for its gold.

Royal jewels are becoming a greater rarity every year, say the jewel experts. The gems of the czars of Russia, the only ones which would surpass those of England today, have largely disappeared under the Communists.

France sold most of its crown jewels in 1887 to raise 2,207,252 francs, but Charlemagne's crown, his sword and spurs, are in the Louvre museum, Paris.

Other great collections of history were those of the German empire, Austria, Italy and Portugal. Not all featured such priceless gems as the current British heirlooms, however.

The long-time pride of Romania was a crown made of bronze and steel melted down from Turkish guns captured at Plevna. According to jewel authorities, the British have done the best job in history of combining tradition and sentiment with vast wealth in their crown jewels.

Canning was discovered about 1815 by Nicholas Appert, a Frenchman who was seeking to improve food for the French navy.

My New York
by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK — I had lunch yesterday, in a dark corner of that East Side Hutton's where Laraine Day used to ply her sinister trade as a disc jockey, with a good-looking girl singer who must make a thousand or so bucks a week—and whom nobody knows. That "nobody knows" description isn't mine. It's hers.

Her name is Beverlee Dennis and she's a pert brunet with her hair piled on her head. Actually she's more a singing comedienne than a straight singer but, like Martha Raye, she can sing most of the other girl canaries right into the ground if she wants to. Show people go miles to see her perform and Ethel Merman once told her, shaking her head, "Honey—if anyone should be in a big Broadway show, it should be you."

"But walk away from show people," Beverlee told me sadly, "and get a few miles away from New York—and nobody can tell me from a hole in the ground. Around the country, they don't know if Beverlee Dennis is a juggler or some new kind of detergent. I'll bet you can say in all safety that I'm the highest-paid unknown in show business."

This is a state of affairs that, likely, will be corrected in the years to come—but it goes to prove once more how important The Breaks are to anyone in any business. Miss Beverlee, a Merman-type singer, could double for the loud and lovely-singing Ethel without missing a beat. Yet Merman is a household word even in Dubuque. Miss Beverlee just goes along picking up her lousy thousand a week and being unknown.

She's a Brooklyn girl who was raised in the Bronx and now lives across the river in Sunnyside, L. I., which makes her about as New Yorkish as you can get. For a woman who sings now in high-priced saloons, she has a strangely refined background. She was headed for opera as a girl and when she was 12 she defeated 3,000 other New York kids in a singing contest.

She sang, incidentally, the "Bell Song from Lakme," which is Lily Pons' private property, and when she lost her voice at 14, the "Bell Song" might have helped. It's like a 5-year-old kid trying to do a three-and-a-half double gainor off the 25-foot board.

Boys are the ones supposed to lose their voices at 14, but actually all they do is shift from high year into low. Beverlee actually lost hers. For six months she had a kind of violent laryngitis and couldn't even speak. When she emerged into the world of noise again, the crystal-clear soprano was gone. Miss Dennis had become a whisky tenor.

Her singing coach, the well known Estelle Leibling, then advised her to take up group singing, so, Beverlee got mixed up first with a trio and then with another girl as a duo, the Dennis sisters. It was at this point that she behaved like Betty Grable in one of those Technicolor movies.

A big show producer spotted their act and offered Beverlee a fat contract — without the other girl. Beverlee's nice instincts came to the fore. "I don't go without Helen," she said.

A little while later Helen got married and began raising a family, so you can see what dirty trick Beverlee's natural nice instincts played on her.

Her biggest break to date came a year or two ago wnen she starred in an abbreviated musical comedy, "All About Love," that was booked into a smart East Side supper club, the Versailles. "All About Love" played the incredible time of nine months at the Versailles and it began the custom among show people to drop in late, after their own stints, and catch Beverlee Dennis' performance. She became the singers' singer, like the ballplayers' ballplayer.

Since then the story has been the same. She's wowed the Banshees, the well-known luncheon club, stealing the thunder of such stars as Sid Caesar, Anne Jeffreys, Jim Barton, et al, and out in Reno singer Beatrice Kay came in to hear Beverlee every night.

They're talking of her going into the Copacabana next fall. Everybody loves her — except John Q. Public. "He doesn't even know me," Beverlee told me darkly.

In all Africa there are only four independent countries not associated with colonial empires: Egypt, Ethiopia, Liberia and Libya.

Exhibition Games

Reds Whip Tigers

CINCINNATI, April 10 (AP)—The home run-minded Cincinnati Reds found the range three times again today to whip the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 4, in an exhibition game before only 1,012 fans at chilly Crosley Field.

Wally Post, Jim Greengrass and Ted Kluszewski homered off losing pitcher Billy Hoeft as the Reds downed the Tigers for the second straight day. Yesterday Cincinnati won 13 to 3, with a barrage of five home runs.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 10 (AP)—Rookie Ray Katt's three-run homer in the eighth inning gave the New York Giants a come-from-behind 9-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians in a slugfest today.

The Giants were trailing 7-5 when the catcher smashed one of reliever Lou Brissie's curves over the right field fence. Hank Thompson hit an insurance homer in the ninth. Whitey Lockman also hit a three-run homer in the third for the Giants.

15th Year For League
License Bill Ditched
Sal Books Tough Ones
Hyndman Nines Merge

By C. V. BURNS

EIGHT OF THE NINE schools entered in this year's Bi-State Baseball Conference race are scheduled to pry off the lid on Monday afternoon.

Beall High's defending champions host Flintstone, Bruce meets LaSalle here, Allegany invades Mt. Savage and Fort Hill opposes Hyndman High on the latter's field. Central High of Lonaconing opens the season later in the week.

This is the 15th season for the schoolboy circuit which opened in 1939.

Beall High has won the title for the past three seasons, thanks to the brilliant mound work of Enordo "Moose" Arnone, the hefty southpaw. Over three seasons Beall won 36 games and lost 4 and Arnone's record over those three campaigns was 32 triumphs and one loss. He posted a 9-0 mark in 1950, made it 12-0 for 1951 and finished up his high school career last spring with an 11-1 record. Allegany handed him his lone defeat in the 1952 opener and then "Moose" wound up with 11 consecutive victories.

The Frostburg school has won more league titles than any other school—a total of five. Fort Hill has bagged three titles and shared another with LaSalle.

Mt. Savage is a new starter in this year's race.

1940—Beall (7-3)	1947—LaSalle (8-2)
1941—Fort Hill (8-1)	1948—Fort Hill (9-2)
1942—Fort Hill (5-2)	1949—Hyndman (8-3)
1943—Fort Hill-LaSalle tied at (8-2)	1950—Beall (10-3)
1944—LaSalle (6-2)	1951—Beall (13-)
1945—Allegany (7-1)	1952—Beall (13-1)

ONE OF THE MORE important bills sponsored by the Maryland Game Department was caught in the turmoil and confusion of the final session of the General Assembly and failed to pass.

This was the bill calling for an increase in the county and statewide hunting licenses.

It was passed by the House and had a favorable report from the Senate committees in charge but was caught in the cross-fire of political maneuvering and failed to achieve passage.

Bills of this nature have been introduced in the last couple sessions of the legislature but all have died.

CURRENT HUNTING license fees have been unchanged in Maryland since 1918. County resident licenses cost $1.25 while the fee for the state-wide resident license is $5.25.

The bill that failed to pass called for an increase of 25 cents on county and 75 cents on state-wide licenses.

A BILL that did achieve final passage increases the fine for trespassing on land that has been posted or failure to leave land after being warned off by its owner.

Under the present law the fine may run from $1 to $15, but the new bill makes the maximum fine $100 and furthermore confiscates the culprit's hunting license and sets a period of 12 months before he can purchase another license.

Stiffening of the penalty for trespassing with a loaded gun in possession should act as a deterrent to the increase in the number of hunters who refuse to observe the trespass laws.

SALVATORE (SAL) SOMMA, native of Ridgeley, W. Va., former New York University grid star, and now head coach of football at New Dorp High School, Staten Island, N. Y., has lined up one of the toughest schoolboy grid schedules in New York City for the 1953 campaign.

New Dorp's Central's won the Island championship last fall with a record of four wins, one loss and two scoreless ties. The most important win was over Curtis High on Thanksgiving Day, 18-0.

This year's schedule includes St. John's Prep, Manual Training, Lafayette High, James Madison High, New Utrecht, Adelphi Academy, Samuel Tilden High and Curtis. All of these schools field powerful grid teams.

The other day Don Vick of Ontario, Calif., heaved the 12-pound ball 61 feet, 7¼ inches in the Santa Barbara Easter Relays, beating by 10 inches the former national mark of 60 feet, 9⅞ inches hung up last year by Leon Patterson of Taft, Calif.

THE HYNDMAN FIREMEN, formerly of the Bi-State League, and the Hyndman V.F.W., former Interstate League team, have consolidated and will play under the name of "Hyndman Eagles" this season in the Greater Bedford County League which opens April 26.

Ernie Harden will manage the Hyndman entry.

JOCKEY AL TRYON, now riding at Bowie, is a son of Al Tryon, Sr., who was a leading reinsman on the half milers of Maryland in the past and rode at Fairgo 20 years ago.

Al, Jr. rode 48 winners in 1950 before going into the army for two years and will be permitted to claim a 5-pound apprentice allowance until the end of August.

The regular procedure is for a new rider to keep "the bug" for one year, or until he has ridden 40 winners.

Tryon had been riding only six months when he got his call from Uncle Sam. If he had not gone into service, he would have enjoyed the 5-pound drag for a full year. Therefore, the Racing Commission has seen fit to make it up to him. Its action was unprecedented.

YANKEE PENNANT HOPES MAY REST ON THIS QUARTET

PENNANT CHANCES of the New York Yankees this year, considered good again, may rest on what these four pitchers do. They're the big guns even though three of them are getting up in years. The group (from left) are Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Whitey Ford and Ed Lopat. Ford is out of the Army and may be termed a question mark although he pitched spectacular ball for the Yanks in 1950. (International)

McKeldin Asked To Veto Betting Bill For Cecil

Legalized Gambling Opposed For Jumpers

ANNAPOLIS, April 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin was asked today to veto an act which would expand steeplechase racing at Fair Hill and permit pari-mutuel betting.

The governor heard opponents and proponents of the bill in his statehouse reception room. He also listened to arguments for and against four other measures passed by the recent session of the General Assembly.

Opponents of the racing bill, most of them clergymen in the area of the racing site, said they wanted to keep legalized gambling out of Cecil County.

"We think gambling is wrong," Rev. Perry O. Hill of Zion said, "and we do not wish to tie it in with an agricultural fair attended by young farm children."

William du Pont Jr. of Wilmington, Del., has been promoting one day of steeplechasing annually at Fair Hill since 1932 on his 11,000 acre estate near Elkton. There has been no legal betting on the races.

The bill by the Cecil County delegation calls for racing on the two Saturdays after Labor Day. Tentative plans are to hold six races each Saturday, at least four of them over the jumps.

The Cecil County Breeders' Fair is held in conjunction with the races, with the profits going to Union Hospital in Elkton.

Under the statute the hospital would also get a 6 per cent cut of the betting. Four per cent would go to the state.

Racing Commission To Consider Change In Dates At Fairgo

The Cumberland track has an Aug. 4-15 meeting scheduled which would include a week of opposition from the Charles Town, W. Va., track.

The new proposal is for a June 16-27 meeting with only two days of opposition from Charles Town. There would be no racing on Monday, June 22.

Westvaco To Start Drills On Sunday

WESTERNPORT, April 10—The Westvaco Club of the Bi-State Baseball League will hold its initial meeting and practice Sunday at 2:30 at Memorial Park.

Drills are also scheduled for next Wednesday and Thursday at 5 p. m.

Leads By Stroke At 36-Hole Mark

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 10 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the grim little golfer who once had a Masters Tournament dedicated to him, took charge of another Masters today as he shot his way into the lead at the 36 hole mark.

Hogan, followed by a tremendous week-day gallery of 8,000, put a round of 69 on top of yesterday's 70 for a two-day total of 139. That's five strokes under par for Augusta National, the spacious and soul-testing course in the red clay hills of East Georgia.

Leads By Stroke

At the end of play in the second round, which started in a thunderstorm and ended in bright sunshine, Hogan had just a one-stroke margin over the portly Evansville, Ind., veteran, Bob Hamilton, and two over Chick Harbert of Detroit, the first-day leader, and chunky Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.

But, except for a few moments of suspense when the fans waited to see if Hamilton could overtake their favorite, no one doubted that it was Ben's day. The whole mob took out after him when word got around that he was scorching the front nine with a four-under-par 32.

Iron Shots Are Deadly

That was where Hogan got in his best licks. He got his first birdie of the day on the fifth hole, where defending champion Sam Snead started to shoot himself out of the picture. He also birdied the sixth, eighth and ninth with deadly iron shots.

Ben went over par for the first time when he three-putted the eleventh green. He made it up with a birdie on 13, after a drive into the woods, then began playing cautiously. He went over on the short 16th, but hit all the others in regulation figures.

After a 71 yesterday, Hamilton also had a 32 on the front nine and was even with Hogan after eleven holes today.

In the stretch, however, big, cigar-chewing Bob bogged down a bit. He went over par on the 12th and 14th holes but birdied the 13th. He three-putted the 16th when a par would have put him even, and on the final hole he hooked his drive a country mile into the rough and didn't quite sink the long putt which could have tied him for the lead.

Harbert Shoots 73

Harbert, who set the pace with a 68 yesterday, came through with an ordinary 73 today to share third place with Kroll, a hard-bitten little Army veteran who had a 71 and 70.

Tied at 142 were ex-open champion Lloyd Mangrum, who shot a 68 for the day's best round; rotund Ed Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif., and Milton Marusic, a lean, unemployed and virtually unknown pro from Herkimer, N. Y.

Mangrum, tabbed as one of the players to beat this year, had a round of 35-33—68 after an opening 74.

Sam Snead Slumps

Snead, who shot a 70 yesterday and only got credit for a 71 because of a mixup on the scorecard he signed, couldn't control his wood shots today and wound up with 75 for a 146 total. That doesn't put him clear out, for he won last year with a 286 total that included a round of 77, but he's on the edge.

The Purple Heart Club won its consolation series with the Cumberland V.F.W. in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by the margin of 11 points in six games.

Purple Heart lost last night's match by 11 points but it had taken the first three games by the margin of 22 points.

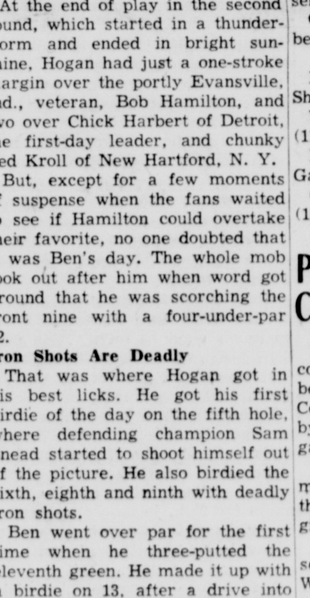
Fighting for Life



ERNIE LOMBARDI, former National league catcher, is in critical condition in an Oakland, Calif., hospital after being found at the home of his sister with his throat slashed. His family told sheriff's deputies that Lombardi, known as "Schnozz" when he caught big league ball, has been mentally depressed lately. (International)

Colts To Train At Westminster

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts announced today they will train at Western Maryland College for their return to the National Football League.

That was the last training site of the Colts before surrendering their franchise in 1950. Coach Keith Molesworth plans to open camp July 20 with about 60 candidates.

Lakers Defeat Knicks, 91-84, To Annex Title

New Yorkers Lose Four On Personals

NEW YORK, April 10 (INS)—The Minneapolis Lakers nailed down their fourth National Basketball Association championship in five years with a 91-to-84 victory tonight over the New York Knickerbockers in New York.

It was the fourth straight win for the Lakers in the final playoff series and their third in a row on the Knickerbockers' home court. The Knicks won only the first game in Minneapolis.

Ahead by 20 points at one time, the Lakers were forced to break the back of a fourth-quarter Knick rally that closed the gap to 85 to 84 on a Dick McGuire layup with less than two minutes left.

But the Knicks' lack of reserve strength was their undoing. They lost four men—Vince Boryla, Carl Braun, Sweetwater Clifton and Jerry Fleischman—on fouls, and the tall Lakers poured it on in the final minute.

Braun topped scorers for both teams with 19 points, while Connie Simmons had 16 for the Knicks. Vic Pollard led Minneapolis with 17, with George Mikan and Slater Martin getting 14 apiece.

Southern Trims Tunnelton High

OAKLAND, Md, April 10 — Southern High School's baseball team swamped Tunnelton High School today at Tunnelton, W. Va., to post its second straight victory of the season. The score was 32-3.

Southern scored in every inning but the second and registered 12 runs in the 6th and eight tallies in the third.

Bill Sharpless, who pitched the first five innings, got credit for the winner. Denver Sisler, Brewer and Sweitzer followed him to the rubber.

The Highlanders racked up 18 hits, including two triples and three doubles. Oakland pitchers struck out 15 batsmen, 10 of the victims being credited to Sharpless.

The fiercest animal on earth is not the lion, tiger or leopard, but the tiny shrew. It will attack and devour almost any animal up to twice its size and eats its own weight in meat every three hours.

As You Were

This Cumberland southpaw won 165 games and lost 56 during his career that covered junior Legion, high school, semi-pro and professional baseball but there are two games that will always stand out in his memory.

He was pitching for Allegany High School in 1931 against Hagerstown at Hancock. Eddie Semler's Hubs were leading 5-2 as a result of a three-run outburst in the top of the 11th. With Adam Sterne and Eddie Diehl on base and two hands retired, Coach Walter Bowers inserted Franklin "Lefty" Wolfe to pinch hit for Carl Rossi. Wolfe came through with a mighty home run to deep centerfield to tie up the ball game at 5-all. Then in the 13th frame this pitcher won his own game (6-5) with a single that scored Adam Sterne. He whiffed 14 batsmen in that contest. The story behind the story is that Wolfe slammed that three-run homer with a broken bat.

Another thriller in which this portsider took part was a 1-0 duel he lost to Pat Corrigan. He was 16 at the time and was pitching for Eckhart in the Georges Creek League. The game was played in Frostburg before approximately 5,000 fans and went 10 innings.

Born in Cumberland Oct. 12, 1914, the lad pictured here started pitching at the age of 14. He hurled for the Dokkies and Elks in the Legion Junior League and joined the semi-pros when he was 15. He entered pro ball in 1938 and played with Thomasville in the North Carolina State League. He had signed with Charleston of the Mid-Atlantic League when Uncle Sam called him into the service in 1942. During the Second World War he was with the 96th Division in the Pacific Theater. He came home in 1949 and pitched until 1948.

At Allegany High he hurled for three seasons, winning 20 and losing 4. He also played basketball and football under Coach Bowers.

His all-time pitching average is .747 per cent. He has fanned 1,180 batsmen, issued 270 walks, yielded 1,047 hits and owns an earned run average of 2.69.

What's this former twirler's name?

Harvey Averaged 23.3 For Sanders, Team Won 15 Of 25

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., April 10—George Harvey of Sanders High School was one of the top scorers in the tri-state area during the 1952-53 season.

He figured in 20 of the 25 games played by the local school and racked up 466 points, an average of 23.3 points per game.

Sanders had a most successful season, winning 15 and losing 10. During the regular schedule the locals won 13 and lost 6 and in tournament play scored two wins against four defeats.

Cardinals Change Name Of Park Second Time

ST. LOUIS, April 10 (INS) — The St. Louis Cardinals today hurriedly made a second switch in the name of Sportsman's park which they purchased yesterday from the St. Louis Browns.

August A. Busch Jr. president of the club, said the ball park will be named Busch stadium.

After the park sale was announced, he had changed the name of Budweiser stadium, an action which stirred considerable comment in St. Louis because of its commercial aspects as a brand of beer brewed by his Anheuser-Busch firm.

The new name also relieved a ticklish situation facing two other St. Louis breweries who sponsor radio broadcasts to Cardinal and Brown games.

Potomac State Gets Three Runs In Ninth For Exciting Finish

KEYSER, April 10 — Kent State College of Ohio managed to stave off a late rally today to win the opener of a two-game series from Potomac State College's tossers at Stayman Field by the score of 7-6.

Trailing 7-3 going into the ninth, Coach John Maiden's Catamounts chased three runs over the platter and had the tying run on second and the winning run on first when Relief Pitcher Simon fanned G. Gorman for the final out.

Parinella, pinch-hitting for Dove, started the fireworks in the 9th by touching Bocci for a single, and scored on a two-base wallop by Niedbala. After Baird walked, Simon replaced Bocci on the rubber for Kent State. Long struck out and Egan went out via the infield but singles by Beck and Holder drove home Niedbala and Baird to put the Catamounts only one run behind at 7-6. Then Simon put out the fire by whiffing Gorman.

Junior Dove went the route for Potomac and gave up 11 hits, three of which were credited to Rummel, Kent State first sacker. Bocci fanned nine Potomac State batsmen in eight frames. Three of the Cats' nine hits were credited to Joe "Butch" Niedbala, shortstop, who also turned in several nice fielding plays.

The loss was the third straight for Potomac State.

Kent State winds up its series here Saturday at 1 o'clock instead of 2 p. m., as previously announced. "Rowdy" Totten will be on the firing line for the locals. Box score.

Hyndman Nines Merge

By C. V. BURNS

EIGHT OF THE NINE schools entered in this year's Bi-State Baseball Conference race are scheduled to pry off the lid on Monday afternoon.

Beall High's defending champions host Flintstone, Bruce meets LaSalle here, Allegany invades Mt. Savage and Fort Hill opposes Hyndman High on the latter's field. Central High of Lonaconing opens the season later in the week.

This is the 15th season for the schoolboy circuit which opened in 1939.

Beall High has won the title for the past three seasons, thanks to the brilliant mound work of Enordo "Moose" Arnone, the hefty southpaw. Over three seasons Beall won 36 games and lost 4 and Arnone's record over those three campaigns was 32 triumphs and one loss. He posted a 9-0 mark in 1950, made it 12-0 for 1951 and finished up his high school career last spring with an 11-1 record. Allegany handed him his lone defeat in the 1952 opener and then "Moose" wound up with 11 consecutive victories.

The Frostburg school has won more league titles than any other school—a total of five. Fort Hill has bagged three titles and shared another with LaSalle.

Mt. Savage is a new starter in this year's race.

1940—Beall (7-3)	1947—LaSalle (8-2)
1941—Fort Hill (8-1)	1948—Fort Hill (9-2)
1942—Fort Hill (5-2)	1949—Hyndman (8-3)
1943—Fort Hill-LaSalle tied at (8-2)	1950—Beall (10-3)
1944—LaSalle (6-2)	1951—Beall (13-)
1945—Allegany (7-1)	1952—Beall (13-1)

ONE OF THE MORE important bills sponsored by the Maryland Game Department was caught in the turmoil and confusion of the final session of the General Assembly and failed to pass.

This was the bill calling for an increase in the county and statewide hunting licenses.

It was passed by the House and had a favorable report from the Senate committees in charge but was caught in the cross-fire of political maneuvering and failed to achieve passage.

Bills of this nature have been introduced in the last couple sessions of the legislature but all have died.

CURRENT HUNTING license fees have been unchanged in Maryland since 1918. County resident licenses cost $1.25 while the fee for the state-wide resident license is $5.25.

The bill that failed to pass called for an increase of 25 cents on county and 75 cents on state-wide licenses.

A BILL that did achieve final passage increases the fine for trespassing on land that has been posted or failure to leave land after being warned off by its owner.

Under the present law the fine may run from $1 to $15, but the new bill makes the maximum fine $100 and furthermore confiscates the culprit's hunting license and sets a period of 12 months before he can purchase another license.

Stiffening of the penalty for trespassing with a loaded gun in possession should act as a deterrent to the increase in the number of hunters who refuse to observe the trespass laws.

SALVATORE (SAL) SOMMA, native of Ridgeley, W. Va., former New York University grid star, and now head coach of football at New Dorp High School, Staten Island, N. Y., has lined up one of the toughest schoolboy grid schedules in New York City for the 1953 campaign.

New Dorp's Central's won the Island championship last fall with a record of four wins, one loss and two scoreless ties. The most important win was over Curtis High on Thanksgiving Day, 18-0.

This year's schedule includes St. John's Prep, Manual Training, Lafayette High, James Madison High, New Utrecht, Adelphi Academy, Samuel Tilden High and Curtis. All of these schools field powerful grid teams.

The other day Don Vick of Ontario, Calif., heaved the 12-pound ball 61 feet, 7¼ inches in the Santa Barbara Easter Relays, beating by 10 inches the former national mark of 60 feet, 9⅞ inches hung up last year by Leon Patterson of Taft, Calif.

THE HYNDMAN FIREMEN, formerly of the Bi-State League, and the Hyndman V.F.W., former Interstate League team, have consolidated and will play under the name of "Hyndman Eagles" this season in the Greater Bedford County League which opens April 26.

Ernie Harden will manage the Hyndman entry.

JOCKEY AL TRYON, now riding at Bowie, is a son of Al Tryon, Sr., who was a leading reinsman on the half milers of Maryland in the past and rode at Fairgo 20 years ago.

Al, Jr. rode 48 winners in 1950 before going into the army for two years and will be permitted to claim a 5-pound apprentice allowance until the end of August.

The regular procedure is for a new rider to keep "the bug" for one year, or until he has ridden 40 winners.

Tryon had been riding only six months when he got his call from Uncle Sam. If he had not gone into service, he would have enjoyed the 5-pound drag for a full year. Therefore, the Racing Commission has seen fit to make it up to him. Its action was unprecedented.

YANKEE PENNANT HOPES MAY REST ON THIS QUARTET

McKeldin Asked To Veto Betting Bill For Cecil

Legalized Gambling Opposed For Jumpers

ANNAPOLIS, April 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin was asked today to veto an act which would expand steeplechase racing at Fair Hill and permit pari-mutuel betting.

The governor heard opponents and proponents of the bill in his statehouse reception room. He also listened to arguments for and against four other measures passed by the recent session of the General Assembly.

Opponents of the racing bill, most of them clergymen in the area of the racing site, said they wanted to keep legalized gambling out of Cecil County.

"We think gambling is wrong," Rev. Perry O. Hill of Zion said, "and we do not wish to tie it in with an agricultural fair attended by young farm children."

William du Pont Jr. of Wilmington, Del., has been promoting one day of steeplechasing annually at Fair Hill since 1932 on his 11,000 acre estate near Elkton. There has been no legal betting on the races.

The bill by the Cecil County delegation calls for racing on the two Saturdays after Labor Day. Tentative plans are to hold six races each Saturday, at least four of them over the jumps.

The Cecil County Breeders' Fair is held in conjunction with the races, with the profits going to Union Hospital in Elkton.

Under the statute the hospital would also get a 6 per cent cut of the betting. Four per cent would go to the state.

Racing Commission To Consider Change In Dates At Fairgo

The Cumberland track has an Aug. 4-15 meeting scheduled which would include a week of opposition from the Charles Town, W. Va., track.

The new proposal is for a June 16-27 meeting with only two days of opposition from Charles Town. There would be no racing on Monday, June 22.

Westvaco To Start Drills On Sunday

WESTERNPORT, April 10—The Westvaco Club of the Bi-State Baseball League will hold its initial meeting and practice Sunday at 2:30 at Memorial Park.

Drills are also scheduled for next Wednesday and Thursday at 5 p. m.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 10 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the grim little golfer who once had a Masters Tournament dedicated to him, took charge of another Masters today as he shot his way into the lead at the 36 hole mark.

Hogan, followed by a tremendous week-day gallery of 8,000, put a round of 69 on top of yesterday's 70 for a two-day total of 139. That's five strokes under par for Augusta National, the spacious and soul-testing course in the red clay hills of East Georgia.

Leads By Stroke

At the end of play in the second round, which started in a thunderstorm and ended in bright sunshine, Hogan had just a one-stroke margin over the portly Evansville, Ind., veteran, Bob Hamilton, and two over Chick Harbert of Detroit, the first-day leader, and chunky Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.

But, except for a few moments of suspense when the fans waited to see if Hamilton could overtake their favorite, no one doubted that it was Ben's day. The whole mob took out after him when word got around that he was scorching the front nine with a four-under-par 32.

Iron Shots Are Deadly

That was where Hogan got in his best licks. He got his first birdie of the day on the fifth hole, where defending champion Sam Snead started to shoot himself out of the picture. He also birdied the sixth, eighth and ninth with deadly iron shots.

Ben went over par for the first time when he three-putted the eleventh green. He made it up with a birdie on 13, after a drive into the woods, then began playing cautiously. He went over on the short 16th, but hit all the others in regulation figures.

After a 71 yesterday, Hamilton also had a 32 on the front nine and was even with Hogan after eleven holes today.

In the stretch, however, big, cigar-chewing Bob bogged down a bit. He went over par on the 12th and 14th holes but birdied the 13th. He three-putted the 16th when a par would have put him even, and on the final hole he hooked his drive a country mile into the rough and didn't quite sink the long putt which could have tied him for the lead.

Harbert Shoots 73

Harbert, who set the pace with a 68 yesterday, came through with an ordinary 73 today to share third place with Kroll, a hard-bitten little Army veteran who had a 71 and 70.

Tied at 142 were ex-open champion Lloyd Mangrum, who shot a 68 for the day's best round; rotund Ed Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif., and Milton Marusic, a lean, unemployed and virtually unknown pro from Herkimer, N. Y.

Mangrum, tabbed as one of the players to beat this year, had a round of 35-33—68 after an opening 74.

Sam Snead Slumps

Snead, who shot a 70 yesterday and only got credit for a 71 because of a mixup on the scorecard he signed, couldn't control his wood shots today and wound up with 75 for a 146 total. That doesn't put him clear out, for he won last year with a 286 total that included a round of 77, but he's on the edge.

Colts To Train At Westminster

Lakers Defeat Knicks, 91-84, To Annex Title

New Yorkers Lose Four On Personals

NEW YORK, April 10 (INS)—The Minneapolis Lakers nailed down their fourth National Basketball Association championship in five years with a 91-to-84 victory tonight over the New York Knickerbockers in New York.

It was the fourth straight win for the Lakers in the final playoff series and their third in a row on the Knickerbockers' home court. The Knicks won only the first game in Minneapolis.

Ahead by 20 points at one time, the Lakers were forced to break the back of a fourth-quarter Knick rally that closed the gap to 85 to 84 on a Dick McGuire layup with less than two minutes left.

But the Knicks' lack of reserve strength was their undoing. They lost four men—Vince Boryla, Carl Braun, Sweetwater Clifton and Jerry Fleischman—on fouls, and the tall Lakers poured it on in the final minute.

Braun topped scorers for both teams with 19 points, while Connie Simmons had 16 for the Knicks. Vic Pollard led Minneapolis with 17, with George Mikan and Slater Martin getting 14 apiece.

The Highlanders racked up 18 hits, including two triples and three doubles. Oakland pitchers struck out 15 batsmen, 10 of the victims being credited to Sharpless.

As You Were

This Cumberland southpaw won 165 games and lost 56 during his career that covered junior Legion, high school, semi-pro and professional baseball but there are two games that will always stand out in his memory.

He was pitching for Allegany High School in 1931 against Hagerstown at Hancock. Eddie Semler's Hubs were leading 5-2 as a result of a three-run outburst in the top of the 11th. With Adam Sterne and Eddie Diehl on base and two hands retired, Coach Walter Bowers inserted Franklin "Lefty" Wolfe to pinch hit for Carl Rossi. Wolfe came through with a mighty home run to deep centerfield to tie up the ball game at 5-all. Then in the 13th frame this pitcher won his own game (6-5) with a single that scored Adam Sterne. He whiffed 14 batsmen in that contest. The story behind the story is that Wolfe slammed that three-run homer with a broken bat.

Another thriller in which this portsider took part was a 1-0 duel he lost to Pat Corrigan. He was 16 at the time and was pitching for Eckhart in the Georges Creek League. The game was played in Frostburg before approximately 5,000 fans and went 10 innings.

Born in Cumberland Oct. 12, 1914, the lad pictured here started pitching at the age of 14. He hurled for the Dokkies and Elks in the Legion Junior League and joined the semi-pros when he was 15. He entered pro ball in 1938 and played with Thomasville in the North Carolina State League. He had signed with Charleston of the Mid-Atlantic League when Uncle Sam called him into the service in 1942. During the Second World War he was with the 96th Division in the Pacific Theater. He came home in 1949 and pitched until 1948.

At Allegany High he hurled for three seasons, winning 20 and losing 4. He also played basketball and football under Coach Bowers.

His all-time pitching average is .747 per cent. He has fanned 1,180 batsmen, issued 270 walks, yielded 1,047 hits and owns an earned run average of 2.69.

What's this former twirler's name?

Bulldogs-Fort Hill Trackmen Vie Today

Coach John Cobourn's Martinsburg High School thinclads will oppose Fort Hill's high flying Sentinels in a dual track and field meet today at the local stadium at 2 o'clock.

Coach William P. Hahn last night announced that yesterday's windy weather dried out the field which should be in good condition for the program of 12 events.

The track events are 100, 220, 440, 880 and mile run, low and high hurdles while the field contests are shot put, discus throw, pole vault, high and broad jump.

Fort Hill has won 14 consecutive meets in three seasons.

Cardinals Change Name Of Park Second Time

ST. LOUIS, April 10 (INS) — The St. Louis Cardinals today hurriedly made a second switch in the name of Sportsman's park which they purchased yesterday from the St. Louis Browns.

August A. Busch Jr. president of the club, said the ball park will be named Busch stadium.

After the park sale was announced, he had changed the name of Budweiser stadium, an action which stirred considerable comment in St. Louis because of its commercial aspects as a brand of beer brewed by his Anheuser-Busch firm.

The new name also relieved a ticklish situation facing two other St. Louis breweries who sponsor radio broadcasts to Cardinal and Brown games.

Potomac State Gets Three Runs In Ninth For Exciting Finish

KEYSER, April 10 — Kent State College of Ohio managed to stave off a late rally today to win the opener of a two-game series from Potomac State College's tossers at Stayman Field by the score of 7-6.

Trailing 7-3 going into the ninth, Coach John Maiden's Catamounts chased three runs over the platter and had the tying run on second and the winning run on first when Relief Pitcher Simon fanned G. Gorman for the final out.

Parinella, pinch-hitting for Dove, started the fireworks in the 9th by touching Bocci for a single, and scored on a two-base wallop by Niedbala. After Baird walked, Simon replaced Bocci on the rubber for Kent State. Long struck out and Egan went out via the infield but singles by Beck and Holder drove home Niedbala and Baird to put the Catamounts only one run behind at 7-6. Then Simon put out the fire by whiffing Gorman.

Junior Dove went the route for Potomac and gave up 11 hits, three of which were credited to Rummel, Kent State first sacker. Bocci fanned nine Potomac State batsmen in eight frames. Three of the Cats' nine hits were credited to Joe "Butch" Niedbala, shortstop, who also turned in several nice fielding plays.

The loss was the third straight for Potomac State.

Kent State winds up its series here Saturday at 1 o'clock instead of 2 p. m., as previously announced. "Rowdy" Totten will be on the firing line for the locals. Box score.

Derby Eligibles Enter Chesapeake Stakes At Bowie

Share For Today's Winner Is $25,025

By GEORGE BOWEN

BOWIE, Md., April 10 (AP)—Kentucky Derby long-shot plungers will scan 10 possibilities in tomorrow's Chesapeake Stakes.

The Derby nominees will have to race their way for a mile and sixteenth through a crowded field of 16. If all go to the post, Starter Eddie Blind will have to use two gates.

The winner's share will be worth $25,025, second highest in 31 runnings since 1920. Bullet Proof took down the biggest Chesapeake purse, $28,300, in 1947.

The Chesapeake will be the Derby make-or-break test for most of the 10 prospects, if not all.

One of these is Eugene Constantin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem. The Chesapeake is the first start for the black colt from Texas since he went sour training for the Florida Derby. Before that, he had taken the measure of Greentree Stable's Straight Face in the Everglades and just lost to the same highly regarded Derby eligible in the Flamingo.

Royal Bay Gem and three others will be top weights at 119 pounds. Equally handicapped are Walter A. Edgar's Prince Dare, Alfred Vanderbilt's Social Outcast, and Brookfield Farm's Isasmoothie.

One of his main rivals will be a Maryland invader, Mrs. Samuel Pistorio's Tuscany, winner of the Rowe Memorial Handicap at Bowie March 28. Tuscany has 124 pounds.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—Absent-minded horse-players gave the state more than a quarter of a million dollars last year in the form of uncashed winning tickets.

Spencer E. Bates, president of the State Tax Commission, said the uncashed ticket proceeds from the 1952 racing season were $274,232. Today was the final day for redemption of last year's uncashed tickets.

Since pari-mutuel betting went into effect 13 years ago, the state has collected $2,368,878 in uncashed ticket money.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

Five sides to the question.

War in the Pentagon assumes astronomical dimensions not even reached by Gordon's Squares in the Sudan. The Pentagoners are fighting on five fronts.

What would have been the orders to the patriots on Bunker Hill if the Pentagoneers had been charging? The whites of their eyes are on their tongues.

This self-funding hassel between the civilian and military has been going on since Isabella gave her jewelry to a sailor.

The sea-going desks of the Pentagon have been swivelled to war power. Occupants of the world's largest crow's-nest will resist the transfer of their names from glass doors to bronze plaques.

The Crowning Glory

Heard on unrepeatable authority that the 1953 coronation may be the last one in the set.

By that time England will be enough in debt to be a true democracy.

These days the cafeteria set must watch its crown and overcoat.

There is no reason why England's present form of government should sign off on the dotted line. The fanfare and regalia carry on the traditions of ancient civilizations. And the pompt amuses the children.

It puts our diplomats in short pants sartorially. And keeps them there mentally.

Most of the royalties in Europe have been slag-heaped. Zog of Albania became known as Zig of Riviera.

The Riviera is a wonderful spot to polish your crown and count your money. The ex-king of Egypt was there now on relief money. He relieved the Egyptian treasury of millions.

Remember Carol of Rumania and the beautiful Lupescu? He gave it all up for her. And she took it.

Course the Duke of Windsor really blew the foam off the beer when he played jeweled hoops with the crown. Never underestimate the power of a Baltimore gal. Even if you're in Washington.

Never a Dulles moment

Here's what our foreign policy looks like now. The GOP wants to get the Democrats out of Washington. But it doesn't want them out of America.

Minute the White House names an old career diplomat the house hops on him like he was the last street-car home.

If you're a diplomat you must have been in the Roosevelt-Truman administrations. The only other possible job was dipping tea-balls for cock-eyed millionaires in the Union Club.

The GOP is consolidating its position like a fat boy in a hammock. It gets annoyed when secretary Dulles appoints somebody who should have gone through the non-refillable exit.

It fails to calibrate the difference between a holdover and a leftover. And no matter where our foreign policy lays its eggs they come home to roost.

Adlai Stevenson promised the GOP that politics stopped at the water's edge. If that's true where did it get its feet wet?

The light of a candle 40,000 miles away could be picked up by the Palomar telescope near San Diego, Calif.

NATURAL gas reserves in the United States continued to expand in 1952 despite a record withdrawal of 8.6 trillion cubic feet. At the end of the year 5.9 trillion cubic feet had been added to proved recoverable reserves, bringing the total to nearly 200 trillion cubic feet. Increased exploration activities accounted for new discoveries last year of 5.4 trillion cubic feet compared with only 3 trillion of reserves in new fields brought in during 1951. Extended drilling in existing fields added another 8.9 trillion cubic feet to the nation's fuel reservoir.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD— (INS) —Maybe you remember Helga Moray's best seller of a few years ago, "Katy Called Katzy," a dramatic story set in the African veldt, with adventure, excitement, love, and just about everything else.

This is to be Bert Friedlob's next, and it will be filmed in its original locale. A scout has already contacted the African Government to make arrangements.

Bert plans to go to Africa in the fall, and I'll be surprise if Bette Davis, who won an Academy nomination for "The Star," for Friedlob, doesn't play the top feminine role. It will be a 20th Century-Fox project and will be made in cinemascope.

Yul Brynner, in town for exactly 24 hours, telephoned to say that he has agreed to play King Ramses, one of the Pharaohs in the remake of "The Ten Commandments" for C. B. de Mille.

Yul gets eleven weeks vacation from "The King And I" and is so tired that he headed for Acapulco where he has a date with Gary Cooper to fish.

"King Ramses is such a powerful, positive character," he said, "and I am so glad I am going to do it. But it will have to be when I have time off from 'The King And I' (which, incidentally, has been running for two years)."

It just wouldn't be possible for good things Not to happen to Edmund Gwenn—the latest being a contract at 20th (and in these times when studios are giving few contract deals).

Good things just must come back to this dear little man who does so much good so quietly. He seldom hears of someone in distress that he doesn't get out his checkbook to help.

Edmund's first job on his new contract is "Be Prepared" with Clifton Webb and Frances Dee (Mrs. Joel Mc Crea). If it turns out as well as other movies he's made for 20th, it should be in the Oscar class. He won an Oscar for "Miracle on 34th Street" and was nominated for "Mr. 880."

Just before Florence Chadwick took off on her personal appearance tour she introduced me to Wrestler Vic Christy over the telephone.

While they are engaged to be married, they won't set a wedding date until Florence swims the Straits of Gibraltar, the Dardanelles, and tries to break the English Channel record.

Vic goes to Europe, too, he told me, for several wrestling matches. He pointed out that he had met me at the reception given Florence after her successful Catalina swim.

Freddie de Cordova with Pat Smart were among those who must have seen the battle.

British Actor Robert Newton and Mrs. Newton (Vera Budnick) leave for New York to give the bridegroom a chance to meet his in-laws.

Just to show what winning an Oscar can do, Gloria Grahame gets $5,000 for the Eddie Cantor show—last time she was paid $3,000.

Perc Westmore, beauty expert, is in Hollywood Hospital, where he underwent a minor operation. Perc has just patented a home permanent wave hair styling cap which could very well revolutionize the home permanent business.

Governor James Arthur Ewing writes from American Samoa to say he's starting on a trip around the world and that he plans to buy a home in Hawaii.

Randy Scott, among the lucky ones with his oil investments in this country, has not put more money into a similar project in Venezuela.

That's all today. See you Monday.

The eagle preys on the osprey by making it drop the fish it has caught. When these plundering outrages become intolerable, the ospreys of the neighborhood will band together and drive the eagle out of the vicinity.

Gun Wound Fatal To Local Man

A resident of this city who was apparently despondent over the death of his wife about a month ago was found dead of a self-inflicted head wound at his home, 207 Fulton Street.

Lacy Carl Marsh, 69, was discovered dead on a couch in the living room of his home by Mrs. Hattie M. Smith, of 217 Dexter Place, a distant relative of the deceased.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated, said Marsh had been dead approximately 48 hours. Death was attributed to a bullet in the right temple, fired from a .22 calibre revolver. Dr. Demings said Mrs. Smith was making a periodic call on Marsh when she found him dead. He was last seen on Wednesday.

A retired stationary engineer of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Slag Company, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh had moved here about a year ago. His wife died March 13 and he is claimed to have been despondent since then.

Survivors include a son, Earl Marsh, Galeton, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Ostrom, Jamestown, N. Y.; two brothers, John Marsh, Galeton, and Charles Marsh, Potter Brook, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Orpha Manning, Cogan Station, Pa.; and three grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home and will be taken to the White Funeral Home, Galeton, for services.

Two County Men Sued For $7,500

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 9 (AP)—Three Washington County, Pa., persons sued two Maryland men today for a total of $7,500 damages for injuries suffered in an auto crash.

Named defendants were Franklin Miller of Lonaconing, Md., and Herbert Beeman of Frostburg, Md. Injured in the crash were Daniel Koos, his daughter, Elizabeth, and Janet Albenze, all of Daisytown, Pa.

The suit claims Beeman, who was driving a car owned by Miller, crashed into Koos' truck, injuring the Albenzes. It charges Beeman was driving 70 miles an hour in a 35 miles an hour speed zone. The collision occurred on Route 40 near Malden in Washington County, on Oct. 4, 1952.

Highway Work Being Resumed In Vale Summit

Work has been resumed on the second phase of the Vale Summit Road relocation, surfacing and improvement program by the Cumberland Contracting Company, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The second part of the project consists of surfacing, widening and leveling that portion of the road between Vale Summit and Miller for a distance of 2.42 miles. The balance of the roadway, between Miller and Midland, will be completed at some future date, according to Chaires.

Cost of the current project is approximately $411,000 and added to the $466,000 for the completed section of the work between Clarysville and Vale Summit makes almost $900,000 expended in modernizing the important traffic artery between the Georges Creek section and Cumberland. The road is a short-cut for many residents of that area who work in this city.

Prior to the highway modernization the road was extremely dangerous and consisted of many curves, dips and turns over Dan's Mountain. There have been a number of fatal accidents in the past few years on the road.

Chaires said survey work is being continued on the proposed road into the new Mt. Savage School from the center of that community. The new road will be less steep and be of modern design. The federal government is assisting in paying for this project.

Derby Eligibles Enter Chesapeake Stakes At Bowie

Share For Today's Winner Is $25,025

By GEORGE BOWEN

BOWIE, Md., April 10 (AP)—Kentucky Derby long-shot plungers will scan 10 possibilities in tomorrow's Chesapeake Stakes.

The Derby nominees will have to race their way for a mile and sixteenth through a crowded field of 16. If all go to the post, Starter Eddie Blind will have to use two gates.

The winner's share will be worth $25,025, second highest in 31 runnings since 1920. Bullet Proof took down the biggest Chesapeake purse, $28,300, in 1947.

The Chesapeake will be the Derby make-or-break test for most of the 10 prospects, if not all.

One of these is Eugene Constantin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem. The Chesapeake is the first start for the black colt from Texas since he went sour training for the Florida Derby. Before that, he had taken the measure of Greentree Stable's Straight Face in the Everglades and just lost to the same highly regarded Derby eligible in the Flamingo.

Royal Bay Gem and three others will be top weights at 119 pounds. Equally handicapped are Walter A. Edgar's Prince Dare, Alfred Vanderbilt's Social Outcast, and Brookfield Farm's Isasmoothie.

Eleven May Start In Jamaica Event

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Eleven speedy sprinters were entered today for the 22nd running of the Jamaica Handicap tomorrow at Jamaica track.

The probable favorite is Jan of the Paumonok Handicap here on opening day April 1. Squared Away must carry 130 pounds in the six furlong dahs, with a $20,000-added purse.

One of his main rivals will be a Maryland invader, Mrs. Samuel Pistorio's Tuscany, winner of the Rowe Memorial Handicap at Bowie March 28. Tuscany has 124 pounds.

Baltimore Orioles Sign Heintzelman

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP) — Ken Heintzelman, 37-year-old veteran southpaw pitcher of 13 years in the major leagues, was signed today by the Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

Heintzelman was signed by a free agent after being turned loose by the Philadelphia Nationals with whom he had been six years. He had stayed with Pittsburgh seven years before that.

Perry Drops Suit

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 10 (AP)—Frederick J. Perry, former U. S. tennis singles champion, has dropped a suit for divorce from his wife.

An order of dismissal was entered in circuit court yesterday two weeks after the suit was filed charging extreme cruelty. Perry gave no reason for the change in plan.

Eismon Is Named

The West Virginia High School Athletic Association has elected W. Gordon Eismon, principal of Charles Town High School, to a three-year term, beginning July 1, on the association's three-member board of appeals. That is the association's administrative body.

Leagues To Meet

MT. SAVAGE, April 10 — A meeting of officers and managers of the Mt. Savage Hot Stove League and Little League will be held Monday at 7:30 at the Community Building.

New York Collects Uncashed Tickets Worth $274,232

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—Absent-minded horse-players gave the state more than a quarter of a million dollars last year in the form of uncashed winning tickets.

Spencer E. Bates, president of the State Tax Commission, said the uncashed ticket proceeds from the 1952 racing season were $274,232. Today was the final day for redemption of last year's uncashed tickets.

Since pari-mutuel betting went into effect 13 years ago, the state has collected $2,368,878 in uncashed ticket money.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed By INS)

Five sides to the question.

War in the Pentagon assumes astronomical dimensions not even reached by Gordon's Squares in the Sudan. The Pentagoners are fighting on five fronts.

What would have been the orders to the patriots on Bunker Hill if the Pentagoneers had been charging? The whites of their eyes are on their tongues.

This self-funding hassel between the civilian and military has been going on since Isabella gave her jewelry to a sailor.

The sea-going desks of the Pentagon have been swivelled to war power. Occupants of the world's largest crow's-nest will resist the transfer of their names from glass doors to bronze plaques.

The Crowning Glory

Heard on unrepeatable authority that the 1953 coronation may be the last one in the set.

By that time England will be enough in debt to be a true democracy.

These days the cafeteria set must watch its crown and overcoat.

There is no reason why England's present form of government should sign off on the dotted line. The fanfare and regalia carry on the traditions of ancient civilizations. And the pompt amuses the children.

It puts our diplomats in short pants sartorially. And keeps them there mentally.

Most of the royalties in Europe have been slag-heaped. Zog of Albania became known as Zig of Riviera.

The Riviera is a wonderful spot to polish your crown and count your money. The ex-king of Egypt was there now on relief money. He relieved the Egyptian treasury of millions.

Remember Carol of Rumania and the beautiful Lupescu? He gave it all up for her. And she took it.

Course the Duke of Windsor really blew the foam off the beer when he played jeweled hoops with the crown. Never underestimate the power of a Baltimore gal. Even if you're in Washington.

Never a Dulles moment

Here's what our foreign policy looks like now. The GOP wants to get the Democrats out of Washington. But it doesn't want them out of America.

Minute the White House names an old career diplomat the house hops on him like he was the last street-car home.

If you're a diplomat you must have been in the Roosevelt-Truman administrations. The only other possible job was dipping tea-balls for cock-eyed millionaires in the Union Club.

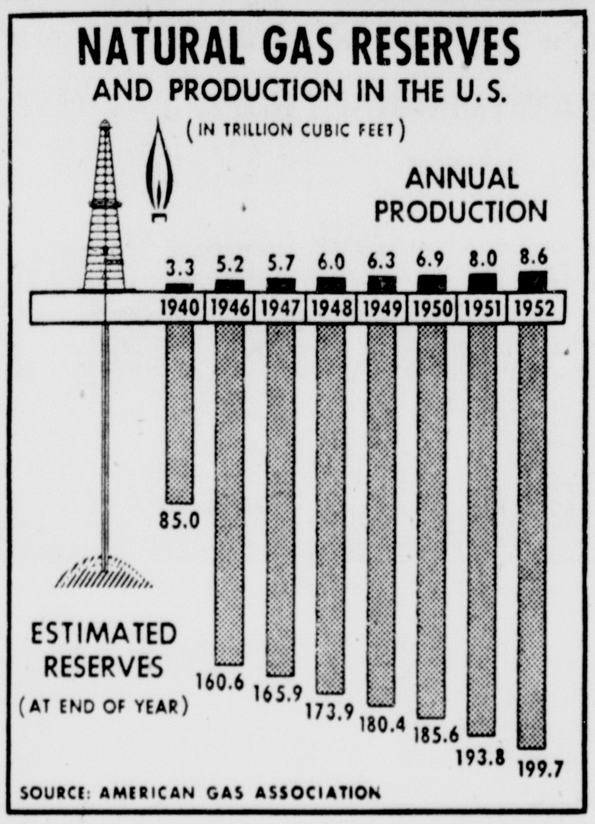
The GOP is consolidating its position like a fat boy in a hammock. It gets annoyed when secretary Dulles appoints somebody who should have gone through the non-refillable exit.

It fails to calibrate the difference between a holdover and a leftover. And no matter where our foreign policy lays its eggs they come home to roost.

Adlai Stevenson promised the GOP that politics stopped at the water's edge. If that's true where did it get its feet wet?

The light of a candle 40,000 miles away could be picked up by the Palomar telescope near San Diego, Calif.



NATURAL gas reserves in the United States continued to expand in 1952 despite a record withdrawal of 8.6 trillion cubic feet. At the end of the year 5.9 trillion cubic feet had been added to proved recoverable reserves, bringing the total to nearly 200 trillion cubic feet. Increased exploration activities accounted for new discoveries last year of 5.4 trillion cubic feet compared with only 3 trillion of reserves in new fields brought in during 1951. Extended drilling in existing fields added another 8.9 trillion cubic feet to the nation's fuel reservoir.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD— (INS) —Maybe you remember Helga Moray's best seller of a few years ago, "Katy Called Katzy," a dramatic story set in the African veldt, with adventure, excitement, love, and just about everything else.

This is to be Bert Friedlob's next, and it will be filmed in its original locale. A scout has already contacted the African Government to make arrangements.

Bert plans to go to Africa in the fall, and I'll be surprise if Bette Davis, who won an Academy nomination for "The Star," for Friedlob, doesn't play the top feminine role. It will be a 20th Century-Fox project and will be made in cinemascope.

Yul Brynner, in town for exactly 24 hours, telephoned to say that he has agreed to play King Ramses, one of the Pharaohs in the remake of "The Ten Commandments" for C. B. de Mille.

Yul gets eleven weeks vacation from "The King And I" and is so tired that he headed for Acapulco where he has a date with Gary Cooper to fish.

"King Ramses is such a powerful, positive character," he said, "and I am so glad I am going to do it. But it will have to be when I have time off from 'The King And I' (which, incidentally, has been running for two years)."

It just wouldn't be possible for good things Not to happen to Edmund Gwenn—the latest being a contract at 20th (and in these times when studios are giving few contract deals).

Good things just must come back to this dear little man who does so much good so quietly. He seldom hears of someone in distress that he doesn't get out his checkbook to help.

Edmund's first job on his new contract is "Be Prepared" with Clifton Webb and Frances Dee (Mrs. Joel Mc Crea). If it turns out as well as other movies he's made for 20th, it should be in the Oscar class. He won an Oscar for "Miracle on 34th Street" and was nominated for "Mr. 880."

Just before Florence Chadwick took off on her personal appearance tour she introduced me to Wrestler Vic Christy over the telephone.

While they are engaged to be married, they won't set a wedding date until Florence swims the Straits of Gibraltar, the Dardanelles, and tries to break the English Channel record.

Vic goes to Europe, too, he told me, for several wrestling matches. He pointed out that he had met me at the reception given Florence after her successful Catalina swim.

Freddie de Cordova with Pat Smart were among those who must have seen the battle.

British Actor Robert Newton and Mrs. Newton (Vera Budnick) leave for New York to give the bridegroom a chance to meet his in-laws.

Just to show what winning an Oscar can do, Gloria Grahame gets $5,000 for the Eddie Cantor show—last time she was paid $3,000.

Perc Westmore, beauty expert, is in Hollywood Hospital, where he underwent a minor operation. Perc has just patented a home permanent wave hair styling cap which could very well revolutionize the home permanent business.

Governor James Arthur Ewing writes from American Samoa to say he's starting on a trip around the world and that he plans to buy a home in Hawaii.

Randy Scott, among the lucky ones with his oil investments in this country, has not put more money into a similar project in Venezuela.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Gun Wound Fatal To Local Man

A resident of this city who was apparently despondent over the death of his wife about a month ago was found dead of a self-inflicted head wound at his home, 207 Fulton Street.

Lacy Carl Marsh, 69, was discovered dead on a couch in the living room of his home by Mrs. Hattie M. Smith, of 217 Dexter Place, a distant relative of the deceased.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated, said Marsh had been dead approximately 48 hours. Death was attributed to a bullet in the right temple, fired from a .22 calibre revolver. Dr. Demings said Mrs. Smith was making a periodic call on Marsh when she found him dead. He was last seen on Wednesday.

A retired stationary engineer of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Slag Company, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh had moved here about a year ago. His wife died March 13 and he is claimed to have been despondent since then.

Survivors include a son, Earl Marsh, Galeton, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Ostrom, Jamestown, N. Y.; two brothers, John Marsh, Galeton, and Charles Marsh, Potter Brook, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Orpha Manning, Cogan Station, Pa.; and three grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home and will be taken to the White Funeral Home, Galeton, for services.

Two County Men Sued For $7,500

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 9 (AP)—Three Washington County, Pa., persons sued two Maryland men today for a total of $7,500 damages for injuries suffered in an auto crash.

Named defendants were Franklin Miller of Lonaconing, Md., and Herbert Beeman of Frostburg, Md. Injured in the crash were Daniel Koos, his daughter, Elizabeth, and Janet Albenze, all of Daisytown, Pa.

The suit claims Beeman, who was driving a car owned by Miller, crashed into Koos' truck, injuring the Albenzes. It charges Beeman was driving 70 miles an hour in a 35 miles an hour speed zone. The collision occurred on Route 40 near Malden in Washington County, on Oct. 4, 1952.

Highway Work Being Resumed In Vale Summit

Work has been resumed on the second phase of the Vale Summit Road relocation, surfacing and improvement program by the Cumberland Contracting Company, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The second part of the project consists of surfacing, widening and leveling that portion of the road between Vale Summit and Miller for a distance of 2.42 miles. The balance of the roadway, between Miller and Midland, will be completed at some future date, according to Chaires.

Cost of the current project is approximately $411,000 and added to the $466,000 for the completed section of the work between Clarysville and Vale Summit makes almost $900,000 expended in modernizing the important traffic artery between the Georges Creek section and Cumberland. The road is a short-cut for many residents of that area who work in this city.

Prior to the highway modernization the road was extremely dangerous and consisted of many curves, dips and turns over Dan's Mountain. There have been a number of fatal accidents in the past few years on the road.

Chaires said survey work is being continued on the proposed road into the new Mt. Savage School from the center of that community. The new road will be less steep and be of modern design. The federal government is assisting in paying for this project.

Police Catch Armed Thugs After Holdup

Pair Took $80 From Frostburg Garage Manager

A previously proven Maryland-Pennsylvania police combination worked again yesterday in the speedy capture of the armed robbers who held up an employe of the Frostburg Auto Company.

State Police of the LaVale Barracks, Frostburg Police and the Uniontown Police Department used the system formed two years ago that resulted then in the arrest of two armed robbers who held up the same service station-garage.

At 5:20 a. m. yesterday two armed men entered the garage, held two pistols on the attendant, George Elmer Gordon, 31, of 171 Mechanic Street, Frostburg.

Hands Over Money

Gordon said the two men forced him to open the cash register and hand over the approximately $80 in bills and silver.

Gordon said the robbers then had him open all the doors under the counter. When the pair saw the safe, they asked Gordon four times for the combination.

The attendant said that after he refused the fourth time, the bandits asked him to go into the back with them. Gordon said that as he passed them he darted out the door, got into his car located in the back of the garage and drove to the police station.

Gordon reported that finding no one there, he ran across the street to the bus terminal where he called State Police.

The attendant said that as he ran through the door, he heard one of the men say he was going to shoot him, but the other one said: "Let him go."

State Police stopped several eastbound truckers and learned that the only westbound vehicles they had encountered were a 1951 Ford and a 1953 maroon Dodge Coupe.

Gordon in the excitement could only identify the men as wearing light tan sport coats, with one being heavy and the other medium build, police reported.

The maroon Dodge was stopped and upon searching the two occupants the police there found three loaded pistols, a .38 calibre revolver, a .22 calibre revolver and a .25 calibre automatic, officials said.

Uniontown Police also added that they found "loads of ammunition," in the coupe. Also recovered was the loot,—an incriminating Maryland notary public seal stamped in the name of the son of the owner of the garage, Robert C. Ferree, and 380 in currency and silver in rolls taken from the cash register and a metal box.

The names of the two men taken into custody were reported as Floyd M. Fisher, about 28, of 1830 Wallace Street, Philadelphia, and Kenneth Strayer, about 31, also of Philadelphia. The car had not been stolen, police said.

Their capture occurred at 6:30 a.m., one hour and ten minutes after the robbery. This is about the time required to travel the distance between Frostburg and Uniontown, police observed.

To Face Charges

Trooper Glen D. Folk, stationed at Grantsville, and William F. Baker, criminal investigator stationed at LaVale Barracks, went to Uniontown yesterday and brought the two men to Cumberland where they are being held in county jail on armed robbery charges.

About two years ago two young men stopped early in the morning at the combination garage and service station to get gas. They held up the attendant and fled west on Route 40.

State Police here, as they did today, alerted Unintown City Police and the gunmen were arrested. They were returned to Allegany County where they were sentenced in Allegany County Circuit Court to prison terms.

Senator Urges Study Of School Transportation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 9 (AP)—Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) today said he would ask the Legislative Council to make a state-wide study of the problem of transporting children attending non-public schools.

Turnbull permitted a school bus bill for his own county to die in the legislature. The bill, passed by the House, would have lifted the $15,000 lid on the sum which may be spent by the county each year for transportation of parochial and other private school children.

Turnbull said the county has provided funds for such transportation for 15 years and the "problem is not one of changing county policy, it is rather one of determining to what extent that policy should be extended," Turnbull said.

"As a matter of fact, in my view, it is a problem which would better be decided on a state-wide basis, as there are children in every county of the state who do not attend public schools and are faced with transportation difficulties," he added.

Turnbull said he was referring the matter to the Legislative Council for a "cool, impartial and fair decision."

Police Catch Armed Thugs After Holdup

Pair Took $80 From Frostburg Garage Manager

A previously proven Maryland-Pennsylvania police combination worked again yesterday in the speedy capture of the armed robbers who held up an employe of the Frostburg Auto Company.

State Police of the LaVale Barracks, Frostburg Police and the Uniontown Police Department used the system formed two years ago that resulted then in the arrest of two armed robbers who held up the same service station-garage.

At 5:20 a. m. yesterday two armed men entered the garage, held two pistols on the attendant, George Elmer Gordon, 31, of 171 Mechanic Street, Frostburg.

Hands Over Money

Gordon said the two men forced him to open the cash register and hand over the approximately $80 in bills and silver.

Gordon said the robbers then had him open all the doors under the counter. When the pair saw the safe, they asked Gordon four times for the combination.

The attendant said that after he refused the fourth time, the bandits asked him to go into the back with them. Gordon said that as he passed them he darted out the door, got into his car located in the back of the garage and drove to the police station.

Gordon reported that finding no one there, he ran across the street to the bus terminal where he called State Police.

The attendant said that as he ran through the door, he heard one of the men say he was going to shoot him, but the other one said: "Let him go."

State Police stopped several eastbound truckers and learned that the only westbound vehicles they had encountered were a 1951 Ford and a 1953 maroon Dodge Coupe.

Gordon in the excitement could only identify the men as wearing light tan sport coats, with one being heavy and the other medium build, police reported.

Uniontown City police, the first police department west of Frostburg on Route 40, were alerted and a road block was set up.

The maroon Dodge was stopped and upon searching the two occupants the police there found three loaded pistols, a .38 calibre revolver, a .22 calibre revolver and a .25 calibre automatic, officials said.

Uniontown Police also added that they found "loads of ammunition," in the coupe. Also recovered was the loot,—an incriminating Maryland notary public seal stamped in the name of the son of the owner of the garage, Robert C. Ferree, and 380 in currency and silver in rolls taken from the cash register and a metal box.

The names of the two men taken into custody were reported as Floyd M. Fisher, about 28, of 1830 Wallace Street, Philadelphia, and Kenneth Strayer, about 31, also of Philadelphia. The car had not been stolen, police said.

Their capture occurred at 6:30 a.m., one hour and ten minutes after the robbery. This is about the time required to travel the distance between Frostburg and Uniontown, police observed.

To Face Charges

Trooper Glen D. Folk, stationed at Grantsville, and William F. Baker, criminal investigator stationed at LaVale Barracks, went to Uniontown yesterday and brought the two men to Cumberland where they are being held in county jail on armed robbery charges.

Maryland police figuring in the case were Troopers Folk, John F. Browning, Donald R. Wade, Baker, and Frostburg City Policemen Ronald Kreider and Albert Klink.

About two years ago two young men stopped early in the morning at the combination garage and service station to get gas. They held up the attendant and fled west on Route 40.

State Police here, as they did today, alerted Unintown City Police and the gunmen were arrested. They were returned to Allegany County where they were sentenced in Allegany County Circuit Court to prison terms.

Celanese Sales Show Increase

NEW YORK—Sales of Celanese Corp. of America for the first quarter were about $44,500,000 as compared with $33,000,000 in the same period of 1952, Harold Blancke, president, told the annual meeting of stockholders this week. He said the company's production of finished materials was being increased and that he believed the upward trend in business would continue.

Blancke said that research, contrary to rumors, was not being curtailed and that the present program called for expenditure of more than $5 million. The expenditure of $18 million last year for additional facilities was principally in the Chemical Division, he said. It is not expected that any additional capital will be required for some time, he added.

In reply to a question about the development of new fibers he reported that the company's experimental yarn, to be used in the industrial fabric field, was being sampled in numerous industries. He said that evaluation by the tire industry might require two to three years, but that the reaction to the quality of the product had been encouraging. He said the company was conscious of the need for diversification and had worked with fibers of a variety of types, but that it was necessary to find something different which was not already in good supply.

Celanese Sales Show Increase

NEW YORK—Sales of Celanese Corp. of America for the first quarter were about $44,500,000 as compared with $33,000,000 in the same period of 1952, Harold Blancke, president, told the annual meeting of stockholders this week. He said the company's production of finished materials was being increased and that he believed the upward trend in business would continue.

Blancke said that research, contrary to rumors, was not being curtailed and that the present program called for expenditure of more than $5 million. The expenditure of $18 million last year for additional facilities was principally in the Chemical Division, he said. It is not expected that any additional capital will be required for some time, he added.

In reply to a question about the development of new fibers he reported that the company's experimental yarn, to be used in the industrial fabric field, was being sampled in numerous industries. He said that evaluation by the tire industry might require two to three years, but that the reaction to the quality of the product had been encouraging. He said the company was conscious of the need for diversification and had worked with fibers of a variety of types, but that it was necessary to find something different which was not already in good supply.

Asked about the competition of new synthetic fibers, Mr. Blancke said he thought the company was in a competitive position to meet the situation. He said he thought the picture had been distorted and that the gimmick use of fibers was about over. He said that the price at which a fiber could be marketed would be important.

He pointed out that for awhile nylon had been considered the "answer" in the tricot fabric field and that this trend had changed. He pointed out that blends of nylon and acetate were highly thought of now.

Who takes the slick-chick honors in the teen crowd? Why, naturally, the girl with the sleekest ways!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Even the plainest Jane can cop the slick-chick honors in her crowd if hers is the sleekest grooming. A lass may have "everything"—pretty figure, face and hair—but unless she keeps well primed and polished, admiration will not be hers.

In teen circles, untidy hair is the biggest grooming problem—at least, that's what your letters indicate. So let's get down to the business of what keeps a teen's head looking its smooth best.

Knowing Extra Touches

It goes without saying that your hair must be regularly trimmed, shampooed and set. But such care is fairly superficial even though it's important. You can never achieve hair that is "sumpin' gorgeous" unless your hair-do reflects knowing ways.

But the gorgeous touches are easy and aids for fashioning them abound. Here are the super tricks that models use—and the rest is up to you!

For more sheen and greater manageability at any time, rub a bit of pomade between the palms and apply it first to the ends and then the crown—and then brush! Repeat as often as necessary. To perk up dank, stringy or oily hair, apply a hair freshener or tonic for oily scalp daily, according to the direction on the container.

Don't ever forget to check on the appearance of the back and sides of your "do." The whole head makes the stunning girl. Make sure that your part is straight from forehead to crown and that all wisps are under control. The best wisp controller is a plastic spray.

For Special Moments

For a moment when your hair seems most perverse and you haven't time to start over in getting it in hand, master the art of tying a scarf. You can learn fetching draping from your fashion pages or at most scarf counters.

On special occasions, as before a big date, dress your hair before you bathe. If you place clips in strategic waves, turn curls and secure all in a scarf, your head will look fresh out of a beauty shop by the time you've dressed. Protect the effect in transit with veiling tied madonna fashion.

On your way now! And if you mind your ways, that way is sure to be a path of beauty!

"YOUR IDEAL MEASUREMENTS"

This easy-to-use table shows you how to calculate your ideal measurements from head to toe. Its use will make figure re-adjustments simple and accurate. For a free copy of "Your Ideal Measurements" send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrts of Charm in care of this newspaper.

Who takes the slick-chick honors in the teen crowd? Why, naturally, the girl with the sleekest ways!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Even the plainest Jane can cop the slick-chick honors in her crowd if hers is the sleekest grooming. A lass may have "everything" — pretty figure, face and hair—but unless she keeps well primed and polished, admiration will not be hers.

In teen circles, untidy hair is the biggest grooming problem—at least, that's what your letters indicate. So let's get down to the business of what keeps a teen's head looking its smooth best.

Knowing Extra Touches

It goes without saying that your hair must be regularly trimmed, shampooed and set. But such care is fairly superficial even though it's important. You can never achieve hair that is "sumpin' gorgeous" unless your hair-do reflects knowing ways.

But the gorgeous touches are easy and aids for fashioning them abound. Here are the super tricks that models use—and the rest is up to you!

For more sheen and greater manageability at any time, rub a bit of pomade between the palms and apply it first to the ends and then the crown—and then brush! Repeat as often as necessary. To perk up dank, stringy or oily hair, apply a hair freshener or tonic for oily scalp daily, according to the direction on the container.

Don't ever forget to check on the appearance of the back and sides of your "do." The whole head makes the stunning girl. Make sure that your part is straight from forehead to crown and that all wisps are under control. The best wisp controller is a plastic spray.

For Special Moments

For a moment when your hair seems most perverse and you haven't time to start over in getting it in hand, master the art of tying a scarf. You can learn fetching draping from your fashion pages or at most scarf counters.

On special occasions, as before a big date, dress your hair before you bathe. If you place clips in strategic waves, turn curls and secure all in a scarf, your head will look fresh out of a beauty shop by the time you've dressed. Protect the effect in transit with veiling tied madonna fashion.

On your way now! And if you mind your ways, that way is sure to be a path of beauty!

"YOUR IDEAL MEASUREMENTS"

This easy-to-use table shows you how to calculate your ideal measurements from head to toe. Its use will make figure re-adjustments simple and accurate. For a free copy of "Your Ideal Measurements" send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrts of Charm in care of this newspaper.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our dear son, James Floyd Boone, who departed this life 10 years ago today, April 11, 1943.
Forget you, no, we never will;
We loved you then, we love you still;
Your memory is as fresh today
As in the hour you passed away.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why certain things must be,
But there's a reason for it all
Beyond our power to see.
Sadly missed by his MOTHER & FATHER

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our dear son, James Floyd Boone, who departed this life 10 years ago today, April 11, 1943.
Forget you, no, we never will;
We loved you then, we love you still;
Your memory is as fresh today
As in the hour you passed away.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why certain things must be,
But there's a reason for it all
Beyond our power to see.
Sadly missed by his MOTHER & FATHER

Market Closes Lower As Attempts To Rally Fail

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Several attempts at a rally failed to follow through today and the stock market closed slightly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 cents and closed at $109.60. That is 90 cents higher than the lowest point of the year touched Monday.

As prices declined, volume receded. The total came to 1,360,000 shares, smallest since mid-February. That compares with 1,520,000 shares traded yesterday.

Missouri Pacific preferred gained 2¼ at 53¾. Hearings on reorganization of the railroads under the Mahaffie Act now are being held in St. Louis. In Washington the Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill to make reorganization easier under the act.

Distillers as a group did rather well with Hiram Walker up 2 at 47, a reflection of a good earnings report.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed.

Corporate bonds were lower, as were U. S. governments in the over the counter market.

Market Closes Lower As Attempts To Rally Fail

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Several attempts at a rally failed to follow through today and the stock market closed slightly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 cents and closed at $109.60. That is 90 cents higher than the lowest point of the year touched Monday.

As prices declined, volume receded. The total came to 1,360,000 shares, smallest since mid-February. That compares with 1,520,000 shares traded yesterday.

Missouri Pacific preferred gained 2¼ at 53¾. Hearings on reorganization of the railroads under the Mahaffie Act now are being held in St. Louis. In Washington the Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill to make reorganization easier under the act.

St. Regis Paper was up ⅞ at 22⅜ while company officials at the annual meeting said directors may consider an increased dividend in July.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Divorce A MENSA ET THORO by James Robert Baughman from his wife, Elva Mae Baughman, Defendant, and custody of their two children.

The Bill states that the parties were married on September 3, 1949 by a Minister of the Gospel in Oakland, Maryland and that two children namely, Kathryn Faye Baughman born October 22, 1950 and Carol Jean Baughman born January 13, 1952, was born of said marriage and that both children are now in the custody of the Plaintiff. That although the conduct of the Plaintiff towards his said wife has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Elva Mae Baughman did, on or about December 20, 1952 without any just cause or reason, abandon and desert the Plaintiff and has declared her intentions to live with him no longer and that such abandonment and desertion has continued uninterruptedly since December 20, 1952 to the date of the filing of the Bill of Complaint. Garrett County May Yet Elect Circuit Judge

State Voters Will Decide Question

Whether Garrett County for the first time in its history will have a circuit judge from among its own citizenry will be decided by the voters of Maryland in the general election in November, 1954, when they ballot on a proposed constitutional amendment.

Earlier this week, in the stampede which marked the end of the 90-day session of the Maryland General Assembly, it appeared that Senate Bill 257 had been killed.

However, a recheck of the record shows that an amended form of the bill was passed after references to the court circuits on the Eastern Shore were defeated.

As originally introduced, the bill would have called for a constitutional amendment to give every county at least one circuit judge as well as providing for an additional one in Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Shore Opposition

Opposition to a "judge behind every bush on the Eastern Shore" resulted in the elimination of the additional judges in that section of Maryland. That means that Worcester, Kent and Talbot counties will remain without judges.

Garrett and St. Mary's counties are the only counties not now having a judge who would have one if the constitutional amendment gains passage next year. Montgomery and Baltimore counties would be increased from two to three judges and Anne Arundel and Prince George's counties would be upped from one to two.

28 Judges Then

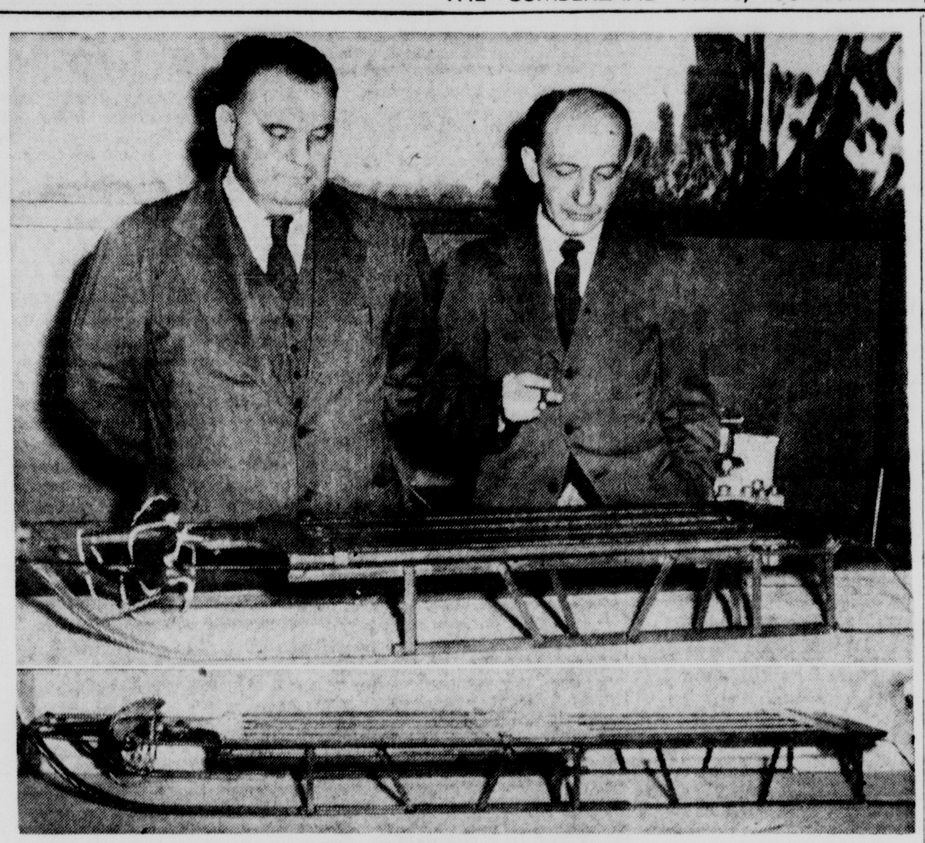
Senator Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County, one of the five sponsors of Senate Bill 257, reports that if the constitutional amendment gains acceptance the new judge would be elected only by the people of Garrett County.

Presently, judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit, embracing Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, are elected by the vote of citizens of all three counties.

If the amendment passes, the governor would appoint the six new judges to sit until the election of 1956. Observers note that Senator Fraley, as one of Garrett County's leading attorneys, probably would be a leading candidate for the new judgeship. However, while a member of the Senate he could not be appointed a judge. Then, too, there also is the question of who will be serving as governor in 1955.

Present judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit are Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of Hagerstown and Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland. The latter two go to Oakland every two or three months to dispose of the few cases in Circuit Court there.



Invent New Sled

Richard J. Diamond and Clifford A. Thomas look over a new adjustable sled while the latter invented and the two hope to start manufacture here in Cumberland in the near future. The sled has interlocking bodies which can be opened or closed to make it whatever length the user desires. A patent is pending on the invention. Below the sled can be seen opened to its full length of 5 feet, 9 inches. When closed it is 3 feet, 6 inches.

News Staff Writer

A veteran of World War I and II, with a most colorful career, has been assigned as Army Sergeant Instructor of Headquarters, First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment.

First Sergeant Arestidis L. Parousis, native of Greece, this week assumed his duties here according to Capt. James C. Welch Jr., Army Officer Instructor.

Sgt. Parousis, replaces M/Sgt. William L. Norwood, local resident and Korean veteran who is going to Europe to a new assignment after being sergeant instructor here for about six months.

The duties of Sgt. Parousis will be instructor in administration, training and other phases of U. S. Army procedure. He came here from Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pa. where he served as first sergeant of a replacement company with the Fifth Infantry Division.

Colorful Career

In 1916 Sgt. Parousis enlisted at Boston, Mass. and saw service at the Mexican border prior to going to Europe in June of 1917 after the outbreak of World War I. In 1922 he left the service and until 1939 when he again enlisted, Sgt. Parousis worked in the circulation department of the Worcester, (Mass.) Telegram; with an insurance company; and as a labor organizer.

During World War II he served in the Military Intelligence Training Center at Camp Ritchie as well as the 12th Photo Intelligence Unit of the 13th Air Force in the South Pacific.

From 1948 to 1952 he served as a First Sergeant in Germany. Sgt. Parousis has been recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor for action against the enemy during the last World War. He was awarded the Bronze Star and holds other citations for his service during World War II.

Native Of Greece

Twice married he is the father of two children, M/Sgt. Eugene Parousis, 24, a member of the U. S. Air Force and a daughter, two and one-half years old. His first wife died in 1936 and his second wife is the former Miss Eva W. Fink of Hancock whom he married following his return from the Pacific.

At present he, his wife and daughter are residing in Potomac Park and plan buying a home in Cumberland where he expects to retire from the service.

Sgt. Parousis who was born on the island of Corfu, Greece is a son of Lampros Parousis and came to this country at the age of 12. He is a member of Post 5, American Legion, Worcester, Mass., his hometown.

Here in Cumberland he plans to attend SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church. Aside from Army work Sgt. Parousis is a bowler and also interested in painting, especially landscaping and scenery.

One of the highlights of his army career is when he was Sergeant Administrator of captured German officers during their stay in the United States. He also handled the same type people working for the Army of Occupation in Germany.

Local Inventors Seeking Patent On Adjustable Sled

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON
News Staff Writer

An application for a patent on an extensible sled has been made with the Department of Commerce, U. S. Patent Office, in Washington, D. C., by Clifford A. Thomas, 422 Goethe Street, and Richard J. Diamond, 508 Pearre Avenue, who hope to manufacture the new sled here in Cumberland if the patent is approved.

Diamond, owner of Diamond's Restaurant, North Mechanic Street, and Thomas formed a partnership after the latter got the idea of inventing a sled which would be adjustable to all-sized persons and yet lightweight enough for children to handle.

Thomas, who made the original sled entirely by hand, said he had been toying with the idea for several years after over 15 years experience handling sleds while working at Joe The Motorist's Friend and Lou's Auto Stores here in Cumberland.

Seven Different Sizes

"Most stores handle approximately seven different sized sleds during the winter months," Thomas stated, "and I began wondering why all the sizes couldn't be incorporated into one."

The new adjustable sled has two bodies with interlocking parallel slats and channel runners which also interlocks, one into the other when the sled is closed, the inventor pointed out.

The slats form a bed for the person using the appliance. When opened the slats are guided and held into place by a cross bar which goes beneath the bed and locks into place. The center bed slat has several holes, each 1½ inches apart.

A bolt is inserted through these holes and locks the channel structures or sled bodies into place at the desired size of the person using the sled, Thomas explained. The vehicle has a normal guiding bar with a special 18-inch runner to guide the sled.

Full Range Possible

The patent application states the sled was invented for the purpose of supporting one or more persons and to produce in a single sled an item which may be adjusted throughout a range of sizes to accomodate one or more persons.

When the sled is closed it measures 3 feet, 6 inches, Thomas noted, and when extended it is 5 feet, 9 inches long. The sled weighs 13½ pounds and will carry over 200 pounds of weight, the inventor added.

The two local men have received a patent pending filing registration card, No. 343733, from the patent office and expect to receive the patent on the invention within the next two or three months.

Hope To Manufacture Here

Both hope to form a manufacturing company here in Cumberland to build the sleds, which will be made in two sizes, one the same as the original and another somewhat smaller. They will distribute the sleds as the Diamond and Thomas Company, they stated.

Called the Adjusto Flyer, the sled actually is the final product of four sleds which Thomas built entirely by hand before he was completely satisfied with his invention.

"I started on it 18 months ago," he said. "And I can remember the first one, a smaller model, was made in the living room of my home. However, when I burned a hole in the rug with a soldering iron, much to my wife's distraction, I had to make the other three models in the attic, he grinned.

Logsdon Admits Stealing Car

Robert Eugene Logsdon, 25, of 305 Broadway is being held in city jail on stolen car charge after being arrested yesterday afternoon by City Police Department detectives.

Logsdon, in a signed statement, admitted to Lt. James E. Van and Detective Leo E. P. Law, he took a two-door sedan belonging to Gene W. Bryan, Kelly Boulevard Apartments, from a parking lot on South Mechanic Street the night of November 27, 1952 and drove it to Ridgeley, W. Va., where he wrecked the vehicle.

Logsdon told police he had used tinfoil under the ignition to start the car.

Married and the father of three children, Logsdon said he returned home following the wreck and was doctored for a cut on his head by his wife.

Several days later he left for Baltimore where he got a job, working until recently, when he returned to Cumberland.

Police said they had been investigating the case for several months and added Logsdon is on parole for stealing a car in Hancock last August and wrecking it.

Three Named In Indictments

Philip Rowand Wagner, 45, was indicted on three charges of sodomy, involving a trio of Cresaptown youths. Wagner told police he was a native of Pittsburgh, but had lived here since October of 1951. He had been employed at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Heinz A. Schroeder, alias Johann Albert Schroter, was indicted on a charge of bigamy. He allegedly married Elsie Walther in Hudson County, N. J., on December 13, 1947. She is still living and has not been divorced, according to the state's attorney's office.

Appeal Is Tabled

The Board of Zoning Appeals has tabled until further notice the application of Graham Gray, Midland, to occupy premises at the rear of 132 Polk Street, for the manufacture of hair tonic. The building is located in a Residential C district.

Washington's Headquarters To Open Sunday Afternoon

By C. W. BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

George Washington's headquarters at Riverside Park will be open to the public Sunday afternoon.

The hostesses will be Mary Louise Logsdon and Iris Godlove, of Girl Scout Troop 2, of Pennsylvania Avenue School.

The historic building will be open to the public from 1 to 4 p. m., according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

The cabin, which Colonel Washington occupied in 1755, 1758 and 1794 while the building was a part of Fort Cumberland, was presented to the City of Cumberland 32 years ago this month.

It was first erected by General Braddock's soldiers on the lot adjoining the present Allegany County courthouse. Some years later, it was used as a dwelling until 1844, when the lot was purchased by Judge Thomas Perry.

Presented To City

The building remained on the Bedford Road site until it was purchased by James Walter Thomas, local historian and attorney, who moved it back to Cumberland, had it rebuilt at Riverside Park and presented it to the City of Cumberland on April 21, 1921.

The building was restored by William J. Morley, the contractor who rebuilt the Washington headquarters at Valley Forge.

Except for the tile roof, which was added to preserve it for posterity, the cabin is essentially that which was used by Colonel Washington. Whenever the original walls were too far decayed to be incorporated into the rebuilt structure, the contractor used timbers taken from some of the oldest homes of the city.

Washington, who was the prime mover in the construction of the Potomac Navigation Company and its successor, the C. and O. Canal which was opened to traffic here October 10, 1850, would highly approve of the activity which is to surround his headquarters during the next two years.

Will Build Dam

The E. J. Albrecht Company, low bidder for the construction of the Industrial Dam phase of the Flood Control project, started to move equipment into the park this week.

Mrs. Roeder said the firm has promised at present to avoid disturbing flower beds in the park during the work on the $855,605 project. The work will not disturb the headquarters cabin.

Of interest locally is the fact that a small part of the park still belongs to the Department of the Interior, which holds title to the old C. and O. Canal. The Corps of Engineers is arranging for the transfer of the tiny plot of ground which was part of the wharf of the old canal.

Later, when the dam is completed, Maryland and West Virginia will build a modern bridge above the dam—which is needed to maintain the level of the river for industrial plants—to replace the present Blue Bridge.

Mt. Savage Bus Line Asks First Hike Since 1910

Rinard Requests Five Cent Boost

After 43 years, the Mt. Savage Bus Lines, which operates buses between Mt. Savage and Cumberland is asking for permission to raise its fares.

W. E. Rinard, who took over the line 38 years ago, reports that in the company's entire history the fare has always been 25 cents for the 10-mile trip.

Nowadays, with labor prices on the increase and the competition from private automobiles greater, Rinard's passenger load has come down and he feels he ought to have a raise.

As a result, Rinard went to Baltimore Thursday to petition the Public Service Commission for a hike of five cents a trip.

For nearly all of the 38 years Rinard has operated the system he has managed to support the company and still make some profit. It wasn't until the year before last that he suffered his first loss. Last year his deficit hit $6,000.

"I got along very well until the volume went down and labor costs went up," Rinard concluded.

Smoke Surveyor Elected Mayor Of St. Louis

Raymond R. Tucker, who conducted a survey for the elimination of smoke and dust in Cumberland in the fall of 1951, has just been elected to a four-year term as mayor of St. Louis.

Tucker, a 56-year-old engineering professor on leave from Washington University in St. Louis, was seeking his first elective office after 20 years in civic jobs. He had attracted national attention as anti-smoke director in St. Louis.

In Tuesday's election, Tucker, a Democrat, polled 143,640 votes to 82,207 for Carl G. Stifel, a Republican. Tucker will take office April 21.

Tucker was in Cumberland the weeks of September 10, 1951, and while here consulted industrial and civic leaders in an attempt to solve smoke problems here. His 19-page report listed nine major recommendations to eliminate smoke in Cumberland.

After a program of entertainment, Wilbert Smith of the State Farm Bureau office will discuss legislation enacted by the General Asembly of interest to all farm families.

The entertainment will be concluded with a square dance for all Allegany County rural families. An outstanding caller and well-known musicians will be on hand.

Allegany County has about 600 farm families but only 149 of them, about 25 per cent, belong to the Farm Bureau and its related organizations.

KC Planning Pilgrimage At Frederick

Chief Justice Taney Will Be Honored

Plans will be made in Frederick tomorrow afternoon by area members of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, for an annual pilgrimage to the grave of Chief Justice Roger B. Taney, who is buried in St. John's Catholic Cemetery there.

A delegation from here will visit Frederick to confer with Col. E. H. Holt of the Frederick Historical Society and C. Alton Lipps, marshal of the Charles Carroll of Carrollton Assembly of Baltimore, of which Frederick is a part.

The Cumberland Assembly bears the name of Chief Justice Taney and the delegation will arrange suitable homage and honor to its namesake so active in Catholic action in the United States.

Arthur F. Young, chairman of the local committee last night said plans for the pilgrimage this year call for mass at St. John's Catholic Church on October 11 with a visit to the grave site.

Young noted that Taney was Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court for 28 years and died on October 12, 1864. He served as Attorney General of Maryland from 1827 to 1831 and was Attorney General of the United States from 1831 to 1833 following appointment to the position by President Andrew Jackson.

Taney also served as Secretary of the Treasury from 1833 to 1834.

Weather

Cumberlanders yesterday afternoon enjoyed another warm day which aided fruit trees into bloom. The mercury rose to 72 degrees, according to a report from Constitution Park, the second warmest day of the year. But the weatherman warned orchardists to be on the alert for possible frost tonight as a wide variety of weather swung toward this state. This same prediction fizzled several days ago. The high recorded yesterday was 72 degrees with a low of 52 and at 8 p. m. the mercury registered 57 degrees. Humidity recorded at 6 p. m. was 36 per cent with rainfall at .54 inches. Forecast for today is fair and much cooler.

FRED BLACKWELL

Nation's Growth Within 7 Years Cited In Talk

Chamber Addressed By Fred Blackwell

The tremendous growth expected in the nation within the next seven years was cited last night at a meeting of the National Affairs Committee and Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Guest speaker at Ali Ghan Country Club was Fred Blackwell, program advisor in the Southeastern Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Leadership Responsibility

"This growth calls for the acceptance of responsibility for leadership by every responsible individual in the Cumberlands of this great nation if the future that can be ours is to be realized," Blackwell said.

"What has made this country the greatest nation in the history of the human race has been the freedom with which the citizen has exercised individual initiative and at the same time has maintained a willingness to cooperate with others for the benefit of all.

"Doesn't it stand to reason that if we all work together to make our local community the best possible place in which to live and make a living that this cooperation will be extended to include cooperation between communities? And isn't this the kind of cooperation that has made this country?" the speaker asked.

Expression On Factors

Blackwell then outlined the need for individual consideration and expression on several major issues which are being considered or will be considered by the 83rd Congress.

According to the National Chamber representative, taxes and spending must be considered together. A balanced budget and reduced taxes can be realized this year, Blackwell stated, but whether this important step in strengthening our economy is taken or not rests with the people.

"Our elected representatives are dependent upon us to help them in the creation of sound policies for government," he said. "Our participation in our government, local, state and national will determine in direct proportion the government we receive."

Blackwell informed the group that if proper consideration is to be given the major issues of taxes, expenditure control, labor relations, foreign aid, agriculture aid, federal aid to education, social security and the tideland oils, informed public opinion must become vocal.

Future In Public Hands

"It is not only what our country needs to insure good legislation, but it is our duty as citizens to inform ourselves on major issues and give our legislators the benefit of our thinking in the areas wherein we are qualified to speak," the speaker continued.

"The future of this great nation is in our hands," Blackwell warned, "and we have an opportunity to do something about it. Whether we, as citizens, do something about it or not will decide if the competitive free enterprise system, as we know it, will be continued or destroyed."

In closing, the National Chamber representative invited the membership of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce to attend the annual meeting of the National Chamber in Washington during April 26, 27, 28 and 29. He assured the group that this would be one of the year's outstanding gatherings of business men and would be of great interest to wives as well as business men.

Professor To Speak

Dr. William C. Waltemyer, professor at Gettysburg, Pa., College, will speak at the regular 11 a. m. church service Sunday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in the absence of Rev. Dr. H. T. Bowersox, pastor, who is ill.

Carver Students To Make Plans For Rec Program

Preliminary Session Set Monday At 2 P. M.

Carver High School students will meet Monday at 2 p. m. at the school to make plans for a social and recreation program.

Attending the meeting planned in the school assembly room will be a special committee named to assist in the program and Ralph L. Lewis, program secretary of Central YMCA.

The committee named by Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, met in City Hall yesterday with Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, to begin mapping the program.

The group suggested a two-fold plan for the immediate program. The first is the Teen Age Club, to be organized to provide activities requested by the Carver students, and second, to investigate the possibility of securing the use of the Maryland State Armory for skating.

Bracey said the club will be modeled after the Rec. Club which is operated by Central YMCA on Friday nights.

The committee also reported that parents of the students will be asked to cooperate in the plans by acting as chaperones for the parties. The faculty of the school will aid in planning the activities, but the program is to be worked out by students to meet their needs.

The committee moved yesterday to plan immediate action following a mass meeting held in City Hall Auditorium Thursday night.

License Holders Slow To Apply

Holders of beer, wine and liquor licenses are slow in filing applications for new permits, required May 1, the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners reported yesterday.

Only about 190 of them have applied for new permits. The board clerk noted that applications must be advertised at least 15 days before the new license year starts May 1. They should be in by the middle of next week.

Among the 331 present licenses there are 25 for beer off premises consumption, 134 beer on and off premises, 10 beer and wine off premises consumption, 38 beer and wine on and off premises, 11 beer, wine and liquor off premises consumption, 35 beer, wine and liquor for restaurants, 55 beer, wine and liquor for clubs and 23 beer, wine and liquor tavern licenses.

Garrett County May Yet Elect Circuit Judge

State Voters Will Decide Question

Whether Garrett County for the first time in its history will have a circuit judge from among its own citizenry will be decided by the voters of Maryland in the general election in November, 1954, when they ballot on a proposed constitutional amendment.

Earlier this week, in the stampede which marked the end of the 90-day session of the Maryland General Assembly, it appeared that Senate Bill 257 had been killed.

However, a recheck of the record shows that an amended form of the bill was passed after references to the court circuits on the Eastern Shore were defeated.

As originally introduced, the bill would have called for a constitutional amendment to give every county at least one circuit judge as well as providing for an additional one in Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Shore Opposition

Opposition to a "judge behind every bush on the Eastern Shore" resulted in the elimination of the additional judges in that section of Maryland. That means that Worcester, Kent and Talbot counties will remain without judges.

Garrett and St. Mary's counties are the only counties not now having a judge who would have one if the constitutional amendment gains passage next year. Montgomery and Baltimore counties would be increased from two to three judges and Anne Arundel and Prince George's counties would be upped from one to two.

28 Judges Then

The net result would be to increase the number of circuit judges in the 23 Maryland counties from the present 22 to 28.

Senator Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County, one of the five sponsors of Senate Bill 257, reports that if the constitutional amendment gains acceptance the new judge would be elected only by the people of Garrett County.

Presently, judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit, embracing Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, are elected by the vote of citizens of all three counties.

If the amendment passes, the governor would appoint the six new judges to sit until the election of 1956. Observers note that Senator Fraley, as one of Garrett County's leading attorneys, probably would be a leading candidate for the new judgeship. However, while a member of the Senate he could not be appointed a judge. Then, too, there also is the question of who will be serving as governor in 1955.

Present judges in the Fourth Judicial Circuit are Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of Hagerstown and Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland. The latter two go to Oakland every two or three months to dispose of the few cases in Circuit Court there.

The sled has interlocking bodies which can be opened or closed to make it whatever length the user desires. A patent is pending on the invention. Thomas, who made the original sled entirely by hand, said he had been toying with the idea for several years after over 15 years experience handling sleds while working at Joe The Motorist's Friend and Lou's Auto Stores here in Cumberland.

Seven Different Sizes

"Most stores handle approximately seven different sized sleds during the winter months," Thomas stated, "and I began wondering why all the sizes couldn't be incorporated into one."

The new adjustable sled has two bodies with interlocking parallel slats and channel runners which also interlocks, one into the other when the sled is closed, the inventor pointed out.

The slats form a bed for the person using the appliance. When opened the slats are guided and held into place by a cross bar which goes beneath the bed and locks into place. The center bed slat has several holes, each 1½ inches apart.

A bolt is inserted through these holes and locks the channel structures or sled bodies into place at the desired size of the person using the sled, Thomas explained. The vehicle has a normal guiding bar with a special 18-inch runner to guide the sled.

Full Range Possible

The patent application states the sled was invented for the purpose of supporting one or more persons and to produce in a single sled an item which may be adjusted throughout a range of sizes to accomodate one or more persons.

When the sled is closed it measures 3 feet, 6 inches, Thomas noted, and when extended it is 5 feet, 9 inches long. The sled weighs 13½ pounds and will carry over 200 pounds of weight, the inventor added.

The two local men have received a patent pending filing registration card, No. 343733, from the patent office and expect to receive the patent on the invention within the next two or three months.

Hope To Manufacture Here

Both hope to form a manufacturing company here in Cumberland to build the sleds, which will be made in two sizes, one the same as the original and another somewhat smaller. They will distribute the sleds as the Diamond and Thomas Company, they stated.

Called the Adjusto Flyer, the sled actually is the final product of four sleds which Thomas built entirely by hand before he was completely satisfied with his invention.

"I started on it 18 months ago," he said. "And I can remember the first one, a smaller model, was made in the living room of my home. However, when I burned a hole in the rug with a soldering iron, much to my wife's distraction, I had to make the other three models in the attic, he grinned.

Logsdon Admits Stealing Car

Robert Eugene Logsdon, 25, of 305 Broadway is being held in city jail on stolen car charge after being arrested yesterday afternoon by City Police Department detectives.

Logsdon, in a signed statement, admitted to Lt. James E. Van and Detective Leo E. P. Law, he took a two-door sedan belonging to Gene W. Bryan, Kelly Boulevard Apartments, from a parking lot on South Mechanic Street the night of November 27, 1952 and drove it to Ridgeley, W. Va., where he wrecked the vehicle.

Logsdon told police he had used tinfoil under the ignition to start the car.

Married and the father of three children, Logsdon said he returned home following the wreck and was doctored for a cut on his head by his wife.

Several days later he left for Baltimore where he got a job, working until recently, when he returned to Cumberland.

Police said they had been investigating the case for several months and added Logsdon is on parole for stealing a car in Hancock last August and wrecking it.

Three Named In Indictments

Five more indictments were placed on the open docket at the Court House yesterday.

Philip Rowand Wagner, 45, was indicted on three charges of sodomy, involving a trio of Cresaptown youths. Wagner told police he was a native of Pittsburgh, but had lived here since October of 1951. He had been employed at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Heinz A. Schroeder, alias Johann Albert Schroter, was indicted on a charge of bigamy. He allegedly married Elsie Walther in Hudson County, N. J., on December 13, 1947. She is still living and has not been divorced, according to the state's attorney's office.

An indictment was returned against Harvey Clyde Linn on a charge of carnal knowledge.

The Board of Zoning Appeals has tabled until further notice the application of Graham Gray, Midland, to occupy premises at the rear of 132 Polk Street, for the manufacture of hair tonic. The building is located in a Residential C district.

Washington's Headquarters To Open Sunday Afternoon

By C. W. BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

George Washington's headquarters at Riverside Park will be open to the public Sunday afternoon.

The hostesses will be Mary Louise Logsdon and Iris Godlove, of Girl Scout Troop 2, of Pennsylvania Avenue School.

The historic building will be open to the public from 1 to 4 p. m., according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

The cabin, which Colonel Washington occupied in 1755, 1758 and 1794 while the building was a part of Fort Cumberland, was presented to the City of Cumberland 32 years ago this month.

It was first erected by General Braddock's soldiers on the lot adjoining the present Allegany County courthouse. Some years later, it was used as a dwelling until 1844, when the lot was purchased by Judge Thomas Perry.

Presented To City

Judge Perry had his friend, George Blocher, move the cabin to his farm on Bedford Road in order to preserve the historic building.

The building remained on the Bedford Road site until it was purchased by James Walter Thomas, local historian and attorney, who moved it back to Cumberland, had it rebuilt at Riverside Park and presented it to the City of Cumberland on April 21, 1921.

The building was restored by William J. Morley, the contractor who rebuilt the Washington headquarters at Valley Forge.

Except for the tile roof, which was added to preserve it for posterity, the cabin is essentially that which was used by Colonel Washington. Whenever the original walls were too far decayed to be incorporated into the rebuilt structure, the contractor used timbers taken from some of the oldest homes of the city.

Washington, who was the prime mover in the construction of the Potomac Navigation Company and its successor, the C. and O. Canal which was opened to traffic here October 10, 1850, would highly approve of the activity which is to surround his headquarters during the next two years.

Will Build Dam

The E. J. Albrecht Company, low bidder for the construction of the Industrial Dam phase of the Flood Control project, started to move equipment into the park this week.

Mrs. Roeder said the firm has promised at present to avoid disturbing flower beds in the park during the work on the $855,605 project. The work will not disturb the headquarters cabin.

Of interest locally is the fact that a small part of the park still belongs to the Department of the Interior, which holds title to the old C. and O. Canal. The Corps of Engineers is arranging for the transfer of the tiny plot of ground which was part of the wharf of the old canal.

Later, when the dam is completed, Maryland and West Virginia will build a modern bridge above the dam—which is needed to maintain the level of the river for industrial plants—to replace the present Blue Bridge.

Mt. Savage Bus Line Asks First Hike Since 1910

Rinard Requests Five Cent Boost

After 43 years, the Mt. Savage Bus Lines, which operates buses between Mt. Savage and Cumberland is asking for permission to raise its fares.

W. E. Rinard, who took over the line 38 years ago, reports that in the company's entire history the fare has always been 25 cents for the 10-mile trip.

Nowadays, with labor prices on the increase and the competition from private automobiles greater, Rinard's passenger load has come down and he feels he ought to have a raise.

As a result, Rinard went to Baltimore Thursday to petition the Public Service Commission for a hike of five cents a trip.

For nearly all of the 38 years Rinard has operated the system he has managed to support the company and still make some profit. It wasn't until the year before last that he suffered his first loss. Last year his deficit hit $6,000.

"I got along very well until the volume went down and labor costs went up," Rinard concluded.

Smoke Surveyor Elected Mayor Of St. Louis

Raymond R. Tucker, who conducted a survey for the elimination of smoke and dust in Cumberland in the fall of 1951, has just been elected to a four-year term as mayor of St. Louis.

Tucker, a 56-year-old engineering professor on leave from Washington University in St. Louis, was seeking his first elective office after 20 years in civic jobs. He had attracted national attention as anti-smoke director in St. Louis.

In Tuesday's election, Tucker, a Democrat, polled 143,640 votes to 82,207 for Carl G. Stifel, a Republican. Tucker will take office April 21.

Tucker was in Cumberland the weeks of September 10, 1951, and while here consulted industrial and civic leaders in an attempt to solve smoke problems here. His 19-page report listed nine major recommendations to eliminate smoke in Cumberland.

KC Planning Pilgrimage At Frederick

Chief Justice Taney Will Be Honored

Plans will be made in Frederick tomorrow afternoon by area members of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, for an annual pilgrimage to the grave of Chief Justice Roger B. Taney, who is buried in St. John's Catholic Cemetery there.

A delegation from here will visit Frederick to confer with Col. E. H. Holt of the Frederick Historical Society and C. Alton Lipps, marshal of the Charles Carroll of Carrollton Assembly of Baltimore, of which Frederick is a part.

The Cumberland Assembly bears the name of Chief Justice Taney and the delegation will arrange suitable homage and honor to its namesake so active in Catholic action in the United States.

Arthur F. Young, chairman of the local committee last night said plans for the pilgrimage this year call for mass at St. John's Catholic Church on October 11 with a visit to the grave site.

Young noted that Taney was Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court for 28 years and died on October 12, 1864. He served as Attorney General of Maryland from 1827 to 1831 and was Attorney General of the United States from 1831 to 1833 following appointment to the position by President Andrew Jackson.

Taney also served as Secretary of the Treasury from 1833 to 1834.

Weather

Cumberlanders yesterday afternoon enjoyed another warm day which aided fruit trees into bloom. The mercury rose to 72 degrees, according to a report from Constitution Park, the second warmest day of the year. But the weatherman warned orchardists to be on the alert for possible frost tonight as a wide variety of weather swung toward this state. This same prediction fizzled several days ago. The high recorded yesterday was 72 degrees with a low of 52 and at 8 p. m. the mercury registered 57 degrees. Humidity recorded at 6 p. m. was 36 per cent with rainfall at .54 inches. Forecast for today is fair and much cooler.

FRED BLACKWELL

Nation's Growth Within 7 Years Cited In Talk

Chamber Addressed By Fred Blackwell

The tremendous growth expected in the nation within the next seven years was cited last night at a meeting of the National Affairs Committee and Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Guest speaker at Ali Ghan Country Club was Fred Blackwell, program advisor in the Southeastern Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Leadership Responsibility

"This growth calls for the acceptance of responsibility for leadership by every responsible individual in the Cumberlands of this great nation if the future that can be ours is to be realized," Blackwell said.

"What has made this country the greatest nation in the history of the human race has been the freedom with which the citizen has exercised individual initiative and at the same time has maintained a willingness to cooperate with others for the benefit of all.

"Doesn't it stand to reason that if we all work together to make our local community the best possible place in which to live and make a living that this cooperation will be extended to include cooperation between communities? And isn't this the kind of cooperation that has made this country?" the speaker asked.

Expression On Factors

Blackwell then outlined the need for individual consideration and expression on several major issues which are being considered or will be considered by the 83rd Congress.

According to the National Chamber representative, taxes and spending must be considered together. A balanced budget and reduced taxes can be realized this year, Blackwell stated, but whether this important step in strengthening our economy is taken or not rests with the people.

"Our elected representatives are dependent upon us to help them in the creation of sound policies for government," he said. "Our participation in our government, local, state and national will determine in direct proportion the government we receive."

Blackwell informed the group that if proper consideration is to be given the major issues of taxes, expenditure control, labor relations, foreign aid, agriculture aid, federal aid to education, social security and the tideland oils, informed public opinion must become vocal.

Future In Public Hands

"It is not only what our country needs to insure good legislation, but it is our duty as citizens to inform ourselves on major issues and give our legislators the benefit of our thinking in the areas wherein we are qualified to speak," the speaker continued.

"The future of this great nation is in our hands," Blackwell warned, "and we have an opportunity to do something about it. Whether we, as citizens, do something about it or not will decide if the competitive free enterprise system, as we know it, will be continued or destroyed."

In closing, the National Chamber representative invited the membership of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce to attend the annual meeting of the National Chamber in Washington during April 26, 27, 28 and 29. He assured the group that this would be one of the year's outstanding gatherings of business men and would be of great interest to wives as well as business men.

Professor To Speak

Dr. William C. Waltemyer, professor at Gettysburg, Pa., College, will speak at the regular 11 a. m. church service Sunday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in the absence of Rev. Dr. H. T. Bowersox, pastor, who is ill.

Carver Students To Make Plans For Rec Program

Preliminary Session Set Monday At 2 P. M.

Carver High School students will meet Monday at 2 p. m. at the school to make plans for a social and recreation program.

Attending the meeting planned in the school assembly room will be a special committee named to assist in the program and Ralph L. Lewis, program secretary of Central YMCA.

The committee named by Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, met in City Hall yesterday with Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, to begin mapping the program.

The group suggested a two-fold plan for the immediate program. The first is the Teen Age Club, to be organized to provide activities requested by the Carver students, and second, to investigate the possibility of securing the use of the Maryland State Armory for skating.

Bracey said the club will be modeled after the Rec. Club which is operated by Central YMCA on Friday nights.

The committee also reported that parents of the students will be asked to cooperate in the plans by acting as chaperones for the parties. The faculty of the school will aid in planning the activities, but the program is to be worked out by students to meet their needs.

The committee moved yesterday to plan immediate action following a mass meeting held in City Hall Auditorium Thursday night.
